Truman Denies Demos Planning To 'Dump' Adlai

Party Political Pot Set Boiling

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman and other Democratic leaders set the party's political pot boiling today regarding next year's presidential nominee.

They voiced a variety of statements on party prospects. The gist however, was hardly more than confirmation of what has appeared evident for quite some time:

Adlai Stevenson, the former Illinois governor who was defeated by President Eisenhower four years ago, and New York's Gov. Averell Harriman are the top men in the nomination picture at the moment.

Wagner Backs Stevenson

There were, though, these developments:

1. Truman denied a Republican charge there may be afoot a move to "dump" Stevenson before the Democratic convention.

2. New York's Mayor Robert F. Wagner said he feels Stevenson is the strongest candidate now, and that he is for Stevenson. But he said he will continue his support only as long as Stevenson appears to hold his strength.

3. Carmine DeSapio, a party kingpin who played a leading role in Harriman's election as governor, repeated he favors Harriman as "a favorite son candidate of the New York delegation."

Oklahoma "Neutral"

4. Gov. Raymond Gary of Oklahoma, a Democratic governor of a normally Democratic state, said he believed Oklahoma would go for either Stevenson or Harriman.

5. All agreed the prime task ahead is to pick the man who can win.

On two different occasions during the day Truman took pains to reemphasize that, as he has stated before, he is not making any choice between Stevenson and Harriman.

"I have no candidate, except I want a winner when the Democratic convention acts . . . I've made it perfectly clear on a number of occasions. They're both good men."

French Cabinet Acts To Clarify Algerian Policy

PARIS, Oct. 11 (AP) — France's Cabinet hammered out a set of proposals tonight intended to clarify the government's reform policies aimed at restoring peace in Algeria.

The Cabinet met as a three-day debate opened in the National Assembly with Communist denunciations of the military reprisals taken against Algeria's Moslem population after the Sept. 20 uprisings.

Ministers directly concerned with the problem attended the Cabinet session, along with Jacques Soustelle, governor general of Algeria. An announcement after the meeting said merely that agreement was reached on measures to be presented before year's end to the Algerian Assembly, which is made up of two houses with French and Moslem representatives sitting separately. The measures will cover proposed long-term political, economic, administrative and social reforms.

Interior Minister Maurice Bourges-Maunoury is known to believe, however, that immediate changes are needed in Paris' governmental contact with Algeria. Such changes, looking toward closer integration of Algeria with France, may be spelled out by the interior minister in an address to the National Assembly tomorrow.

The Communists, as the Algeria debate opened, blasted the government both for its reprisals against the Algerian population and for the military plans to restore order.

It was on the basis of the contention that Algeria is an integral part of France that Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay walked out of the U. N. General Assembly when that body voted to conduct a debate on the troubled area.

Daring Jewel Robbery Pulled

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 11 (AP)—Burglars touched off an alarm when they threw open the door of a jewelry store today but escaped with 150 pounds of jewels valued at $189,000 before police arrived six minutes later.

The gems were stored in two 75-pound sample cases on rollers. The cases were pushed behind a counter because they were too bulky to go into the safe.

Detective Lt. C. O. Huttoe said the burglars, apparently professionals, knew the burglar alarm would go off when they opened the door of Kirk's Jewelers in midtown Miami. He said two or three men apparently took part in the theft.

The thieves knocked out the front door lock to gain entrance at 7 a. m. George Geminick, a special policeman for the burglar alarm service, was first man to the scene. A Miami policeman arrived four minutes later.

"Curious" D.C. Spinster Winds Up Russian Tour

MOSCOW, Oct. 11 (AP)—Charl Ormond Williams, a spry, 70-year-old spinster from Washington, D. C., caught her breath in Moscow today after an eventful 10,000-mile tour of the Soviet Union.

She came, she said, "out of sheer curiosity—I wanted to see the Russian people."

Miss Williams, former Democratic national committeewoman from Tennessee and once president of the National Education Association, said she needed to rest here a bit because she's going on to Athens, Istanbul, Saudi Arabia and Cairo.

Miss Williams, trim, white-haired and apparently tireless, visited collective farms, churches, factories, schools and museums. She is trying to arrange an interview with Mrs. Bulganin, wife of the Soviet Premier, to discuss their mutual interest—education. Mrs. Bulganin reportedly teaches English in Moscow schools. Miss Williams speaks Russian.

She said she shared a sleeping car compartment with two men on the train from Kiev to Moscow, "but being a perfect lady I never opened my eyes." (Soviet train accommodations do not discriminate between the sexes.)

"I don't think they want war," she said.

Prop Plants Send Movie Elephant Off On Rampage

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11 (AP)—The prop jungle plants looked tasty to old Emma, a veteran movie elephant, but when she found they were made of rubber she tossed two actors off her back and crushed her trainer.

Old Emma, used in jungle movies for 30 years, sent actor Vito Scotti, 25, to the hospital with a brain concussion; shook up actor Nino Marcel, 21, and inflicted internal injuries on trainer William Gamble, 27.

The big beast was working in the "Andy Devine's Gang" television series when the phoney diet made her trumpeting mad. Gamble tried to stop her from eating the rubber plants but Emma wouldn't obey. She started to shake and the two actors, riding on her back, landed on the floor. Then Emma went after Gamble, pinning him against a wall.

Producer Frank Perrin commanded the beast to stop—and she did.

WIFE-SLAYER — Joseph Murphy, 34, wears a grim expression at Nassau County police headquarters in Mineola, N. Y., after police said yesterday he confessed strangling his wife, Diane, 32, in their Hempstead, N. Y., home. Police said Murphy told them he had brooded over suspicions that his wife had been unfaithful. He took their four children to his mother's home before giving himself up. (AP Photofax)

Troops Enforce Martial Law As Plant Reopens

NEW CASTLE, Ind., Oct. 11 (AP)—A skeleton force of 84 workers reopened the Perfect Circle Corp. foundry today while almost 1,000 National Guard troops enforced martial law in three cities.

Rifle-carrying National Guardsmen outnumbered the five CIO United Auto Workers pickets marching quietly in a litter of stones and broken glass still left from a riot last Wednesday in which eight persons were wounded. Four tanks and sandbagged machinegun emplacements were set up about the little foundry. A court order restricts the pickets to five.

Chesley Juday, foundry manager, said full production will be resumed Wednesday in the little piston ring foundry, which normally employs a production force of only 260 workers. He said the doors will be open "to anyone who wants to work."

Strike Began July 25

The company didn't say how many workers entered the struck plants in Hagerstown and Richmond, which have been operating ever since the violent strike started July 25.

However, the company has been claiming as many as 70 per cent of the 1,300 production workers have been on the job in the four struck plants in Eastern Indiana. Some have been hired since the strike. The home plant at Hagerstown normally has a production force of 730; the two Richmond plants 335.

UAW protested the martial law order, and officials indicated they would attempt no demonstrations or negotiations "within the shadow of fixed bayonets and tanks."

Troops To Be Relieved

Adj. Gen. Harold A. Doherty said he "hopes" strike tensions will subside enough to reduce the number of troops by next weekend. New troops will relieve the present Guard Thursday.

Guardsmen opened a U-shaped street leading to the plant, allowing anyone on it without challenge.

However, the Guard has roadblocks on all highways leading into New Castle and Hagerstown, 11 miles to the east, confiscating any liquor or firearms being brought in.

New Tube Will Bring TV Into More Homes

OWENSBORO, Ky., Oct. 11 (AP)—General Electric Co. announced today it has developed a tiny vacuum tube that will enable thousands of additional outlying homes to receive television.

L. B. Davis, manager of the receiving tube department, said the tube will amplify the ultra-high frequency signal of receiving sets in a manner that will have the same result as increasing the power of TV stations.

He said the tube, built entirely of metal and ceramics, is about the length of a paper clip and no bigger around than a pencil eraser.

Before the tube can be put to use, he said, new tuners and converters adaptable to them must be developed.

Hector McNeil Dies

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Hector McNeil, 48, formerly the No. 2 man in the British Labor government's Foreign Office, died today in a hospital.

McNeil had been gravely ill for one week with a brain hemorrhage. He suffered the hemorrhage on board the liner Queen Mary as the vessel neared the American shore.

Russia Conditionally Agrees To Plan For Atomic Agency

Soviets Insist On "Open" Unit And Veto Right

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 11 (AP)—The Soviet Union today conditionally approved establishment of an international agency to supervise President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace plan.

It hedged with provisos that the agency must be subject on vital security matters to the veto-bound U.N. Security Council and must be wide open to all countries, including Red China and East Germany.

The Soviet reaction to the proposed agency statute was given in the U. N. Assembly's Political Committee by V. V. Kuznetsov, Soviet first deputy foreign minister. He renewed Prime Minister Bulganin's pledge at the Geneva Big Four conference to give fissionable material to an international fund once it has been established. He also called for another conference on peaceful use of the atom before 1957.

West Is Encouraged

Paul Martin, Canadian minister of national health and welfare, told the committee he noted with approval the decision of the Soviet government to support the creation of an international agency. He and other Western sources said the Soviet ideas would be studied closely. The West professed to be encouraged by what delegates called the apparent desire of the Russians to join an international agency.

A spokesman said Morehead Patterson, representative of Secretary of State Dulles in drawing up the proposed statute, would not comment. He said comment would have to come from Dulles.

The United States has advocated linking the proposed agency to the U. N. on the same relationship of a specialized agency. This means it would report to the U. N. but would run its own affairs by its own constitution and budget.

U. S. Position Also Adamant

The U. S. position also has been adamant against any veto on day-to-day decisions of the agency. However, the United States has recognized that any matter affecting the vital security of a state would be a grave issue and the U. N. Security Council would have to act.

The United States, Britain, France, China and the Soviet Union hold the power of veto in the Council.

Kuznetsov introduced a resolution expressing hope for an early establishment of the international agency within the framework of the U. N. He also proposed creation of an international periodical covering the problems of peaceful use of the atom.

Robeson Undergoes Abdominal Operation

NEW YORK, Oct. (AP) — Paul Robeson, 57-year-old Negro singer and supporter of left wing political causes, has undergone an abdominal operation.

Sydenham Hospital, where the operation was performed yesterday, reported today his condition was satisfactory but no details of his ailment.

Guardsmen Search Workers' Cars

Guardsmen search autos as workers arrive at the reopened Perfect Circle Corp. foundry at New Castle, Ind., scene of violence last week when eight persons were wounded in an exchange of gunfire. Transit Strike Deals St. Louis Crippling Blow

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 11 (AP)—A sudden and unannounced transit strike struck the metropolitan St. Louis area a crippling blow today and buses and streetcars stayed idle with strikers ignoring a state order to return to work.

A general meeting of the striking AFL Operators Union was scheduled at 8 p.m. to consider further action.

But Arthur E. East, union president, said late today he did not believe all union members could be persuaded to return to work until after another general membership meeting of the union scheduled to start at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

The strike was voted last night. Operations of the St. Louis Public Service Co. came to a standstill shortly after midnight, and Gov. Phil M. Donnelly of Missouri ordred seizure of the utility by the state, effective at 6 a.m.

Donnelly sent telegrams from Jefferson City ordering the seizure.

After receiving the governor's telegram Arthur E. East, president of the union, told newsmen "we will respect the law."

"If the state has seized the company, our officers will do what they can to get the men back to work."

Whether some 1,900 striking operators would heed union orders to return to their jobs remained unanswered.

Austria Given Red Tanks

VIENNA, Oct. 11 (AP) — Twenty-three Soviet T34 tanks arrived today in Vienna as a gift for the Austrian army.

Sightless Collie Finds New Home Following Appeal

MUSKEGON, Mich., Oct. 11 (AP)—A plea for a "Seeing-Eye" master for a blind dog flooded the Muskegon Humane Society with eager applicants today.

Within two hours after a newspaper story and picture appeared about Kelly the blind collie, Mr. and Mrs. Len King of nearby Holton had carried her off to replace another pet which died.

Kelly, a friendly 18-month-old collie lost her sight from a head injury suffered as a puppy. Her former owners gave her up when they moved and the Humane Society appealed for a sympathetic master for the blind dog.

Adenauer Is Ill With Pneumonia

BONN, Germany, Oct. 11 (AP) — West Germany's 79-year-old Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has pneumonia.

The sudden announcement today of his serious illness shocked the nation.

His physicians said Adenauer must remain in bed indefinitely. Vice-Chancellor Franz Bluecher took over as acting chief of government.

Adenauer has been confined to his Rhineland village home five days. But until today his illness was described first as a cold and then as feverish bronchitis.

A special medical bulletin — the first issued since he became chancellor six years ago — finally disclosed that the feverish bronchitis has been "complicated by a slight bronchial pneumonia."

The bulletin said the inflammation of the lungs "is fading away" and "the fever has abated."

It was signed by Prof. Paul Martini, director of the Bonn University Medical Clinic, and Adenauer's family doctor, Frau Ella Bebber-Buch.

Navy Suspends Fury Jet Flight Operations

NORFOLK, Va. Oct. 11 (AP) —The Navy said today regular flight operations of its FJ3 Fury Jet have been suspended pending studies of why its engine apparently overheats under certain conditions.

A Navy spokesman indicated, however, that the fighter's troubles are relatively minor and expressed the hope that they will be cleared up "in a matter of a couple of weeks."

The Navy meanwhile is flying the Fury only on controlled test operations to gather data for the studies. Two squadrons of Furies are based at the nearby Oceana Naval Air Station. About 15 per cent of them are taking part in the tests. Fury engines are being modified there and elswhere to compensate for overheating and problems resulting from it. One of the measures taken is the rerouting of the airflow.

Gruenther Tells NATO To Unify Aerial Defense

PARIS, Oct. 11 (AP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther today told European defense ministers they must unify their air defense systems if they hope to shield their populations from surprise aerial assault.

The supreme Allied commander in Europe, at a secret briefing, pointed to air defenses as the "greatest single weakness" of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Europe. Officials who heard the general recounted the gist of his remarks to newsmen later.

Gruenther said only integration can provide Western Europe with an adequate early warning system. He cited a similar integration of American and Canadian warning systems as an example, then warned:

"In North America, the flying time from Communist bases to Allied targets is measured in hours. But here in Europe it is measured in minutes."

The commander termed the present system in Europe "archaic" because of a lack of coordination. In Europe, air defense is now a national responsibility, under the air ministry of each member nation, with little or no coordination of civil defense or air defense proper.

Gruenther suggested a pool of air defenses under four commands —North Europe, Central Europe, Southern Europe plus the Mediterranean area, and the British Isles.

'Honest Johns' In Italy

Legionnaires March In Rain Following Four-Hour Delay

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 11 (AP) — The American Legion marched tonight — 25,000 strong — through heavy showers after waiting almost four hours for Miami's traditionally clear skies to prevail.

It was the first time a Legion national parade started in darkness, although many of their lengthy processions over the past 37 years have ended after nightfall.

The parade—the largest annually in the United States, with 100 bands and 51 floats in line this year had been scheduled to start at 4:30 p.m. EST. It was then put off to 8 p.m. in a vain hope the skies would clear.

Then it was now or never, convention business being on schedule tomorrow. The skies cleared momentarily just before the start of the parade but less than half an hour later a downpour drenched the marchers.

Despite the weather, throngs of spectators lined Biscayne Boulevard, most wearing raincoats or carrying umbrellas.

The marchers were drenched to the skin. The rain flattened the colorful costumes of the drum majorettes.

Floats that cost thousands of dollars and were months in preparation wilted under the downpour.

But the spectators applauded loudly when the marchers paraded by, completely ignoring the pelting rains.

The parade was headed by regular military units.

Although this was an off-day for actual convention sessions, there was plenty of background activity.

Legion bigwigs wrestled in a closed meeting with the question of what approach to take regarding UNESCO—the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Strong opposition has developed to a legion special committee report that described UNESCO as neither Communist, atheistic nor in favor of world government.

Eisenhower, Dulles Meet 25 Minutes

President Replies To Bulganin Letter On Disarmament

DENVER, Oct. 11 (AP)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles discussed today Soviet activities in the inflamed Middle East and Russian ideas on armaments in a momentous hospital bedside conference on foreign policy.

One by one, the chief executive and the secretary covered eight separate points in a 25-minute work session Dulles described as "very satisfactory" and "extremely helpful."

In their first conference since Eisenhower's Sept. 24 heart attack the two worked out an "interim" reply to a letter in which Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin had found fault with the President's proposals for trading military blueprints and for mutual aerial inspection of military installations.

Reply Not Made Public

Eisenhower signed the reply a few minutes later. It was delivered to Dulles to carry back to Washington for transmission to Moscow and it will be made public, the secretary said, after it is received in the Russian capital.

Another of the eight points — Dulles declined to disclose all of them on grounds security is involved — was preparations for the Oct. 27 meeting in Geneva of the Big Four foreign ministers.

In addition, Dulles told a news conference, Eisenhower asked for a report on the secretary's speech yesterday at the American Legion convention in Miami. In that address Dulles said that at this time the United States is not prepared to reduce military forces until it can be sure other countries also are doing so.

Dulles said the President was "very much pleased" with what he said.

Meeting Extended

The agenda of the Geneva foreign ministers' session had been described in advance as the main topic the chief executive and the secretary would discuss. Actually their talks apparently ranged over a far broader field.

And, whereas the President's doctors had said the meeting would be limited to 15 minutes, Eisenhower's condition and spirits were so satisfactory after the morning examinations that they allowed an extra 10.

Furthermore, Dulles told newsmen the conference was just what the doctors had said it would be in one respect—"There was nothing of a rubber stamp nature about the meeting."

On each of the items that were taken up, he said, "the President had positive suggestions of his own to make, which I found extremely helpful."

19 Americans' Release Discussed At Peiping

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Britain's envoy in Peiping has opened new secret talks with Communist China aimed at speeding the release of 19 captive Americans, diplomatic officials reported tonight.

Con O'Neill, British charge d'affaires, has been assigned to act for any American who wishes to leave Red China, but so far he has not been allowed to see any of them in jail, the informants said.

The Communist Chinese regime has made it plain, however, that O'Neill will be notified of the results of each individual prisoner's trial as it takes place.

Rocket To Help Scientists Probe Dawn, Dusk Secrets

ALAMOGORDO, N. M. 11 (AP)—Air Force scientists tomorrow night will hurtle a rocket 40 to 70 miles above earth to probe secrets of dawn and dusk.

An Aerobee rocket — providing weather conditions are near perfect — is to smash from the earth into the upper atmosphere at approximately 20 minutes after sunset loaded with a mechanism which artificially releases metallic sodium to glow in the upper atmosphere.

What is planned was first billed as the widely publicized artificial moon experiment.

The Air Force says the experiment is no such thing. In technical language the firing from nearby Holloman Air Development Center is "not designed to produce the appearance of a large cloud covering a great part of the sky nor an artificial moon." What it will do, no one knows.

"The narrow volume of vapor may be made visible by the emission of the characteristic column of yellow sodium light and also by scattered sunlight from the cloud," an Air Force announcement said. "The latter source would give a continuous spectrum. The visibility of the cloud from the ground will depend on the efficiency of the process producing the sodium light. The yellow light may be so feeble that it can only be detected by sensitive instruments."

But, the announcement added, the process "may be bright enough to be seen with the unaided eye."

Gruenther Tells NATO To Unify Aerial Defense

PARIS, Oct. 11 (AP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther today told European defense ministers they must unify their air defense systems if they hope to shield their populations from surprise aerial assault.

The supreme Allied commander in Europe, at a secret briefing, pointed to air defenses as the "greatest single weakness" of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Europe. Officials who heard the general recounted the gist of his remarks to newsmen later.

Gruenther said only integration can provide Western Europe with an adequate early warning system. He cited a similar integration of American and Canadian warning systems as an example, then warned:

"In North America, the flying time from Communist bases to Allied targets is measured in hours. But here in Europe it is measured in minutes."

The commander termed the present system in Europe "archaic" because of a lack of coordination. In Europe, air defense is now a national responsibility, under the air ministry of each member nation, with little or no coordination of civil defense or air defense proper.

Gruenther suggested a pool of air defenses under four commands —North Europe, Central Europe, Southern Europe plus the Mediterranean area, and the British Isles.

Adenauer Is Ill With Pneumonia

BONN, Germany, Oct. 11 (AP) — West Germany's 79-year-old Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has pneumonia.

The sudden announcement today of his serious illness shocked the nation.

His physicians said Adenauer must remain in bed indefinitely. Vice-Chancellor Franz Bluecher took over as acting chief of government.

Adenauer has been confined to his Rhineland village home five days. But until today his illness was described first as a cold and then as feverish bronchitis.

A special medical bulletin — the first issued since he became chancellor six years ago — finally disclosed that the feverish bronchitis has been "complicated by a slight bronchial pneumonia."

The bulletin said the inflammation of the lungs "is fading away" and "the fever has abated."

It was signed by Prof. Paul Martini, director of the Bonn University Medical Clinic, and Adenauer's family doctor, Frau Ella Bebber-Buch.

Austria Given Red Tanks

'Honest Johns' In Italy

Navy Suspends Fury Jet Flight Operations

NORFOLK, Va. Oct. 11 (AP) —The Navy said today regular flight operations of its FJ3 Fury Jet have been suspended pending studies of why its engine apparently overheats under certain conditions.

A Navy spokesman indicated, however, that the fighter's troubles are relatively minor and expressed the hope that they will be cleared up "in a matter of a couple of weeks."

The Navy meanwhile is flying the Fury only on controlled test operations to gather data for the studies. Two squadrons of Furies are based at the nearby Oceana Naval Air Station. About 15 per cent of them are taking part in the tests. Fury engines are being modified there and elswhere to compensate for overheating and problems resulting from it. One of the measures taken is the rerouting of the airflow.

Eisenhower, Dulles Meet 25 Minutes

President Replies To Bulganin Letter On Disarmament

DENVER, Oct. 11 (AP)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles discussed today Soviet activities in the inflamed Middle East and Russian ideas on armaments in a momentous hospital bedside conference on foreign policy.

One by one, the chief executive and the secretary covered eight separate points in a 25-minute work session Dulles described as "very satisfactory" and "extremely helpful."

In their first conference since Eisenhower's Sept. 24 heart attack, the two worked out an "interim" reply to a letter in which Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin had found fault with the President's proposals for trading military blueprints and for mutual aerial inspection of military installations.

Reply Not Made Public

Eisenhower signed the reply a few minutes later. It was delivered to Dulles to carry back to Washington for transmission to Moscow and it will be made public, the secretary said, after it is received in the Russian capital.

Another of the eight points — Dulles declined to disclose all of them on grounds security is involved — was preparations for the Oct. 27 meeting in Geneva of the Big Four foreign ministers.

In addition, Dulles told a news conference, Eisenhower asked for a report on the secretary's speech yesterday at the American Legion convention in Miami. In that address Dulles said that at this time the United States is not prepared to reduce military forces until it can be sure other countries also are doing so.

Dulles said the President was "very much pleased" with what he said.

Meeting Extended

The agenda of the Geneva foreign ministers' session had been described in advance as the main topic the chief executive and the secretary would discuss. Actually, their talks apparently ranged over a far broader field.

And, whereas the President's doctors had said the meeting would be limited to 15 minutes, Eisenhower's condition and spirits were so satisfactory after the morning examinations that they allowed an extra 10.

Furthermore, Dulles told newsmen the conference was just what the doctors had said it would be in one respect—"There was nothing of a rubber stamp nature about the meeting."

On each of the items that were taken up, he said, "the President had positive suggestions of his own to make, which I found extremely helpful."

19 Americans' Release Discussed At Peiping

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Britain's envoy in Peiping has opened new secret talks with Communist China aimed at speeding the release of 19 captive Americans, diplomatic officials reported tonight.

Con O'Neill, British charge d'affaires, has been assigned to act for any American who wishes to leave Red China, but so far he has not been allowed to see any of them in jail, the informants said.

The Communist Chinese regime has made it plain, however, that O'Neill will be notified of the results of each individual prisoner's trial as it takes place.

Daring Jewel Robbery Pulled

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 11 (AP)—Burglars touched off an alarm when they threw open the door of a jewelry store today but escaped with 150 pounds of jewels valued at $189,000 before police arrived six minutes later.

The gems were stored in two 75-pound sample cases on rollers. The cases were pushed behind a counter because they were too bulky to go into the safe.

Detective Lt. C. O. Huttoe said the burglars, apparently professionals, knew the burglar alarm would go off when they opened the door of Kirk's Jewelers in midtown Miami. He said two or three men apparently took part in the theft.

The thieves knocked out the front door lock to gain entrance at 7 a. m. George Geminick, a special policeman for the burglar alarm service, was first man to the scene. A Miami policeman arrived four minutes later.

Prop Plants Send Movie Elephant Off On Rampage

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11 (AP)—The prop jungle plants looked tasty to old Emma, a veteran movie elephant, but when she found they were made of rubber she tossed two actors off her back and crushed her trainer.

Old Emma, used in jungle movies for 30 years, sent actor Vito Scotti, 25, to the hospital with a brain concussion; shook up actor Nino Marcel, 21, and inflicted internal injuries on trainer William Gamble, 27.

The big beast was working in the "Andy Devine's Gang" television series when the phoney diet made her trumpeting mad. Gamble tried to stop her from eating the rubber plants but Emma wouldn't obey. She started to shake and the two actors, riding on her back, landed on the floor. Then Emma went after Gamble, pinning him against a wall.

Producer Frank Perrin commanded the beast to stop—and she did.

New Tube Will Bring TV Into More Homes

OWENSBORO, Ky., Oct. 11 (AP)—General Electric Co. announced today it has developed a tiny vacuum tube that will enable thousands of additional outlying homes to receive television.

L. B. Davis, manager of the receiving tube department, said the tube will amplify the ultra-high frequency signal of receiving sets in a manner that will have the same result as increasing the power of TV stations.

He said the tube, built entirely of metal and ceramics, is about the length of a paper clip and no bigger around than a pencil eraser.

Before the tube can be put to use, he said, new tuners and converters adaptable to them must be developed.

Hector McNeil Dies

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Hector McNeil, 48, formerly the No. 2 man in the British Labor government's Foreign Office, died today in a hospital.

McNeil had been gravely ill for one week with a brain hemorrhage. He suffered the hemorrhage on board the liner Queen Mary as the vessel neared the American shore.

"Curious" D.C. Spinster Winds Up Russian Tour

MOSCOW, Oct. 11 (AP)—Charl Ormond Williams, a spry, 70-year-old spinster from Washington, D. C., caught her breath in Moscow today after an eventful 10,000-mile tour of the Soviet Union.

She came, she said, "out of sheer curiosity—I wanted to see the Russian people."

Miss Williams, former Democratic national committeewoman from Tennessee and once president of the National Education Association, said she needed to rest here a bit because she's going on to Athens, Istanbul, Saudi Arabia and Cairo.

Miss Williams, trim, white-haired and apparently tireless, visited collective farms, churches, factories, schools and museums. She is trying to arrange an interview with Mrs. Bulganin, wife of the Soviet Premier, to discuss their mutual interest—education. Mrs. Bulganin reportedly teaches English in Moscow schools. Miss Williams speaks Russian.

She said she shared a sleeping car compartment with two men on the train from Kiev to Moscow, "but being a perfect lady I never opened my eyes." (Soviet train accommodations do not discriminate between the sexes.)

"I don't think they want war," she said.

Legionnaires March In Rain Following Four-Hour Delay

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 11 (AP) — The American Legion marched tonight — 25,000 strong — through heavy showers after waiting almost four hours for Miami's traditionally clear skies to prevail.

It was the first time a Legion national parade started in darkness, although many of their lengthy processions over the past 37 years have ended after nightfall.

The parade—the largest annually in the United States, with 100 bands and 51 floats in line this year had been scheduled to start at 4:30 p.m. EST. It was then put off to 8 p.m. in a vain hope the skies would clear.

Then it was now or never, convention business being on schedule tomorrow. The skies cleared momentarily just before the start of the parade but less than half an hour later a downpour drenched the marchers.

Despite the weather, throngs of spectators lined Biscayne Boulevard, most wearing raincoats or carrying umbrellas.

The marchers were drenched to the skin. The rain flattened the colorful costumes of the drum majorettes.

Floats that cost thousands of dollars and were months in preparation wilted under the downpour.

But the spectators applauded loudly when the marchers paraded by, completely ignoring the pelting rains.

The parade was headed by regular military units.

Although this was an off-day for actual convention sessions, there was plenty of background activity.

Legion bigwigs wrestled in a closed meeting with the question of what approach to take regarding UNESCO—the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Strong opposition has developed to a legion special committee report that described UNESCO as neither Communist, atheistic nor in favor of world government.

Rocket To Help Scientists Probe Dawn, Dusk Secrets

ALAMOGORDO, N. M. 11 (AP)—Air Force scientists tomorrow night will hurtle a rocket 40 to 70 miles above earth to probe secrets of dawn and dusk.

An Aerobee rocket — providing weather conditions are near perfect — is to smash from the earth into the upper atmosphere at approximately 20 minutes after sunset loaded with a mechanism which artificially releases metallic sodium to glow in the upper atmosphere.

What is planned was first billed as the widely publicized artificial moon experiment.

The Air Force says the experiment is no such thing. In technical language the firing from nearby Holloman Air Development Center is "not designed to produce the appearance of a large cloud covering a great part of the sky nor an artificial moon." What it will do, no one knows.

"The narrow volume of vapor may be made visible by the emission of the characteristic column of yellow sodium light and also by scattered sunlight from the cloud," an Air Force announcement said. "The latter source would give a continuous spectrum. The visibility of the cloud from the ground will depend on the efficiency of the process producing the sodium light. The yellow light may be so feeble that it can only be detected by sensitive instruments."

But, the announcement added, the process "may be bright enough to be seen with the unaided eye."

Truman Says:

Red Pledge To War On Japs Potsdam's Only Secret Accord

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP) — Former President Truman says the only secret agreement made at the 1945 Potsdam conference was a pledge by the late Premier Stalin that the Soviet Union would carry out its commitment to join the war against Japan.

In the latest installment of his memoirs, published in Life Magazine, Truman also says he would not go along with a Soviet proposal that the United States, England and other allies in the Pacific War issue a formal invitation for Russia to get into the fighting.

"I saw in it," Truman says, "a cynical diplomatic move to make Russia's entry at this time appear to be the decisive factor to bring about victory. . . I was not willing to let Russia reap the fruits of a long and bitter and gallant effort in which she had no part."

All the same, the former president relates, getting Russia into the Japanese War was one of the main reasons for his going to Potsdam. Russia had promised at Yalta the year before to join the Pacific fighting after V-E Day. Truman says U. S. military leaders were "most anxious" to get a firm commitment that the Soviets would follow through.

"This I was able to get from Stalin in the very first days of the conference," Truman says. "We were at war, and all military arrangements had to be kept secret, and for this reason it was omitted from the official communique at the end of the conference. This was the only secret agreement made at Potsdam."

Truman says the bitterest debate at his Potsdam meeting with Stalin and Winston Churchill — who was replaced as British prime minister part way through the conference by Clement Attlee — was over the Soviet satellite states.

He relates that Churchill declared an "Iron Fence" had been thrown around these countries, in violation of guarantees Russia had given at Yalta. And he says Stalin interrupted the British leader with the remark: "All fairy tales."

Despite a "sharp and lengthy" exchange, Truman says, no agreement ever was reached. Today, 10 years later, the question of the Red satellites still is one of the most important differences between East and West.

McKay Assailed By Demo Digest

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Democratic Digest said in its November issue today there is a "growing clamor" for the retirement of Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay, whom the publication termed "The Giveaway King."

McKay shot back with an immediate reply. In a statement issued through the Republican National Committee, he described the Digest's outburst as "a typical example of a misguided missile powered with hot air."

The Democratic National Committee publication accused McKay of following policies of "favoritism to business and industry." It said among other things that the public power program of previous administrations has been brought to a "virtual standstill" under the former Oregon governor.

The Digest also said the present administration has acted to give the Hells Canyon Dam site to the Idaho Power Co. despite a finding of a hearing examiner that a high federal dam would be "dollar for dollar the best investment and the more ideal development."

McCarthy Given Applause, Kamin Wins Mistrial

BOSTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—U.S. Dist. Judge Bailey Aldrich today declared a mistrial in the contempt case of Leon J. Kamin because of frequent bursts of applause outside the courtroom as Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) came and went through the corridors.

The judge's action thus ended the trial almost before it had begun—on its first day, and shortly after the selection of a jury of 11 men and one woman.

The jury was dismissed and a new jury-waived trial was ordered to begin tomorrow.

Kamin, a research associate at Queens University, Kingston, Ont., was charged with contempt of Congress in failing to answer questions put to him by McCarthy at a hearing of the Senate Investigating subcommittee here on Jan. 15, 1954. He came here voluntarily for trial.

Judge Aldrich explained to the jury that he was declaring a mistrial because of the "frequent outbursts of applause."

"Such applause," he said, "is entirely foreign to a federal court case.

"It must have come to your attention," he told the jury, "and even if you didn't hear it the newspapers will acquaint you with the details."

Kamin, a former Harvard research assistant, was asked if he thought his rights had been prejudiced by the applause and Kamin said he thought they had.

British Bolster Cyprus Forces

LONDON, Oct. 11 (AP)—Britain today ordered troop reinforcements to strife-torn Cyprus, Eastern Mediterranean island bastion swept by rioting and bomb-throwing.

The first battalion of the Gordon Highlanders — about 600 infantrymen — will fly to Cyprus Friday.

The War Office order came shortly after Field Marshal Sir John Harding, new governor of Cyprus, assumed complete control of the island's security arrangements, supplanting other officers.

Earlier Sir John sought a compromise on the colony's future with Archbishop Makarios, leader of the Enosis (union with Greece) movement. They met in a final parley today. When the talks broke down, Harding apparently called for reinforcements from Britain.

Restaurant Owner Held In Fatal Shooting

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP) — A restaurant owner, charged with homicide in the fatal shooting of a customer, was held for the grand jury today.

Bill Kritsotis, owner of the Coney Island Restaurant, was charged with the shooting of Willie Holloway, 27, who resided in the northeast area of Washington where the restaurant is located.

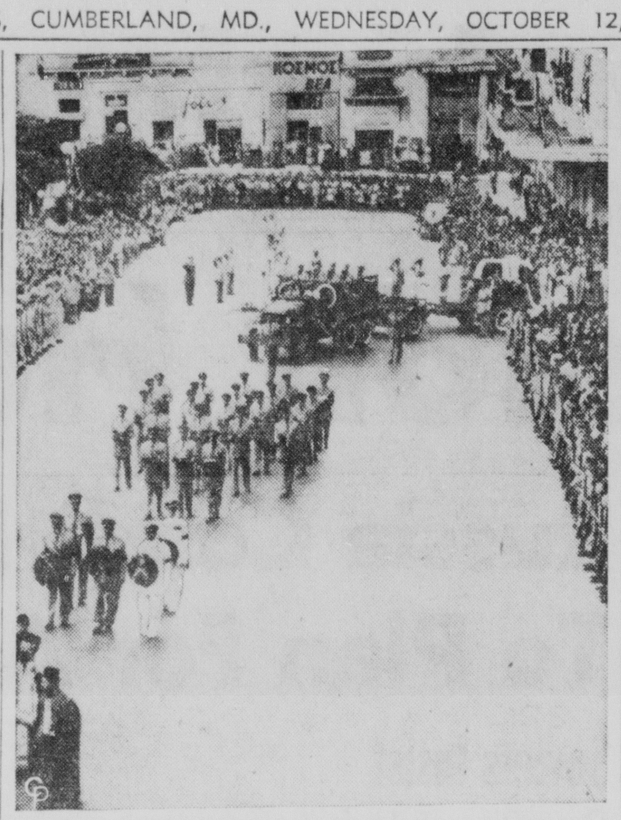

Police said they were given this account:

Holloway created a nuisance in the restaurant last night during an argument with a girl. Kritsotis called police. They ordered Holloway to leave. He returned later and accused Kritsotis of having called the police. Holloway made threats and lunged at Kritsotis, who pulled out a pistol and fired six times.

Stainless Steel Money

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP) — The little Central American republic of Costa Rica has gone from the gold and silver standard to the steel standard, it was reported today.

Costa Rica, which means "Rich Shore," and was thus named because of its abundant deposits of gold, is now using stainless steel coins for money, according to the Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp.

Road Gang Escapee Ordered Back To Ga.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11 (AP)—Although he pleaded that he feared for his life, John Henry Austin, 50, today was ordered back to Georgia, where he escaped from a prison road gang 16 years ago.

Austin has just finished serving a 12-year term in Maryland penitentiary for the death of his wife. Georgia authorities had a detainer against him and he has been fighting extradition.

"I feel I might not live after I get back down there," he said. Judge Joseph L Carter found there was no legal ground on which he could deny Georgia's extradition request and told Austin the treatment of prisoners in Georgia may have improved in 16 years.

VIGO, Spain, Oct. 11 (AP) — The 250-ton Spanish freghter Conde de Barbate sank today after a collision with the French liner Colombie. Two crewmen drowned and three others are missing.

Million-Dollar TV Contract Given Up By Imogene Coca

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Wide-eyed Imogene Coca was disclosed today to have voluntarily given up a million-dollar television contract.

The comedienne, whose emoting as Sid Casear's sidekick helped "Your Show of Shows" win many awards, said simply she'll now be able to do as she pleases.

"Show of Shows" came to the end of a five-year run two seasons ago and the Caesar-Coca team split up.

Each struck out alone, but, in NBC's words, "Her show last season was not successful." She earned $500,000 anyway.

Missile Cruiser Will Join Fleet

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Navy said today "the world's first guided missile cruiser," the Boston, will join the fleet Nov. 1.

The Boston will be recommissioned then after an extensive, two-year rebuilding which removed the standard gun turrets of the main armament and refitted the ship with equipment for launching Terrier antiaircraft guided missiles.

Commissioning ceremonies will be at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, near the New York Shipbuilding Corp.'s Camden, N. J., yard where the conversion was made.

The Boston is the first of two cruisers to be converted to guided missile firing. Her sister ship, the Canberra, is scheduled to be ready next spring.

Two twin launchers, each capable of firing two Terrier missiles simultaneously, replace the gun turrets on the ships.

D'Alesandro Believes Uris Misinformed

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11 (AP)—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro said today Leon Uris, author of the novel "Battle Cry," probably doesn't understand what the mayor is trying to do about lurid books and magazines.

Uris is a native of Baltimore and he was honored here last February at the premiere of a movie made from his novel. D'Alesandro gave him the key to the city.

The author said yesterday he was sending the key back because of D'Alesandro's "hypocrisy." The mayor has launched a campaign to clear lurid books and magazines off newsstand displays. He handed out a list of books described as objectionable by the National Organization for Decent Literature. "Battle Cry" was on the list.

The mayor said today:

"I think it is highly likely that what we are trying to do here has been misrepresented to Mr. Uris, just as it has repeatedly been misrepresented here by a certain section of the press.

"Mr. Uris probably was told that we are attacking civil liberties, attempting to impose a censorship on adult reading and some other distortions of fact. That is all nonsense, of course.

"What we are trying to do is get newsstand operators and magazine operators to remove voluntarily pictures and publications that have a tendency to impair the morals of young boys and girls.

"I don't think Mr. Uris or any other reasonable man or woman would have the slightest objection to that."

Girl Dies When Seat Drops Out Of Ferris Wheel

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 11 (AP)—One teen-age girl was killed and two others seriously injured today when a seat apparently dropped out of a ferris wheel and fell about 25 feet, according to Texas State Fair public relations officials.

Dead on arrival at a hospital was Cynthia Combest, about 15, of Memphis, Tex. Kay Leslie, about 15 or 16, was listed in critical condition. Barbara Allen, about 15, was in serious condition. Both are from Memphis.

Production Record Set By Steel Mills

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP) — The nation's steel mills chalked up a production record during the first nine months of 1955, almost matching total output for all of last year, according to the American Iron & Steel Institute.

The institute also reported today that production in September set a record for that month.

At the end of nine months, steelmaking furnaces had made 85,782,793 tons of ingots and steel for castings, and were within eight days of equaling the 88,300,000 tons for all of last year.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11 (AP)—Although he pleaded that he feared for his life, John Henry Austin, 50, today was ordered back to Georgia, where he escaped from a prison road gang 16 years ago.

Austin has just finished serving a 12-year term in Maryland penitentiary for the death of his wife. Georgia authorities had a detainer against him and he has been fighting extradition.

"I feel I might not live after I get back down there," he said. Judge Joseph L. Carter found there was no legal ground on which he could deny Georgia's extradition request and told Austin the treatment of prisoners in Georgia may have improved in 16 years.

VIGO, Spain, Oct. 11 (AP) — The 250-ton Spanish freghter Conde de Barbate sank today after a collision with the French liner Colombie. Two crewmen drowned and three others are missing.

Million-Dollar TV Contract Given Up By Imogene Coca

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Wide-eyed Imogene Coca was disclosed today to have voluntarily given up a million-dollar television contract.

The comedienne, whose emoting as Sid Casear's sidekick helped "Your Show of Shows" win many awards, said simply she'll now be able to do as she pleases.

"Show of Shows" came to the end of a five-year run two seasons ago and the Caesar-Coca team split up.

Each struck out alone, but, in NBC's words, "Her show last season was not successful." She earned $500,000 anyway.

Missile Cruiser Will Join Fleet

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Navy said today "the world's first guided missile cruiser," the Boston, will join the fleet Nov. 1.

The Boston will be recommissioned then after an extensive, two-year rebuilding which removed the standard gun turrets of the main armament and refitted the ship with equipment for launching Terrier antiarcraft guided missiles.

Commissioning ceremonies will be at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, near the New York Shipbuilding Corp.'s Camden, N. J., yard where the conversion was made.

The Boston is the first of two cruisers to be converted to guided missile firing. Her sister ship, the Canberra, is scheduled to be ready next spring.

Two twin launchers, each capable of firing two Terrier missiles simultaneously, replace the gun turrets on the ships.

D'Alesandro Believes Uris Misinformed

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11 (AP)—Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro said today Leon Uris, author of the novel "Battle Cry," probably doesn't understand what the mayor is trying to do about lurid books and magazines.

Uris is a native of Baltimore and he was honored here last February at the premiere of a movie made from his novel. D'Alesandro gave him the key to the city.

The author said yesterday he was sending the key back because of D'Alesandro's "hypocrisy." The mayor has launched a campaign to clear lurid books and magazines off newsstand displays. He handed out a list of books described as objectionable by the National Organization for Decent Literature. "Battle Cry" was on the list.

The mayor said today:

"I think it is highly likely that what we are trying to do here has been misrepresented to Mr. Uris, just as it has repeatedly been misrepresented here by a certain section of the press.

"Mr. Uris probably was told that we are attacking civil liberties, attempting to impose a censorship on adult reading and some other distortions of fact. That is all nonsense, of course.

"What we are trying to do is get newsstand operators and magazine operators to remove voluntarily pictures and publications that have a tendency to impair the morals of young boys and girls.

"I don't think Mr. Uris or any other reasonable man or woman would have the slightest objection to that."

Girl Dies When Seat Drops Out Of Ferris Wheel

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 11 (AP)—One teen-age girl was killed and two others seriously injured today when a seat apparently dropped out of a ferris wheel and fell about 25 feet, according to Texas State Fair public relations officials.

Dead on arrival at a hospital was Cynthia Combest, about 15, of Memphis, Tex. Kay Leslie, about 15 or 16, was listed in critical condition. Barbara Allen, about 15, was in serious condition. Both are from Memphis.

Production Record Set By Steel Mills

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP) — The nation's steel mills chalked up a production record during the first nine months of 1955, almost matching total output for all of last year, according to the American Iron & Steel Institute.

The institute also reported today that production in September set a record for that month.

At the end of nine months, steelmaking furnaces had made 85,782,793 tons of ingots and steel for castings, and were within eight days of equaling the 88,300,000 tons for all of last year.

Maryland Youth Is Chosen Star American Farmer

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 11 (AP)—Ross E. Smith, Jr., who parleyed a flock of ducks into a partnership with his father on a Harford County, Md. farm, today was named Star American Farmer in a 12-state area.

Smith's award, which included a $500 check, was made at the annual meeting of the Future Farmers of America.

When he was 10 he had 50 ducks. With the money they brought he bought a calf. Proceeds from the calf put him in partnership with a brother in ownership of four registered Holstein heifers. This grew to 34 Holsteins. Now Ross and his father have a dairy farm near Black Horse with 65 head of cattle.

School Officials Reneged, Negro Leader Testifies

LEWISBURG, W. Va., Oct. 11 (AP)—A local Negro leader testified today school officials in this "Middle Border" area, where an abortive attempt was made in 1954 to integrate schools, never fulfilled a promise to outline plans for the ultimate end of segregation.

G. William Dunn was a witness in a U. S. District Court suit—the first of its kind—seeking to compel Greenbrier County school officials to proceed with integration of white and Negro students. The suit was brought by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

The county, bordering on Virginia, ended segregation in September, 1954, then quickly reinstated it in the face of protests by white students and their parents. At that time the county had 589 Negroes in a total enrollment of 10,000.

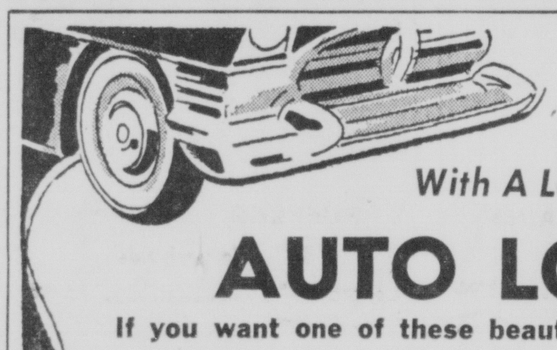

Dunn, chairman of the legal redress committee of the NAACP's Greenbrier County chapter, said he and other Negro leaders had since had three conferences with the board of education.

At the first one last February, he said, these four questions were asked: "What is being done to implement integration in the schools? What educational program has been implemented as a prelude to integration? What protection has been planned for Negro children? Would any member of the board be prepared to participate in public discussion on integration?"

Dunn said School Supt. Delvin D. Harrah told the group the answers would be given in 90 to 120 days. No answer has yet been received, he said.

Crop Outlook Good

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that crops developed favorably in September to uphold previous estimates that the harvest would be the second highest of record.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 11 (AP)—Ross E. Smith, Jr., who parleyed a flock of ducks into a partnership with his father on a Harford County, Md. farm, today was named Star American Farmer in a 12-state area.

Smith's award, which included a $500 check, was made at the annual meeting of the Future Farmers of America.

When he was 10 he had 50 ducks. With the money they brought he bought a calf. Proceeds from the calf put him in partnership with a brother in ownership of four registered Holstein heifers. This grew to 34 Holsteins. Now Ross and his father have a dairy farm near Black Horse with 65 head of cattle.

School Officials Reneged, Negro Leader Testifies

LEWISBURG, W. Va., Oct. 11 (AP)—A local Negro leader testified today school officials in this "Middle Border" area, where an abortive attempt was made in 1954 to integrate schools, never fulfilled a promise to outline plans for the ultimate end of segregation.

G. William Dunn was a witness in a U. S. District Court suit—the first of its kind—seeking to compel Greenbrier County school officials to proceed with integration of white and Negro students. The suit was brought by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

The county, bordering on Virginia, ended segregation in September, 1954, then quickly reinstated it in the face of protests by white students and their parents. At that time the county had 589 Negroes in a total enrollment of 10,000.

Dunn, chairman of the legal redress committee of the NAACP's Greenbrier County chapter, said he and other Negro leaders had since had three conferences with the board of education.

At the first one last February, he said, these four questions were asked: "What is being done to implement integration in the schools? What educational program has been implemented as a prelude to integration? What protection has been planned for Negro children? Would any member of the board be prepared to participate in public discussion on integration?"

Dunn said School Supt. Delvin D. Harrah told the group the answers would be given in 90 to 120 days. No answer has yet been received, he said.

Occupation Has Little Bearing On Whether You'll Have Heart Attack, Figures Indicate

Editor's Note: Do you think the high pressure businessman is most likely to have a heart attack? Do you consider heart disease an affliction of the aging? Recent research has developed some illuminating facts about this greatest of all killers. More detailed studies now in the works are also described in this fifth and last article of a series.

By RELMAN MORIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Even before I had a heart attack, I always assumed that there is an unusually high incidence of heart disease among newspapermen.

A doctor probably would tell you the same thing about his profession. And the high-pressure business executive is often pictured as an eminently likely victim. The American professional man, generally — especially after he passes 40 — is supposed to be particularly susceptible to heart attacks.

He lives at a fast pace, under mental strain and emotional tension. He is more than likely to drink and smoke, and have irregular habits of eating and sleeping. These patterns are usually thought to be a factor in heart disease.

But actually, the statisticians are very cautious. They seldom state any hard and fast conclusions about the incidence of heart disease in particular groups of people.

But such figures as are available indicate that occupation has no bearing on whether you will have a heart attack.

The United States apparently does not have the highest death rate in the world among men in the 45-64 age bracket. Figures indicate that Finland, Scotland, and South Africa have higher rates.

Yet the pace of life in these countries could hardly be considered faster than in the United States, or habits of living more conducive to high mortality.

Moreover, science is continually discovering evidence that indicates that heart disease may begin long before "middle age."

A congressional committee, studying American health problems last year, reported that heart disease accounted for one-sixth of all the deaths in the "military" ages, between 20 and 39. More than 300,000 men were rejected for military service in World War II because of heart disease.

"In one area of one state," the report said, "it was found that one out of every eight men rejected — all under 26 years of age — were turned away because of organic heart disease."

Thousands of autopsies performed during World War II and the Korean War disclosed the fact that heart disease, or conditions favorable to it, had begun among men under 30.

What causes this? What makes it develop into a serious attack later in life? Is it true that the modern way of life, especially city life, is causing more and more heart disease?

Some mass assaults are being made on these problems.

Their objective is to amass enough facts about enough people —of different ages and professions —over enough years to arrive at some conclusions.

Framingham, Mass., is a pleasant little city of about 30,000 not far from Boston. There, Dr. Thomas Dawber, a public health officer, is directing a project called the "heart center program."

He has been keeping records on 5,200 people in Framingham for the past five years. They are volunteers, and the doctor has tried to select them in such a way as to constitute a cross-section of the whole city. In age brackets, they run from 30 to 60.

The doctor knows about their work, what they do and how they do it. Whether they smoke or drink and how much, goes into his records. He keeps track of what they eat and how much, whether they take any exercise and what kind, how much they sleep.

Twice a year, he takes electrocardiographs of their hearts, along with chest X-rays and blood tests. He keeps records of changes in weight.

He is learning a good deal, as well, about the mental and emotional patterns of these people. In short, he is getting a picture of the "who" man or woman, not just the physical profile at a given time.

The project began in 1950. It will go on until 1970. In the 20 years, some will have died, some will have developed diseases, some will have had heart attacks.

Dr. Dawber hopes to find some correlations in this mountain of data and statistics. He says it is too early to discuss now, but he thinks that by 1960—the half-way point—"it may be possible to state some conclusions."

Although light travels more than 186,000 miles a second, it takes the light from the nearest fixed star almost four and a half years to reach the earth.

Court Closes In On 'Happy Prison'

PONT L'EVEQUE, France, Oct. 11 (AP)—A French court closed in today on the "happy prison of Pont L'Eveque," where the convicts played at the casino and the keeper got drunk every night.

Fernand Billa is, or was, the keeper. By the time the hearing was finished he himself was scheduled to be a prisoner for three years and was fined 50,000 francs (about $150).

The way the court heard it:

Billa found a prisoner who could keep books, and turned over management to him.

"Do the necessary," he would say when notes came up for payment, or letters came up for answering.

Every night, the prosecutor related, Billa went out to a nearby bistro and got drunk.

Sometimes he invited prisoners along with him. Sometimes he let them go into Deauville to gamble at the casino.

Gruenwald's Trial Set For December 5

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11 (AP) — The trial of Henry (The Dutchman) Grunewald, Washington influence peddler, on charges of evading $96,207 in income taxes was set tentatively today for Dec. 5.

Federal Judge W. Calvin Chesnut set the date after Grunewald pleaded innocent to the indictment. His lawyers elected a jury trial after failing in an attempt to get an indefinite delay in the case.

Grunewald, himself, told the judge he had heart trouble.

The defendant's counsel, Myron G. Ehrlich and Armand Newmyer cited a pending appeal from a conspiracy conviction in New York Federal Court and a 16-count pending perjury indictment facing Grunewald in Washington in asking the delay.

But U. S. Atty. George Cochran Doub said the government wanted to give priority to the tax evasion case here. He asked trial Nov. 30.

Acting Chairman Assails Charge NLRB Is Biased

LAS VEGAS, Nev. Oct. 11 (AP)—Philip Ray Rodgers, acting chairman of the National Labor Relations Board, said yesterday any claims that the NLRB is "anti-labor" are "completely false and utterly worthless."

Referring to what he called an "oft-repeated charge" that the board's decisions under the Eisenhower administration have reflected an anti-labor bias, Rodgers said:

". . . Most, if not all, of these statements are politically inspired —designed not to convey a picture of fact, but designed to incite prejudice and create distrust."

In a talk prepared for the annual convention of the American Mining Congress, Rodgers said only one-half of one per cent of the cases acted on by the board in the last two fiscal years were decided by votes "along so-called political or philosophical lines."

Rodgers said 3,071 cases out of 3,197 brought unanimous decisions while only 14 brought split decisions along party lines.

"These contests," he added, "must not become the subject of public debate, trial by newspaper and political propaganda, if a free society based on the supremacy of law is to survive."

Rodgers hit, too, at what he termed "certain allegations and implications" that, with one of the five NLRB positions now vacant, the board has split into "two wrangling, warring factions of two members - or, if you will, two warriors each."

Rodgers is one of two members named by President Eisenhower now serving. Two named by former President Truman also are members of the board.

The NLRB head said that "at this moment not one single case is stymied at the board level by any two-to-two splits among the membership." He added:

"Any attempt to conjure up a picture of petty bickering, political platooning and devious dealing, is a fraud upon the public and an injustice to the four members of this board. . . ."

Former Chairman Guy Farmer resigned from the board Aug. 27 and Eisenhower has not yet nominated a successor.

Queen Mother May Get Australia Post

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—The New York Daily News says British Queen Mother Elizabeth expects to become governor general of Australia next year.

In a dispatch from London, the News quotes palace sources as saying the Queen Mother intends to leave for Australia after the expected marriage of Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

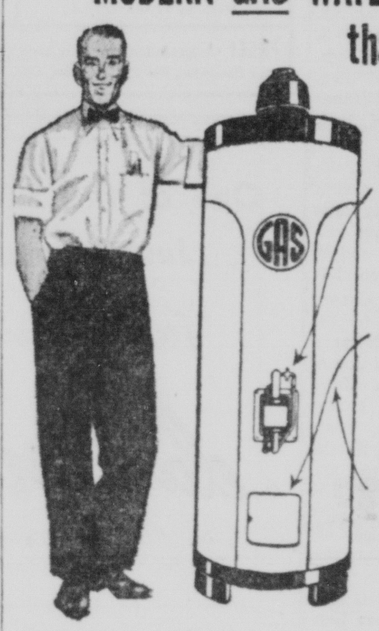

Sir William Slim, Australia's present governor general who completes his tour of duty next year is quoted by the News as saying that his successor "will be someone much more charming than I."

The newspaper also says the Queen Mother has already acquired as her private secretary Lt. Col. Martin Gilliat, 42, who recently left Slim's staff.

Rodgers hit, too, at what he termed "certain allegations and implications" that, with one of the five NLRB positions now vacant, the board has split into "two wrangling, warring factions of two members or, if you will, two warriors each."

Rodgers is one of two members named by President Eisenhower now serving. Two named by former President Truman also are members of the board.

The NLRB head said that "at this moment not one single case is stymied at the board level by any two-to-two splits among the membership." He added:

"Any attempt to conjure up a picture of petty bickering, political platooning and devious dealing, is a fraud upon the public and an injustice to the four members of this board. . . ."

Former Chairman Guy Farmer resigned from the board Aug. 27 and Eisenhower has not yet nominated a successor.

Queen Mother May Get Australia Post

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—The New York Daily News says British Queen Mother Elizabeth expects to become governor general of Australia next year.

In a dispatch from London, the News quotes palace sources as saying the Queen Mother intends to leave for Australia after the expected marriage of Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Peter Townsend.

Sir William Slim, Australia's present governor general who completes his tour of duty next year is quoted by the News as saying that his successor "will be someone much more charming than I."

The newspaper also says the Queen Mother has already acquired as her private secretary Lt. Col. Martin Gilliat, 42, who recently left Slim's staff.

What A Party Line!

ATLIN, B. C., Oct. 11 (AP)—Talk about telephone party lines! An ordinary radio set can pick up conversations on the radio-telephone circuit between this mining town and Whitehorse, Yukon Territory. Residents are urging that measures be taken to insure privacy.

Great Books Unit Changes Meeting Date, Has Reviews

Reviews of 12 books read during the summer recess were given at the meeting of the Great Books Group of the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women. A change of meeting times was discussed and it was decided to try the first Tuesday of the month instead of the second Monday. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. R. Finley Thompson, Rose Hill Avenue.

Ann Morrow Lindbergh's "Gift from the Sea," was reviewed by Mrs. A. J. Mirkin and illustrated with a display of sea shells. She pointed out that it is Mrs. Lindbergh's first book in 11 years.

Mrs. William Durland had read the same book and said that although it is written from a woman's viewpoint for women, men also find a great deal of satisfaction from it. This was illustrated in a review she read from Beta Theta Pi magazine, which is a men's college fraternity magazine, and the article was written from a man's viewpoint.

Land reform in Mexico was discussed by Mrs. A. L. Rogers, who talked of her studies at the National University of Mexico, Mexico City, last summer. Her studies dealt with the problems facing the people going from the feudal system to complete socialization. She explained they are striving for everyone eventually to own one acre of ground, so are breaking up the large estates which have been worked by the peons, who were really serfs.

Christianity, which took place in the Western world, is the leading influence to mold the modern world, Mrs. Max Bastian pointed out in her discussion of Life's History of Western Man." She pointed out the theme of the book is western man the architect of the modern world, his spiritual values, Christian religion and its spread.

The hostess read "Hannibal of Carthage," a first book by Mary Dolan, who spent years in research study of the amazing character in history.

Mrs. Russ Minter brought several art albums. One was "Masterpieces of European Artists" and the other "Fifty Centuries of Art."

The "Fall of a Titan" by Igor Guzenko, was read by Dr. Leila Stevens, and was described as the story of modern Russia and the diabolical methods used to force human beings to do inhuman acts.

The gay and humorous best seller for the past three weeks, "Marjorie Morningstar," by Herman Wouk, was reviewed by Mrs. Milton Granet and is the story of a girl's progress from the Bronx to Central Park West.

Mrs. Granville Shirley talked of "Magic of Believing," Claude M. Driscoll and "635 Days a Year," Dr. Schindler, head of Monroe Clinic. Both are studies in psychology.

"The Wicked Pavillion," by Dawn Powell, was reveiwed by Mrs. Amer Suter, and is the story of Greenwich Village and the artists when the village was really Bohemian.

Reviewing "Cornerstone," by Zoe Oldenbourg, who recently received the highest award for a female writer in France, Mrs. Ralph Webster said the setting is the Middle Ages, the 13th Century, when the writer feels men had nobility in purpose in living as opposed to today's stark realism, making life seem degraded. The cornerstone of faith is the spiritual purpose of life, she pointed out.

Mrs. John A. Cupler II reviewed William Stryon's "Lie Down in Darkness." She said it is a gripping story and food for thought. It is the story of a family of Tidewater, Virginia and the effect that parents, through their lack of compatibility and purpose in rearing children, have upon the children. It shows the complete deterioration of a beautiful girl who receives no love from her mother and is spoiled by her father, trying to make up for the lack of love and understanding of the mother. Mrs. Cupler said the style is much in the mood of the better Russian writers although the author was only 23 when he write it and is living in Boston.

Guests were Mrs. George Tucker, Mrs. Paul Castelle and Mrs. Charles C. Boysen, Washington, who is visiting her sister, Dr. Stevens.

The November 1 meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Webster, Camden Avenue, at which time Mrs. Durlan will review Feodor Dostroevsky, and Mrs. Cupler, "The Brothers Karamazov."

Guild Plans Peace Talk

CC Benefit Bridge Game To Be Thurs.

A special Community Chest benefit game will be played tomorrow evening by the Western Maryland Bridge Association. To be held in the Fort Cumberland Hotel ballroom play will begin at 8. All bridge players, whether members of the association or not, are invited to come and either play or kibitz. A. D. Heacox said last evening that if there are sufficient inexperienced players there will be a special C section.

C. C. DeHaven and Mrs. Emmett Jones were fourth place winners in the Open Pairs event of the fifth annual Mason-Dixon Sectional championship, played over the weekend at the Cumberland Country Club. Harry Glick, Pittsburgh and A. J. Feigus, city, placed fifth. First place winners were Dr. J. S. Teitlebaum and Arthur Cohen, Johnstown; second, Israel Sky, Mrs. Dorothy Hendel, Altoona; third, Gale W. Allen, Paul E. Neff, Arlington, Va.

Master Pair winners for the Potomac Valley Bridge Club trophy were Miss Cathleen McNutt, Miss Frieda Kenyon, Washington; second place, S. Russ Minter and H. G. Shores of the Cumberland club.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McGreevy won the Non-Masters pair for the Potomac Valley Bridge Club trophy with Dr. L. R. Meyers and James Preaskirn second place. Men's Pair winners for the Old Export trophy were Lou Levinson, Washington and Harry Johnson, Harrisburg; second, Herman Agnew and Thomas Mulligan, Pittsburgh. The Women's Pair winners for the Cumberland Duplicate Bridge Club trophy were Mrs. Lillian Harrison, Baltimore and Mrs. Frieda Bentley, Washington; second, Miss Kenyon and Miss McNutt. Miss Kenyon and Mr. DeHaven won the Mixed Pairs event for the Harvey Jewelry Store trophy; with Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Hughes, Altoona, second.

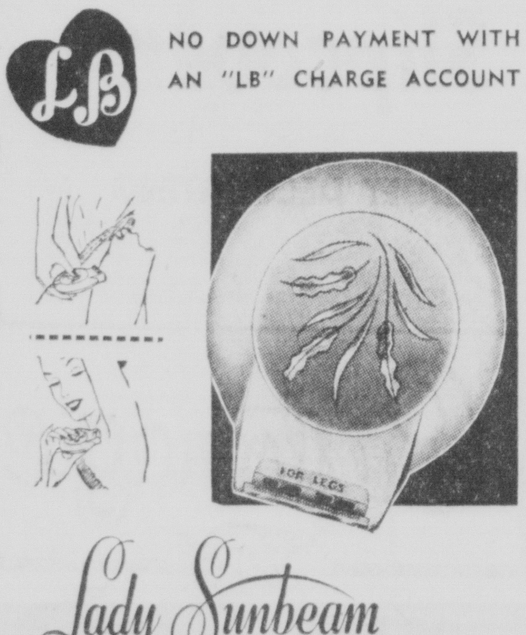

The qualifying round was won by Mrs. Orin Cross and Mrs. John Holden, Morgantown, and the Special Pair event, Richard Leski and John McGarvey, Pittsburgh, with Robert Dezen and Richard Schwab second; John Moberly and Norman Taylor, third.

A special Community Chest benefit game will be played tomorrow evening by the Western Maryland Bridge Association. To be held in the Fort Cumberland Hotel ballroom play will begin at 8. All bridge players, whether members of the association or not, are invited to come and either play or kibitz. A. D. Heacox said last evening that if there are sufficient inexperienced players there will be a special C section.

C. C. DeHaven and Mrs. Emmett Jones were fourth place winners in the Open Pairs event of the fifth annual Mason-Dixon Sectional championship, played over the weekend at the Cumberland Country Club. Harry Glick, Pittsburgh and A. J. Feigus, city, placed fifth. First place winners were Dr. J. S. Teitlebaum and Arthur Cohen, Johnstown; second, Israel Sky, Mrs. Dorothy Hendel, Altoona; third, Gale W. Allen, Paul E. Neff, Arlington, Va.

Master Pair winners for the Potomac Valley Bridge Club trophy were Miss Cathleen McNutt, Miss Frieda Kenyon, Washington; second place, S. Russ Minter and H. G. Shores of the Cumberland club.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard McGreevy won the Non-Masters pair for the Potomac Valley Bridge Club trophy with Dr. L. R. Meyers and James Preaskirn second place. Men's Pair winners for the Old Export trophy were Lou Levinson, Washington and Harry Johnson, Harrisburg; second, Herman Agnew and Thomas Mulligan, Pittsburgh. The Women's Pair winners for the Cumberland Duplicate Bridge Club trophy were Mrs. Lillian Harrison, Baltimore and Mrs. Frieda Bentley, Washington; second, Miss Kenyon and Miss McNutt. Miss Kenyon and Mr. DeHaven won the Mixed Pairs event for the Harvey Jewelry Store trophy; with Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Hughes, Altoona, second.

The qualifying round was won by Mrs. Orin Cross and Mrs. John Holden, Morgantown, and the Special Pair event, Richard Leski and John McGarvey, Pittsburgh, with Robert Dezen and Richard Schwab second; John Moberly and Norman Taylor, third.

Lutheran Group Changes Missionary Society Name

A change in name and a record budget were voted and officers installed at the triennial convention of the United Lutheran Church Women. The meeting was held in the Hotel Statler, Cleveland, Ohio, October 1-5.

The nearly 1,500 women attending voted the change of the name from Women's Missionary Society to United Lutheran Church Women, of the United Lutheran Church in America.

Delegates voted a record budget of one million dollars a year for each of the next three years, for world missions.

It was decided to have the 1958 convention in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

Officers installed for the next three years are Mrs. John B. Moose, Leesville, South Carolina, president; Mrs. Roy Winters, Spring City, Pa., vice president; Mrs. John Futch, Denver, Colo., recording secretary; Mrs. Paul E. Knauss, Marion, Ohio, statistical secretary; and Mrs. M. F. Rheingans, Milwaukee, Wis., treasurer. Dr. Frankland Clark Fry, New York, officiated at the installation. He is national president of the United Lutheran Church of America.

Delegates from Cumberland were Mrs. George Alexander, Mrs. Merle Shumaker of St. John's Church; and Mrs. John N. Miller and Mrs. F. Lee Fresh, St. Luke's Church, special aides of the general board.

Mrs. William Knight, 1123 Bedford Street, left last week for Kansas City, to visit her daughter and family, Mrs. John P. Baker.

Doctors Urge Auto Design Changes To Cut Death Toll

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11 (AP)—A group of doctors who handle many traffic accident cases today advocated an automobile design "which does not masticate pedestrians and children or bicycles."

They want to do away with spear-like hood ornaments. They would throw out potato-masher type grilles and sharp-edged visors over the headlights.

They want smooth, rounded front ends, hard rubber shock-absorbing bumpers, recessed and padded dashes, a steering wheel that collapses on impact, door handles that do not stick out, and a change in the shelf behind the back seat to prevent things from flying forward in a quick stop.

They also want doors that do not pop open in a wreck and front seat safety belts.

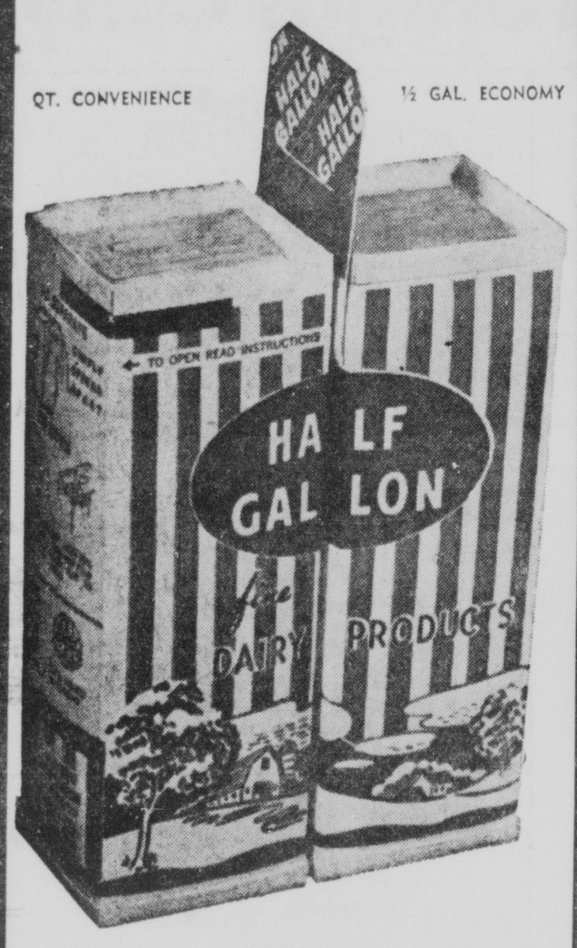

These recommendations came from the traffic trauma committee of the California Academy of General Practice. The committee is composed of five family doctors who have had long experience wiht traffic injuries.

Surgeon Suggests Ike Be Evaluated For Operation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)— A heart surgeon suggested today that President Eisenhower should be "evaluated" next spring for a relatively new operation which he said can prolong life in coronary cases.

Dr. Claude S. Beck of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, said the operation has shown ability to "take the steam out of" a subsequent heart attack in a patient who has survived one or more. Placing powdered asbestos on heart muscle is one factor in the operation.

Dr. Beck said in an interview that in his opinion the President should be evaluated for such an operation "in six months" and that "if the examination showed the operation could be safely done" it should be undertaken. He talked with reporters after describing the operation to the District of Columbia Medical Society.

"If and when he gets a second attack," Beck said, "he would be better able to ward it off."

Dr. Beck and many doctors, including President Eisenhower's top heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, still consider the operation only an "experimental" one.

But Beck said its value has been demonstrated not only in experiments on animals but among 275 patients in his own experience and smaller numbers in the experience of some other surgeons.

The operation is designed to increase blood flow to the heart in case of a blockage or restriction of a coronary artery, and also to allow better distribution of the blood already there. It involves such things as:

1. Rubbing vigorously the heart muscle and the under side of its surrounding sac with an instrument which another heart surgeon said involved "rubbing it with something like a hob-nail boot."

2. Putting powdered asbestos in the area of the muscle and sac to enhance abrasion, and help stimulate the formation of extra channels of blood.

3. Partially tieing off one of the heart's major veins, so as to promote a "backflow" of blood and allow a "more even distribution of oxygen between an affected area of the heart and normal areas."

Solon In Russia Finally Learns Dodgers Did It

ATLANTA, Oct. 11 (AP)—How does a sports minded senator on a tour of Russia keep abreast of the World Series and his favorite football teams?

Georgia's Richard B. Russell got a first hand report yesterday deep behind the Iron Curtain through the enterprise of staffers on the Atlanta Constitution.

The Constitution told the details in a copyright story.

Sen. Russell, on a two-week tour and far from English language newspapers, entered a restaurant in Kiev in southern Russia. He spotted some other Americans and asked how the World Series came out. Nobody knew.

"It's really hard to be so far from America that you don't know how the series came out more than a week after," Russell remarked.

Sunday night that Associated Press story was read with some concern by Constitution newsmen. So they put in a call to the senator. It was completed at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

"We just wanted to let you know how the World Series came out," Russell was informed.

"You what?" a surprised Russell gasped. Then he asked: "How did you know I was crazy to find out?" He was told of the AP report.

Informed that Brooklyn won the series, Russell commented: "Well, I'll be doggone."

Then he asked quickly: How did Georgia, his alma mater, come out in the football game. He was happy over last Saturday's victory over North Carolina.

How is Georgia Tech doing? Winning them all, was the reply.

Cost of the call—$12 for three minutes.

Surgeon Suggests Ike Be Evaluated For Operation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11 (AP)— A heart surgeon suggested today that President Eisenhower should be "evaluated" next spring for a relatively new operation which he said can prolong life in coronary cases.

Dr. Claude S. Beck of Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, said the operation has shown ability to "take the steam out of" a subsequent heart attack in a patient who has survived one or more. Placing powdered asbestos on heart muscle is one factor in the operation.

Dr. Beck said in an interview that in his opinion the President should be evaluated for such an operation "in six months" and that "if the examination showed the operation could be safely done" it should be undertaken. He talked with reporters after describing the operation to the District of Columbia Medical Society.

"If and when he gets a second attack," Beck said, "he would be better able to ward it off."

Dr. Beck and many doctors, including President Eisenhower's top heart specialist, Dr. Paul Dudley White of Boston, still consider the operation only an "experimental" one.

But Beck said its value has been demonstrated not only in experiments on animals but among 275 patients in his own experience and smaller numbers in the experience of some other surgeons.

The operation is designed to increase blood flow to the heart in case of a blockage or restriction of a coronary artery, and also to allow better distribution of the blood already there. It involves such things as:

1. Rubbing vigorously the heart muscle and the under side of its surrounding sac with an instrument which another heart surgeon said involved "rubbing it with something like a hob-nail boot."

2. Putting powdered asbestos in the area of the muscle and sac to enhance abrasion, and help stimulate the formation of extra channels of blood.

3. Partially tieing off one of the heart's major veins, so as to promote a "backflow" of blood and allow a "more even distribution of oxygen between an affected area of the heart and normal areas."

On tiny Providence island north of Madagascar the hearts of cocoanut palm trees provide a delicacy known as "the millionaire's salad." A palm heart is obtained by cutting down a mature tree. To serve ten persons costs about $200.

Solon In Russia Finally Learns Dodgers Did It

ATLANTA, Oct. 11 (AP)—How does a sports minded senator on a tour of Russia keep abreast of the World Series and his favorite football teams?

Georgia's Richard B. Russell got a first hand report yesterday deep behind the Iron Curtain through the enterprise of staffers on the Atlanta Constitution.

The Constitution told the details in a copyright story.

Sen. Russell, on a two-week tour and far from English language newspapers, entered a restaurant in Kiev in southern Russia. He spotted some other Americans and asked how the World Series came out. Nobody knew.

"It's really hard to be so far from America that you don't know how the series came out more than a week after," Russell remarked.

Sunday night that Associated Press story was read with some concern by Constitution newsmen. So they put in a call to the senator. It was completed at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

"We just wanted to let you know how the World Series came out," Russell was informed.

"You what?" a surprised Russell gasped. Then he asked: "How did you know I was crazy to find out?" He was told of the AP report.

Informed that Brooklyn won the series, Russell commented: "Well, I'll be doggone."

Then he asked quickly: How did Georgia, his alma mater, come out in the football game. He was happy over last Saturday's victory over North Carolina.

How is Georgia Tech doing? Winning them all, was the reply.

Cost of the call—$12 for three minutes.

Temperatures up to 2,800 degrees are needed to obtain fusion in welding stainless steel for aircraft.

High Demand For Glass Noted By PPG Officer

The demand for glass, which widened with explosive force in mid-1954, is the chief reason for Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's record expansion. Uncompleted authorizations (unspent commitments) for plant projects were disclosed as being close to $80,000,000.

During 1954, the company made capital expenditures of $24,800,000, and at the year's end had uncompleted authorizations of $56,600,000.

C. R. Fay, vice president and comptroller, told security analysts in New York that, despite the high level of expenditures, "we do not presently anticipate that new financing will be needed to complete the planned facilities."

Fay did the unusual for Pittsburgh Plate, which is erecting a plant here, by predicting 1955 net earnings should be above $6 per share as compared with $4.18 per share in 1954.

Sales for this year are expected t zoom far above 1953s record of $452,000,000. The anticipated total for 1955 is 24 per cent above the $431,106,283 of 1954.

Fay said demand for the company's major products continues strong.

"This is particularly true of glass products," he said. "The use of glass has increased tremendously in recent years and from all indications will continue."

The glass expansion is designed particularly to meet the nation's needs for automobiles and building construction.

It was previously disclosed that present capacity of the company's three window glass plants is more than 80 per cent above the total 1940 domestic production of window glass. The four present plate glass plants have a capacity equal to the total domestic production of 1940.

While glass has temporarily overshadowed chemical expansion within Pittsburgh Plate, the company presently has a tetrachloride plant under construction and there are plans to build a hydrogen peroxide unit.

The company said it hasn't decided where to put this hydrogen peroxide plant. The product serves mainly as a bleach in the paper and textile industries.

Man To Face Hearing Friday As Gun Flasher

A hearing is scheduled Friday at 2 p. m. in Trial Magistrates Court ir the case of a man accused of flashing a gun on another.

Louis Fields, this city, surrendered himself at Trial Magistrates Court after a warrant for his arrest had been filed by J. D. Wheeler, 515 Hill Top Drive.

Yesterday morning Fields was committed to the County Jail until $1,000 could be posted for his bond. He was released later in the day.

Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick said Fields is charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

According to City Police Officer Elmer Shank, Wheeler has reported that a man, whom he had never seen, pointed a gun at him and a neighbor after approaching the Wheeler home.

Wheeler told Officer Shank that he was sitting on his porch when the man pointed a revolver at him and said "I am going to get even" when the neighbor came up behind him.

The assailant in turn threatened the neighbor before leaving, Wheeler added.

Milton Gerson, local attorney, was toastmaster. The following officers were installed: Robert Goldfine, president; Arthur Friedland, president-elect for 1956; Harry Kauffman, first vice president.

Paul Steinberger, second vice president; Frank H. Kaplon, secretary; Harry Stein, treasurer; Myer Abramson, warden; William B. Schindler, guardian; George Ossip, Robert Kaplon, Leonard Schwab, trustees; Rabbi Daniel Lowy, honorary trustee.

Disputed Claim Subject Of Check

A conference will be held between Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, and Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, pertaining to a claim by a visitor to the County Infirmary.

Finan wrote the board today that on September 10 a city fireman was making the usual test of fire extinguishers outside the infirmary and that some of the fluid sprayed the car of Mrs. James Sullivan and ruined the paint.

An estimate of $143.16 for repainting the car has been given. Finan said it is hoped to obtain the repainting at a lower cost.

In view of the fact that a city fireman was doing the work for the benefit of the county Finan has requested the commissioners to pay half the cost of damage to the auto.

Newhouse Indicted On Two Charges

Richard H. Newhouse, city, has been indicted on two counts by the October grand jury.

The first count is for manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Daisy Elizabeth Priddy, who was fatally injured July 22 when struck by a chair thrown during a melee at the South End Republican Club.

Newhouse was also indicted on a charge of assault on Clyde Donald Fike, who was involved in the fracas with Newhouse on the night Mrs. Priddy was struck.

Chest Campaign Reaches $54,337 At First Report

When returns were counted at the second Community Chest report meeting on Monday, campaign workers accounted for a total of 43.1 per cent of the goal of $125,794.

Dr. Charles L. Kopp, general chairman, said the total subscribed so far is $54,337.50.

At the first report meeting Friday in Central YMCA, $37,000 was accounted for.

The third report session will be today at noon in Central YMCA, Kopp said.

As it stands so far, the advance gifts committee, headed by James W. Bishop, has raised a total of $39,221 of its goal of $65,000.

The classified section with Robert E. Barnard Jr., as general chairman has accounted for $13,800 of its goal of $50,000.

The sales army workers under H. D. Barber reported contributions to the united fund totaling $1,316.50 of its quota of $6,500.

On the first report day, advanced gifts were $25,675; classified $10,734, and sales army, $591.

To date the advance gifts committee has achieved 60.4 per cent of its goal; classified, 27.06 per cent; and sales army, 20.2 per cent.

Yesterday, aided by perfect autumn weather the hundreds of women volunteers conducted their canvass of the residential section with a goal of $5,000 in mind. Dr. Lillian C. Compton is chairman of the residential section.

Dr. Kopp reported the Cumberland Office Supply has met its quota 100 per cent; Wolf Furniture, 257 per cent; Sears Roebuck, 121 per cent, and Central YMCA, 136 per cent.

Housewives Set To Canvass City For Chest

Today housewives of the city will conduct their part in the Community Chest drive to keep the nine agencies going.

Under the direction of Dr. Lillian C. Compton, the residential division will be seeking a goal of $5,000 in the house to house canvass.

Enough workers have been organized to have a woman assigned to every street in the city.

There has been a change in the leadership of Zone 2, which covers Johnson Heights and Mapleside. Dr. Compton said Mrs. C. B. Perdew is zone leader.

The first report meeting held last Friday showed $37,000 collected in the drive for $125,974.

The preliminary reports have been encouraging, General Chairman Charles L. Kopp pointed out, but there is a long road ahead before the goal can be achieved.

This is the final week of the campaign for the largest amount of money needed to support the nine Red Feather agencies, including the Salvation Army.

The next report session will be held today at noon in Central YMCA, with another scheduled for Friday at noon.

Washington Monument Park Road Is Opened

BOONSBORO, Md., Oct. 11 (AP)—A new road into Washington Monument State Park, which boasts what is believed to be the first monument ever erected to George Washington, was officially opened Saturday.

Gov. McKeldin, who cut the traditional ribbons, said: "We here make this monument to the past more accessible to the present and the future." The new road built by the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks replaces a steep, winding road connecting Alternate U.S. 40 east of Boonsboro with the park atop South Mountain.

Water Meeting Tonight

The Board of Allegany County Commissioners will meet with city officials at 7:30 p. m. today on the subject of water and looking to an additional supply.

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards said the session will be held in the office of Mayor Roy W. Eves.

Road Hearing Set October 25

A hearing will be held by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners Tuesday, October 25, at 11:30 a. m. at the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company site in North Branch to determine the facts in connection with closing a number of roads.

James Crites, leader of a number of residents in that area who oppose the closing of the roads by county order, and William C. Walsh, attorney for the company, will be among those heard in the matter.

The company wishes the formal action on closing of the roads so that the title to the more than 600-acre tract is not clouded. The roads in question are said by Walsh to be listed in old deeds but they have not been used for many years. In fact, Walsh said trees six inches in diameter and at least 40 years old are growing in the roadways.

The commissioners decided to have the hearing at the site because there seems to be some confusion as to which road Crites and his group object to closing. There is only one road of the six in question which figures in the objection of the Crites group.

The roads were formally ordered opened some weeks ago as the first step in the legal procedure for their proposed official closing.

Young Pair Again Detained

Two Montgomery County teenagers who were picked up near Grantsville on September 7 on a flight from their homes in an attempt to get married are in custody today again.

The pair, Douglas Dye, 17, and Donna Murray, his 13-year-old sweetheart, are being held at juvenile detention facilities after they made an unsuccessful suicide attempt last Friday near Roanoke, Va.

Judge Alfred D. Noyes of Montgomery County Juvenile Court said the pair will be put under psychiatric study.

"We're trying to work out something that will help them," Noyes said.

Noyes on Monday sent two Juvenile Court workers to Lewis-Gale Hospital at Roanoke where the youngsters were recovering from the poisoning attempt.

The children first fled on Sept. 6 when they broke away from Donna's Silver Spring home armed with a shotgun and rifle. Maryland State Police arrested them the following day after their car overturned near Grantsville on a mountain.

The second flight occurred on September 30 after Noyes found both youngsters guilty of delinquent acts and ordered them never to see one another again. Parents of both children conferred with Noyes on Monday.

Park Animals Well Treated

Animals at Constitution Park are in satisfactory condition and receiving humane treatment.

Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, appeared before the Mayor and Council on Monday to make that report at the request of Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz.

Buchholtz said he asked Minke to report because of complaints about treatment of the animals.

Minke said there are a few minor changes which he would recommend, and offered to submit them in writing. Buchholtz accepted the offer.

The game warden added that the changes would incur mostly labor and little cost.

Buchholtz said he asked for Minke's report in order to emphasize that there "is no inhuman treatment" of animals at the park.

Council also heard from Attorney Gorman E. Getty who said he represented Mrs. A. B. Partleton who has property on Baltimore Avenue and Goethe Street. The properties have been damaged by water and, Getty said, it is believed caused by a break in a storm sewer.

Buchholtz said he will have the sewer crew check the complaint.

Council also heard from Lewis Metz, 450 North Waverly Terrace, who complained of water damage to his property. Buchholtz told him inspections showed nothing could be done.

Commissioner John J. Long asked how soon Ridgewood Avenue improvements would be started. He said residents are plagued by ditches and holes in the street. Buchholtz said the city is ready to start but there is a drainage problem. Barring an emergency, the street commissioner said he would have crews start on the street in the next few days.

Road Bid Is Over Estimate

A telegram was received yesterday by County Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson from Russell McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission that the low bid on the access road and bridge into the new Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company plant site was higher than original estimates for the project.

McCain said that the bid, by the George F. Hazelwood Company of this city, will be given a further review by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads before a decision on awarding the contract is made. The original estimate on the project was approximately $450,000 while Hazelwood bid $507,564.52 to do the work. His firm was $63 lower than the next lowest bidder.

McCain stated that in the event the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads approves the bidding price of Hazelwood then the county would have to furnish additional matching funds to go ahead with the project.

Gorman E. Getty, attorney to the board, said the approximately $28,000 worth of fill material which will be furnished by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company for the approaches may have been included in the bidding on the project. He said he would check the advertisement for the project to determine if this item was included or not.

Where's the smart place to put your savings?
Today millions of Americans will tell you that the smart place to save your money is an insured Savings and Loan Association.
They'll give you three good reasons why this is so . . .
1. You're smart to put your money where it brings you excellent returns. Insured Savings and Loan Associations can invest most of their funds in sound, steady-paying home mortgages. They really make your money work hard for you.
2. You're smart to put your money where you know it's safe. In these Associations, it's protected by good management and substantial reserves. And the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation—an agency of the U. S. Government—insures your savings up to $10,000.
3. You're smart to deal with friendly, experienced people. People who really know their communities. People who are right on the spot when you need them.
So it's hardly surprising that Americans are now putting more of their hard-earned savings account dollars into insured Savings and Loan Associations than they put anywhere else.
And here's another important point: When you're thinking of buying a home, remember that these Associations are the nation's largest single source of home mortgage loans! They make liberal loans. They see to it that you get the money quickly—and at moderate rates.
Shouldn't you get to know an insured Savings and Loan Association in your community? You'll find it's a mighty good place to do business!

Where's the smart place to put your savings?
Today millions of Americans will tell you that the smart place to save your money is an insured Savings and Loan Association.
They'll give you three good reasons why this is so . . .
1. You're smart to put your money where it brings you excellent returns. Insured Savings and Loan Associations can invest most of their funds in sound, steady-paying home mortgages. They really make your money work hard for you.
2. You're smart to put your money where you know it's safe. In these Associations, it's protected by good management and substantial reserves. And the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation—an agency of the U. S. Government—insures your savings up to $10,000.
3. You're smart to deal with friendly, experienced people. People who really know their communities. People who are right on the spot when you need them.
So it's hardly surprising that Americans are now putting more of their hard-earned savings account dollars into insured Savings and Loan Associations than they put anywhere else.
And here's another important point: When you're thinking of buying a home, remember that these Associations are the nation's largest single source of home mortgage loans! They make liberal loans. They see to it that you get the money quickly—and at moderate rates.
Shouldn't you get to know an insured Savings and Loan Association in your community? You'll find it's a mighty good place to do business!

More Voting Machines Are Expected Today

Another shipment of 20 voting machines is expected at the Court House here today.

So far this week 41 devices have been shipped here from the plant at Jamestown, N. Y. After today, two more shipments are expected, one Thursday and the last on Friday. Coupled with the two machines used for the first time in Lonaconing yesterday, the county then will have its entire supply of 103 machines.

Sarver Re-Elected By Hot Rodders

Milton Sarver was re-elected president of the Potomac Valley Auto Club at a meeting last night at Central YMCA.

Other officers are Bud Cunningham, vice president, succeeding Edward Wright; Richard Abe, secretary, and Buck Cunningham, succeeding Robert Kline as treasurer.

one-lane span constructed in 1884. It has a 28-foot roadway with 1,200 feet of approaches in Maryland and 650 feet in West Virginia. In addition there are two sidewalks for pedestrians' use between the two towns. The bridge and approaches were built by George F. Hazelwood Company, this city.

The $419,160 Cumberland-Ridgeley bridge opening was a technical one since work on the Ridgeley approach was delayed when the West Virginia SRC rejected first bids and readvertised for blacktop surfacing.

The bridge was completed some time ago. Some sidewalk, sloping and seeding remains on the Maryland approach.

Governor McKeldin again delivered the principal address and officiated at the ribbon cutting.

All members of the Maryland State Roads Commission attended and an open house was held at the new SRC district headquarters on Braddock Road.

The Cumberland-Ridgeley bridge is a two-span arch structure with 156 feet in each span or a total of 312 feet in length. It has a two-lane, 28-foot roadway with a five-foot sidewalk on each side.

The Maryland approach is .08 of a mile in length and constructed of nine inches of reinforced concrete with a two-inch bitumino concrete wearing course.

The West Virginia approach 375 feet with a nine-inch stone ba and six inches of blacktop weari course.

bridges, from the point of view of modern traffic needs.

"Many more new bridges lie ahead of us in our 12-year program."

Program On Schedule

The governor took the occasion to report that Maryland's long-range, 568-million dollar highway overhaul program, started 21 months ago, "is moving ahead strictly on schedule."

"After a whirlwind start in 1954," he explained, "a breathing spell was in order this year.

"Beginning this month, Roads Commission engineers advise me, our program will move ahead at a fairly steady pace of about 4 million dollars a month in right of way acquisition and construction work put under contract."

McKeldin recalled that Maryland has built 10 bridges across the Potomac in the 50 years since 1905, not counting the high level toll bridge which carries U. S. 301 over the lower reaches of the river between Southern Maryland and Virginia.

Wiley Fo Inadequate

The Wiley Ford bridge at Cumberland, built in 1908 and remodelled in 1936, still is inadequate, he said.

With yesterday's dedications, three new bridges have been opened this year. The other one was at Brunswick, Md.

McKeldin pointed out the old wooden bridge at Kitzmiller, even when it was built in 1884, was only wide enough for one wagon at a time. The new bridge has a 29-foot roadway, plus sidewalks.

The old Blue Bridge between Cumberland and Ridgeley was built "when the first automobiles were emerging but were not thought to be a serious threat of wagons and carriages," the governor said.

He reported a "substantial saving" had been effected and a lot of time was saved by building the new bridge on top of Industrial Dam, built across the river as part of an extensive flood control project.

"I think great credit is due the engineers who designed such a structure," he said.

Kitzmiller Ceremony

At Kitzmiller yesterday, Neil C. Fraley, judge of the Circuit Court of Garrett County, was chairman. Music was furnished by Northern and Southern High School bands.

Welcoming remarks were made by Mayor Earl S. Shank of Kitzmiller. Also speaking briefly were O'Neale, State Senator Clifford Friend of Garrett County; H. D. Swartzentruber, president of the Garrett Board of County Commissioners; McCain and McAlpin, construction engineer of the West Virginia SRC.

The Kitzmiller bridge plaque was unveiled by Miss Alma Kay Propst, 16, of Kitzmiller, with Gov. McKeldin presiding at the ribbon-cutting ceremony.

A luncheon at Kitzmiller Fire Hall followed the ceremonies.

Training Scientists Highly Important

Once more, this time from Canada, anxiety is expressed over an apparent superiority of Russian education in recruiting talented youths for careers in science and engineering.

Dr. W. B. Lewis, Canada's top atomic scientist, had only praise for the caliber of the young men studying at the Chalk River, Ont., atomic installation. But he was worried for the future about the supply of such candidates for participating roles in the atomic age.

In Russia two-thirds of students in higher education are in science and engineering. In the United States, Canada and Great Britain, only 50 per cent are following such studies and these include a high proportion in medicine and related fields.

The Russian educational system is characterized by an organized combing of student bodies for gifted individuals. This begins in the secondary schools where the curriculum in physics, chemistry and mathematics is both broader and more intensive than here. Those found qualified for higher studies are assured of university education, and in general attendance is limited to those so selected.

Viewed in that light the free world's haphazard recruitment of talent and apportioning of opportunity for higher education must be seen as less effective. While the Russian methods are scarcely applicable here, it would seem that much could and should be done by Western nations for more perfect utilization of latent talent.

American businessmen are to be commended for their increasing interest in awarding scholarships to the deserving. The expedient of scholarships awarded by competitive examination deserves more attention than has been given it.

In an age when so much depends on scientific accomplishment, the free world can ill afford the risk of falling behind.

The Campaign Liberals

One of the serious problems that faces any man who wishes to run for president is that he must avoid giving the appearance of being "too conservative." Presumably, a candidate for the Presidency must shout that he is an undefinable liberal. Everyone calls himself a liberal in public appeals from the Communists to the most devoted adherents of Adam Smith.

Bertrand Russell once defined the current liberals as ". . . The man who values liberal ideals is concerned to say, though with some limitations, that individuals should be free in the expression of their opinions whether in speech or in writing, and that private enterprise should be permitted wherever there are not strong positive arguments against it . . ." This is not at all a bad definition although it contains totalitarian phrases as though by accident. Who is to permit private enterprise to function even in this limited fashion? Undoubtedly, the unlimited state, possessing all powers like a medieval baron. This excessive state is certainly not liberalism.

Here one observes the basic conflict of the age and it hinges not upon politics but springs out of a badly-kept field in the realm of morals. In the current campaign to find a president of the United States, the moral man, that is the one who will dare say that no pragmatic compromises can be made with basic moral principles will find himself unpopular because in the Western world, this is an era of compromise arising from moral insecurity. Men who do not find God as the guiding force in their politics as in their Sunday ritual will be pragmatists and must therefore compromise because they believe in nothing stubbornly. Only the orthodox are stubborn because they are convinced that they are right and their conviction comes not from experience but out of faith, which is something very different.

Two recent events show how far we have wandered from the rock of belief which is the foundation of positive Americanism:

1. When President Eisenhower became ill, there was talk of setting up some kind of a council, tantamount to a regency, to act in his name during his incapacity. The idea was dropped as absurd so quickly that it gained no currency. What it amounted to was that some of the keepers of the gate at the White House wanted to be sure that they were not driven out by whatever change might occur constitutionally. They wanted to establish a regency similar to that which Mrs. Woodrow Wilson practised by employing the fiction that a sick man was not sick.

It is to the credit of James Hagerty, presidential press secretary, that when he took over in Denver, the bulletins became so detailed and honest that the nation practically sat at the President's bedside. The degree of his recovery is a matter of importance in these troubled times.

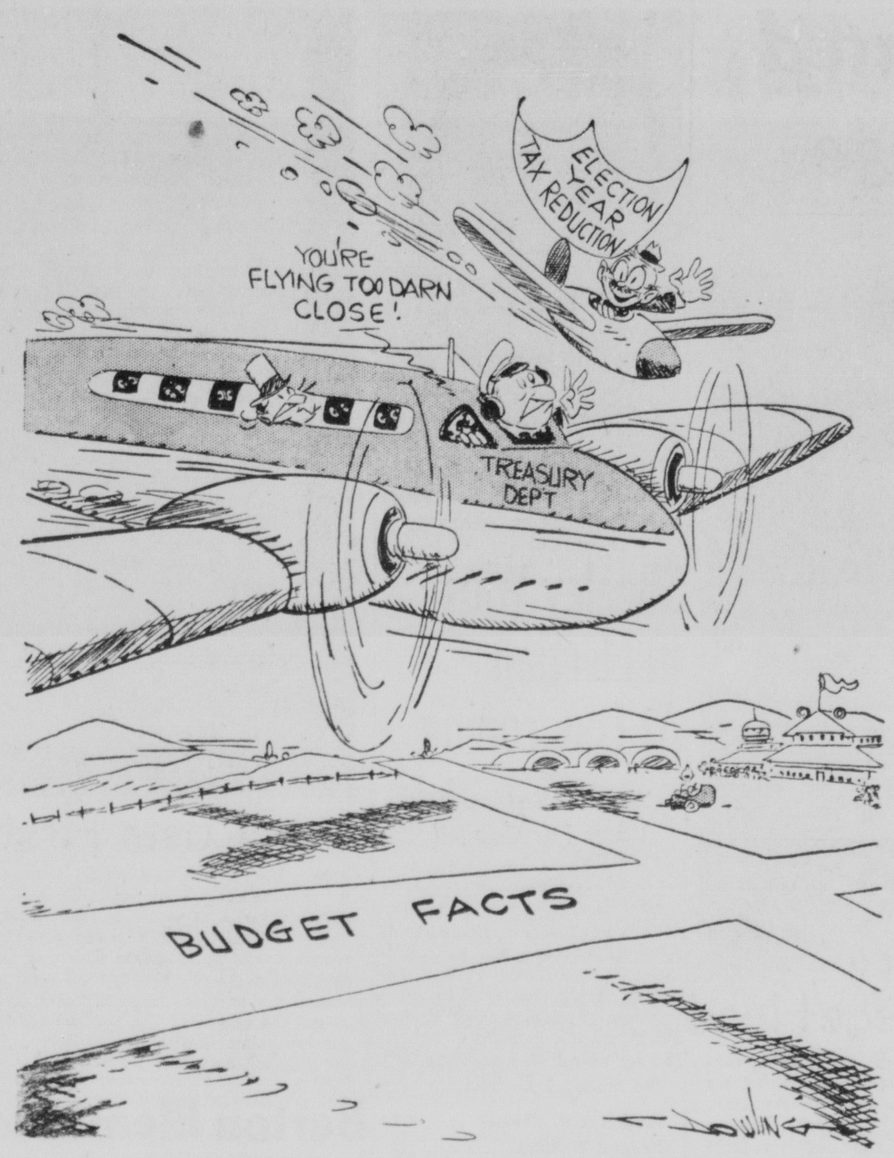

What is also important is the constitutional position of the vice president. There are those who dislike Richard Nixon, but the Constitution must prevail in this country or we shall become an anarchy. The Constitution makes provision for continuity in government should the incumbent President find it impossible to continue. Liking or disliking Nixon or the personal ambitions of certain men can play no role in this situation. Those who were thinking of bypassing the Constitution and who, for a few days, acted as though they would, have no place in the public life of this country. While liberalism, by which is meant pragmatism, may be a popular slogan, constitutionalism is an American fact.

2. Those who engaged in the desecration of the jury room in Wichita, Kas., moved far from the spirit of Anglo-American concepts of justice. In effect, they corrupted the courtroom, the same as a racketeer might have done who handed a judge cash for a decision. In the tradition of our people, the jury system is inviolate and the jury room is a sanctum. All the lawyers associated with putting a microphone in the jury room know this to be so and cannot excuse their conduct by pleading that the University of Chicago is an important institution or that the Ford Foundation is powerful. In the eyes of law, all are equal in our civilization or should be.

And so, if Daniel Webster were alive, he would have an issue to place before the people. In the present mood, Senator William Knowland represents the tradition of orthodox constitutionalism.

Dick Nixon Deftly Rebuffed On Plan To Become Acting U. S. President

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—A play for power always takes place around the person of an ailing president or monarch. Some of the most disastrous intrigue in our history took place during the illness of Woodrow Wilson, when Secretary of State Lansing, uncle of John Foster Dulles, was forced to resign because he tried to take over some of the powers of the President.

Power politics also occurred during the closing year of Franklin Roosevelt's administration when it became apparent he could not last much longer; and the illness of President Eisenhower has been no exception.

The political bickering behind Ike's back has been kept largely from the public and so far hasn't affected important policy. But behind the pleasant statements and the trip by Vice President Nixon to Denver has been the definite fact that Nixon made a bold bid for power and was blocked off by potent members of the Eisenhower staff and cabinet.

For a time, Nixon's attempt to move in as acting president caused deep resentment among the White House personnel and he was told rather bluntly that the staff and cabinet could carry on without his barging into the picture.

Part of this inside power struggle has already been told. Part is still held very close to the chest of top cabinet members and probably will be denied. However, it's extremely important in connection with the question of who will inherit Ike's mantle as GOP candidate in 1956.

President Vs. V. P.

The founding fathers made no clear provision that the vice president should take over the powers of the President in case of illness, and practice has kept the two offices largely separate.

Charles G. Dawes, for instance, missed a tie vote in the Senate under Calvin Collidge because his alarm clock didn't go off and he overslept. But it was reliably reported that Dawes' late arrival was deliberate. The two men didn't get along.

Vice President Jack Garner likewise was completely out of sympathy with much of the Roosevelt program. Vice President Charles Curtis was never close to Herbert Hoover, and Vice President Henry Wallace, though in sympathy with Roosevelt and given charge of the Board of Economic Warfare, was in a constant battle with Jesse James and Cordell Hull.

Nixon, long before Eisenhower became ill, had staged an adroit and partially successful drive to become part of the executive branch of government. He even managed to get himself photographed as presiding over a cabinet meeting while Eisenhower was in Geneva. So far as observers can recall, this was the first time, certainly in recent history, that a cabinet meeting was held under the vice president.

Nixon Moves In

Immediately after Eisenhower was stricken, however, Nixon moved in with a bang. He and close friends proposed that he become, in effect, acting president.

This has already been denied, and will be denied again. Now that the President seems well on the road to recovery Nixon's friends don't want it to appear that he tried to move in on the White House. However, the fact is that he did, and many members of the White House staff resented it. So did most members of the cabinet.

Nixon's close friend, William Rogers, deputy attorney general, has denied that he telephoned Attorney General Brownell in Spain to ask him for a ruling whereby Nixon would be given presidential powers. Other Justice Department officials say a more accurate description would be that "communicated" with Brownell.

At any rate he did ask Lee Rankin, assistant attorney general in charge of legal opinions, for a legal opinion on this question. Rankin was highly skeptical. Brownell was even more so. In fact he was flatly opposed.

Meanwhile Jim Hagerty, White House press secretary, in Denver had announced publicly that such a ruling was being considered, while Nixon confided the same information to newsmen.

"I can't be quoted," he said, "but it's under consideration."

In one argument with Brownell, Nixon also pointed out that he was elected by the American people, therefore should take control in the emergency. The cabinet and White House staff, he argued, were only appointed.

The men who finally put the young vice president in his place and put him there hard were Brownell, Sherman Adams and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. They were polite about it, but they were equally emphatic. They may deny it now, but this was the fact.

At a meeting in Humphrey's office, he outlined the strategy of sending Sherman Adams out to Denver with a couple of documents for the President to sign, even though inconsequential, to prove to the public that business would continue as usual and that no acting president was necessary. This was done.

As a face-saver, Adams had the President sign a letter to Nixon whereby he was asked to carry on his previous titular functions, such as presiding over the National Security Council. But the letter contained a carefully worded instruction that Nixon was to handle these matters under the same setup as in the past—in other words, he would make no policy decisions.

As another face-saver, Nixon was also given a trip to Denver. But Sherman Adams was careful to go along.

Nobody knew at the time this power play first started whether the President was going to pull through or not. So the cabinet members realized they might be making enemies of the man who might become president of the United States. However, despite denials, they acted promptly and with vigor, though never taking off the silk gloves.

But when it was all over the young vice president had no illusions about the fact that he had been put in his place. An old friend from Congress asked him to help expedite an important matter dealing with the New England flood area.

Nixon declined. He said he had no authority, could make no recommmendations, give no advice. He had the air of a man whose bubble has been very much deflated.

Constitutionality Test Requires Law Violation

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Few people realize that a person actually has to violate a law and run the risk of penalty in order to get a court test of the constitutionality of that law.

Hence, abuse is being wrongfully heaped on Governor J. Bracken Lee of Utah, who has announced that he isn't going to pay his income taxes because the federal government, in his opinion, has no right to spend his money to support or aid foreign governments or countries.

Mr. Lee may not win his court case and, in fact, the end result may be that the federal government will make some money on him. For when one doesn't pay income taxes, a six per cent interest charge is levied from the date the taxes are due.

Would Pay Interest

If, therefore, the litigation lasts several years and Mr. Lee loses, he will be obliged to pay the full amount plus the accumulated interest at the rate of six per cent. No criminal action is involved if the taxpayer makes his return and fully discloses his income. When he objects to payment, this is a civil, not a criminal case.

There has been some mention in the news reports that the government might attach a lien on Governor Lee's bank account. It could do this but probably will not, for that would be playing into the governor's hands. That's because of a possible legal pitfall for the government in fighting the issue. It's a question, for instance, whether refusal to pay income taxes on the plea that the money is being improperly spent would cause the Supreme Court to take the case at all. It could refuse on the ground that the governor's interest was really not material. The moment his bank account is attached, however, it would give the governor legal standing and a direct interest in any suit.

Most of the time, when there are disputes about payment of back taxes, the federal government doesn't attach any liens or attempt to collect until the case goes through the courts and is finally adjudicated, whereupon it presents a claim for payment. If this is ignored, the government then confiscates a part or all of a taxpayer's property to get the money to pay the claim. Usually the federal government lays off on such enforcement measures till the case is decided by the courts unless, of course, it anticipates that a man's assets might be dissipated in the meantime.

Balanced Against Publicity

On its face, it will be contended that the Utah governor hasn't a chance of winning his case, and hence the expense involved to him in extra interest payments and lawyers' fees will have to be balanced by him against the amount of publicity he may get for his cause. It could, to be sure, prove relatively inexpensive as a promotion of his arguments in the court of public opinion.

The Utah governor's point is that money raised from American taxpayers should be used only inside the United States or at least for the direct benefit of the American people. Now there are some appropriations for foreign aid of a military nature which could readily be proved by the testimony of military experts to be of direct help to the American people. But some of the funds used for economic aid might not be so easily demonstrated in court to be of direct benefit to the people of the United States. It is presumably this angle which the Utah governor wants to agitate.

Based on recent cases in the Supreme Court of the United States, there is a question whether any taxpayer can get into the high court with an argument about the way his funds are spent by the government. The court might refuse even to hear it. In a famous case known as "Massachusetts versus Mellon," it was decided by the Supreme Court of the United States that the interest of a federal taxpayer in a federal appropriation is too indirect to provide him with standing to challenge the appropriation.

But it so happens that many of the "liberals" have lately been saying that the Supreme Court's requirements of a "pocketbook interest" by the citizen draw too narrow a line on which to reject cases questioning federal appropriations. Professor Ralph F. Bischoff, assistant dean of the New York University school of law, in a recent symposium on the "Conditions and Scope of Constitutional Review," argues that the Supreme Court's "conception of litigable standing needs to be reformed."

American System

The same professor wrote this while arguing that some of the persons who wanted to enjoin New York from enforcing the state law on eliminating subversive persons from the staffs of public schools should have been allowed to appear in the Supreme Court as plaintiffs against the constitutionality of the state law. Professor Bischoff wrote:

"The effect of denial is to require the teacher to disobey the statute by being a member of a proscribed organization and thus to risk discharge in order to raise the issue of constitutionality."

Mr. Bischoff is right—for that's the American system by which laws are tested. It so happens that in this instance it is the governor of a state who is taking all the risks of adverse comment and the possible loss of interest money in order to determine whether the federal government can be legally restrained from spending its money for any purpose whatsoever outside the United States.

Got couple hundred letters from Brooklynites who are mad at me for picking the Yanks after the first two games.

Folks, in a moment of triumph why set your clocks back?

We accept the rebukes in the spirit in which they were tendered. Scathing.

After that second game in the Stadium we didn't think the Bums had any more chance than a bird watcher in a blizzard.

But let's have no more guided missiles from Brooklyn fans. The spanked child dreads the hot hand.

Moved By Greed

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (INS) — The relatives of Adolph Hitler and Eva Braun have been attempting for a decade to get the German courts to declare them dead officially. Greed rather than historical clarification moves them.

Hitler left three properties: The great rambling house atop Berchtesgaden, a more modest place in Munich, and his book "Mein Kampf."

The courts up to now have considered Hitler and his wife alive for want of a witness who saw them dead. Hitler's valet, Heinz Linge, just returned from 10 years in a Russian prison, may offer the testimony that will clear up the matter to the full satisfaction of the German jurisprudence.

He entered Hitler's bedroom immediately after the man shot himself through the mouth on the afternoon of April 30, 1945. Linge put a blanket over the body and with the aid of a chauffeur carried it to the garden outside where lay the body of Eva Braun, who had died just earlier of perhaps the same poison capsule that Goering used to kill himself at Nuremberg.

Linge spread Hitler's blanket over both bodies, soaked them in gasoline, and touched a match to what lay there. He was captured by the Russians shortly after that and only now has been released. His testimony should give the courts the necessary confirmation of the obvious fact that the despot is dead and gone.

When last observed, the eagle's nest at Berchtesgaden, looking down on some of the most beautiful countryside in the world, was a tea house and tourist attraction.

Ten years ago, Allied officers stationed in that area told me they contemplated scraping the whole thing off the top of the delightful mountain, in fear that it might become a Nazi shrine. But everybody who has been to Germany since V-E Day knows full well that there aren't any Nazis, nor can you meet a German who ever knew one.

The house in Munich shouldn't produce any more income for the heirs than, say, Wallis Warfield's house in Baltimore. But the book remains a valuable property, especially if royalties can be collected from firms which pirated the manuscript and printed it outside Germany for their own benefit.

One firm we know of sold the books like mad and announced with pious hypocrisy that Hitler, the louse, wouldn't receive a penny for the sales. The pirate neglected to mention that he was keeping it all for himself.

But the Berchtesgaden place could become one of the top tourist traps of that part of the world, travelers being either curious or morbid or both.

Brother Alois Shicklegruber, serving the suds or taking tickets at the entrance of the two-story elevator that climbs the last few hundred feet of the mountain to the aerie, should be quite an added attraction. He is the white sheep of Hitler's family.

If the designated heirs set out to regain the furnishings of Hitler's places at Berchtesgaden (the house he preferred was down the hill a bit, and smaller) they'll have to search the world. Every soldier and correspondent of every nationality that passed that way carried off what he could lift. But it's only honest to inform the heirs that if they recover everything except a desk set, a book called "Der Soldat," a monogrammed tablecloth, sherbet glass, fruit bowl, cream pitcher, piece of a living room rug, and a bottle of Moselle (Erbhof Welzenbach, 1942), I've got 'em.

Yes, and some of Reichsleiter Martin Bormann's stationery. The signs all about the place said that anybody caught looting would be immediately court-martialed. Indeed, a chaplain was on a court for cutting a rug, literally. But thanks to a 5,000,000-to-1 shot the sergeant who stopped me as I wantered through an underground passage with the hot stuff turned out to be Eddie Simon of the New York Daily Mirror. He showed me the passage way that led to New York.

Columbus' Discovery Was Sad Day For Indians

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

When Columbus opened the door to the Western Hemisphere, it was a sad and tragic day for the native Americans. This trip set the stage for a mass exodus of pestilence and disease from a sickly and ailing Europe and Africa. In the 15th Century, these lands were going through some of the worst epidemics known to man.

Leprosy, malaria, scurvy, cholera, influenza, tuberculosis, typhoid, yellow fever, yaws, black death, and venereal diseases were rife. During the next century many common epidemics appeared such as measles, chicken pox, smallpox, typhus, diphtheria, and whooping cough.

Many factors contributed to this state of affairs. The people lived in crowded, squalid, insanitary surroundings. Immorality and misrule were widespread. The nations were constantly at war and epidemics were spread by wandering soldiers, students, and other vagabond characters.

The situation in this hemisphere was different. It is estimated that there were 30 million Indians concentrated mainly in Mexico, Peru, Central America, and the West Indies. They appear to have been a healthy lot. There was no tuberculosis or syphilis and malaria probably did not exist.

But because the Red Man had never suffered from smallpox, diphtheria, or tuberculosis, he was extremely susceptible. According to the late Dr. David J. Davis, because the Indians had little or no resistance, their bodies furnished a favorable medium for germs to multiply.

The Indians were constantly on the move because of climate, war, and search for food and these excursions disseminated the contagions over wide areas. Later, the Red Man's fondness for and susceptibility to alcohol hastened the process of demoralization, poverty, and irresponsibility.

The medical aspects of Columbus' discovery have been overshadowed by the results of the migration of millions from Europe and Africa to Central and South America. The economy of the 15th and 16th Centuries was affected vastly by the wealth from the new world. There was an interchange of plants and animals establishing new markets, industries, foods and habits.

In addition, man's fight against disease was stimulated because there was no profit in these gains so long as illness, pestilence, and epidemics continued. Would Europe be the same today as it was in 1492 had the discovery of America been postponed another five centuries?

TOMORROW: The usual story of measles.

ELBOW ROUGHENING

T. S. writes: What causes roughness and scaling of the skin of the elbows?

REPLY

This common condition usually is due to rubbing elbows against the table, desk, or the bedding.

TAKE CARE OF IT

Mrs. H. writes: I'm 50 years old and have a hernia that does not cause any trouble. Can I live my years out without operation or should it be repaired?

REPLY

This hernia should be repaired now because no one can predict whether it will remain inactive or cause trouble when you reach 70. At that age, the risk of surgery is greater.

IMPAIRED CIRCULATION

Mrs. W. writes: Is gangrene caused by hardening of the arteries?

REPLY

Lack of blood to the parts leads to gangrene and arteriosclerosis is only one of several causes of poor circulation.

MISSING FACTOR

S. W. writes: In hemophilia, what is lacking in the blood that causes hemorrhages?

REPLY

There is a disturbance in coagulation time in this blood disorder because a certain protein, called antihemophilic globulin (AHG) is lacking in the plasma.

RED CELL PRODUCTION

S. W. writes: How many red blood cells are manufactured each hour?

REPLY

Ten million per second or 360 million per hour. There are said to be 35 trillion red blood cells in the body but overproduction need not be feared because old ones are destroyed as fast as new ones are made.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

The most independent taxi driver in San Francisco, insists Herb Caen, is the burly chap who drives his cab up to a big hotel every time a heavy storm breaks, and sits calmly reading a newspaper, refusing to allow any customers huddled under the marquee to enter his cab.

"When de sun is shinin', and I need customers," he yells at them, "nonaya gimme a tumble. Now, when it's pourn' y'all want me. T'ell with ya!"

A circus propietor once chartered this fellow's cab and climbed into the back with a baby elephant in tow. The driver demanded fifty cents more than the meter registered when the ride was over. "Dat's de law," he pointed out, "for carryin' a trunk."

Liking or disliking Nixon or the personal ambitions of certain men can play no role in this situation. Those who were thinking of bypassing the Constitution and who, for a few days, acted as though they would, have no place in the public life of this country. While liberalism, by which is meant pragmatism, may be a popular slogan, constitutionalism is an American fact.

2. Those who engaged in the desecration of the jury room in Wichita, Kas., moved far from the spirit of Anglo-American concepts of justice. In effect, they corrupted the courtroom, the same as a racketeer might have done who handed a judge cash for a decision. In the tradition of our people, the jury system is inviolate and the jury room is a sanctum. All the lawyers associated with putting a microphone in the jury room know this to be so and cannot excuse their conduct by pleading that the University of Chicago is an important institution or that the Ford Foundation is powerful. In the eyes of law, all are equal in our civilization or should be.

And so, if Daniel Webster were alive, he would have an issue to place before the people. In the present mood, Senator William Knowland represents the tradition of orthodox constitutionalism.

Constitutionality Test Requires Law Violation

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Few people realize that a person actually has to violate a law and run the risk of penalty in order to get a court test of the constitutionality of that law.

Hence, abuse is being wrongfully heaped on Governor J. Bracken Lee of Utah, who has announced that he isn't going to pay his income taxes because the federal government, in his opinion, has no right to spend his money to support or aid foreign governments or countries.

Mr. Lee may not win his court case and, in fact, the end result may be that the federal government will make some money on him. For when one doesn't pay income taxes, a six per cent interest charge is levied from the date the taxes are due.

Would Pay Interest

If, therefore, the litigation lasts several years and Mr. Lee loses, he will be obliged to pay the full amount plus the accumulated interest at the rate of six per cent. No criminal action is involved if the taxpayer makes his return and fully discloses his income. When he objects to payment, this is a civil, not a criminal case.

There has been some mention in the news reports that the government might attach a lien on Governor Lee's bank account. It could do this but probably will not, for that would be playing into the governor's hands. That's because of a possible legal pitfall for the government in fighting the issue. It's a question, for instance, whether refusal to pay income taxes on the plea that the money is being improperly spent would cause the Supreme Court to take the case at all. It could refuse on the ground that the governor's interest was really not material. The moment his bank account is attached, however, it would give the governor legal standing and a direct interest in any suit.

Most of the time, when there are disputes about payment of back taxes, the federal government doesn't attach any liens or attempt to collect until the case goes through the courts and is finally adjudicated, whereupon it presents a claim for payment. If this is ignored, the government then confiscates a part or all of a taxpayer's property to get the money to pay the claim. Usually the federal government lays off on such enforcement measures till the case is decided by the courts unless, of course, it anticipates that a man's assets might be dissipated in the meantime.

Balanced Against Publicity

On its face, it will be contended that the Utah governor hasn't a chance of winning his case, and hence the expense involved to him in extra interest payments and lawyers' fees will have to be balanced by him against the amount of publicity he may get for his cause. It could, to be sure, prove relatively inexpensive as a promotion of his arguments in the court of public opinion.

The Utah governor's point is that money raised from American taxpayers should be used only inside the United States or at least for the direct benefit of the American people. Now there are some appropriations for foreign aid of a military nature which could readily be proved by the testimony of military experts to be of direct help to the American people. But some of the funds used for economic aid might not be so easily demonstrated in court to be of direct benefit to the people of the United States. It is presumably this angle which the Utah governor wants to agitate.

Based on recent cases in the Supreme Court of the United States, there is a question whether any taxpayer can get into the high court with an argument about the way his funds are spent by the government. The court might refuse even to hear it. In a famous case known as "Massachusetts versus Mellon," it was decided by the Supreme Court of the United States that the interest of a federal taxpayer in a federal appropriation is too indirect to provide him with standing to challenge the appropriation.

But it so happens that many of the "liberals" have lately been saying that the Supreme Court's requirements of a "pocketbook interest" by the citizen draw too narrow a line on which to reject cases questioning federal appropriations. Professor Ralph F. Bischoff, assistant dean of the New York University school of law, in a recent symposium on the "Conditions and Scope of Constitutional Review," argues that the Supreme Court's "conception of litigable standing needs to be reformed."

American System

The same professor wrote this while arguing that some of the persons who wanted to enjoin New York from enforcing the state law on eliminating subversive persons from the staffs of public schools should have been allowed to appear in the Supreme Court as plaintiffs against the constitutionality of the state law. Professor Bischoff wrote:

"The effect of denial is to require the teacher to disobey the statute by being a member of a proscribed organization and thus to risk discharge in order to raise the issue of constitutionality."

Mr. Bischoff is right—for that's the American system by which laws are tested. It so happens that in this instance it is the governor of a state who is taking all the risks of adverse comment and the possible loss of interest money in order to determine whether the federal government can be legally restrained from spending its money for any purpose whatsoever outside the United States.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Got couple hundred letters from Brooklynites who are mad at me for picking the Yanks after the first two games.

Folks, in a moment of triumph why set your clocks back?

We accept the rebukes in the spirit in which they were tendered. Scathing.

After that second game in the Stadium we didn't think the Bums had any more chance than a bird watcher in a blizzard.

But let's have no more guided missiles from Brooklyn fans. The spanked child dreads the hot hand.

We advise the Flatbushers that next year is another year. Maybe that Amoros fellow will get a bunion.

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—A play for power always takes place around the person of an ailing president or monarch. Some of the most disastrous intrigue in our history took place during the illness of Woodrow Wilson, when Secretary of State Lansing, uncle of John Foster Dulles, was forced to resign because he tried to take over some of the powers of the President.

Power politics also occurred during the closing year of Franklin Roosevelt's administration when it became apparent he could not last much longer; and the illness of President Eisenhower has been no exception.

The political bickering behind Ike's back has been kept largely from the public and so far hasn't affected important policy. But behind the pleasant statements and the trip by Vice President Nixon to Denver has been the definite fact that Nixon made a bold bid for power and was blocked off by potent members of the Eisenhower staff and cabinet.

For a time, Nixon's attempt to move in as acting president caused deep resentment among the White House personnel and he was told rather bluntly that the staff and cabinet could carry on without his barging into the picture.

Part of this inside power struggle has already been told. Part is still held very close to the chest of top cabinet members and probably will be denied. However, it's extremely important in connection with the question of who will inherit Ike's mantle as GOP candidate in 1956.

President Vs. V. P.

The founding fathers made no clear provision that the vice president should take over the powers of the President in case of illness, and practice has kept the two offices largely separate.

Charles G. Dawes, for instance, missed a tie vote in the Senate under Calvin Collidge because his alarm clock didn't go off and he overslept. But it was reliably reported that Dawes' late arrival was deliberate. The two men didn't get along.

Vice President Jack Garner likewise was completely out of sympathy with much of the Roosevelt program. Vice President Charles Curtis was never close to Herbert Hoover, and Vice President Henry Wallace, though in sympathy with Roosevelt and given charge of the Board of Economic Warfare, was in a constant battle with Jesse James and Cordell Hull.

Nixon, long before Eisenhower became ill, had staged an adroit and partially successful drive to become part of the executive branch of government. He even managed to get himself photographed as presiding over a cabinet meeting while Eisenhower was in Geneva. So far as observers can recall, this was the first time, certainly in recent history, that a cabinet meeting was held under the vice president.

Nixon Moves In

Immediately after Eisenhower was stricken, however, Nixon moved in with a bang. He and close friends proposed that he become, in effect, acting president.

This has already been denied, and will be denied again. Now that the President seems well on the road to recovery Nixon's friends don't want it to appear that he tried to move in on the White House. However, the fact is that he did, and many members of the White House staff resented it. So did most members of the cabinet.

Nixon's close friend, William Rogers, deputy attorney general, has denied that he telephoned Attorney General Brownell in Spain to ask him for a ruling whereby Nixon would be given presidential powers. Other Justice Department officials say a more accurate description would be that "communicated" with Brownell.

At any rate he did ask Lee Rankin, assistant attorney general in charge of legal opinions, for a legal opinion on this question. Rankin was highly skeptical. Brownell was even more so. In fact he was flatly opposed.

Meanwhile Jim Hagerty, White House press secretary, in Denver had announced publicly that such a ruling was being considered, while Nixon confided the same information to newsmen.

"I can't be quoted," he said, "but it's under consideration."

In one argument with Brownell, Nixon also pointed out that he was elected by the American people, therefore should take control in the emergency. The cabinet and White House staff, he argued, were only appointed.

The men who finally put the young vice president in his place and put him there hard were Brownell, Sherman Adams and Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey. They were polite about it, but they were equally emphatic. They may deny it now, but this was the fact.

At a meeting in Humphrey's office, he outlined the strategy of sending Sherman Adams out to Denver with a couple of documents for the President to sign, even though inconsequential, to prove to the public that business would continue as usual and that no acting president was necessary. This was done.

As a face-saver, Adams had the President sign a letter to Nixon whereby he was asked to carry on his previous titular functions, such as presiding over the National Security Council. But the letter contained a carefully worded instruction that Nixon was to handle these matters under the same setup as in the past—in other words, he would make no policy decisions.

As another face-saver, Nixon was also given a trip to Denver. But Sherman Adams was careful to go along.

Nobody knew at the time this power play first started whether the President was going to pull through or not. So the cabinet members realized they might be making enemies of the man who might become president of the United States. However, despite denials, they acted promptly and with vigor, though never taking off the silk gloves.

But when it was all over the young vice president had no illusions about the fact that he had been put in his place. An old friend from Congress asked him to help expedite an important matter dealing with the New England flood area.

Nixon declined. He said he had no authority, could make no recommmendations, give no advice. He had the air of a man whose bubble has been very much deflated.

Moved By Greed

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (INS) — The relatives of Adolph Hitler and Eva Braun have been attempting for a decade to get the German courts to declare them dead officially. Greed rather than historical clarification moves them.

Hitler left three properties: The great rambling house atop Berchtesgaden, a more modest place in Munich, and his book "Mein Kampf."

The courts up to now have considered Hitler and his wife alive for want of a witness who saw them dead. Hitler's valet, Heinz Linge, just returned from 10 years in a Russian prison, may offer the testimony that will clear up the matter to the full satisfaction of the German jurisprudence.

He entered Hitler's bedroom immediately after the man shot himself through the mouth on the afternoon of April 30, 1945. Linge put a blanket over the body and with the aid of a chauffeur carried it to the garden outside where lay the body of Eva Braun, who had died just earlier of perhaps the same poison capsule that Goering used to kill himself at Nuremberg.

Linge spread Hitler's blanket over both bodies, soaked them in gasoline, and touched a match to what lay there. He was captured by the Russians shortly after that and only now has been released. His testimony should give the courts the necessary confirmation of the obvious fact that the despot is dead and gone.

When last observed, the eagle's nest at Berchtesgaden, looking down on some of the most beautiful countryside in the world, was a tea house and tourist attraction.

Ten years ago, Allied officers stationed in that area told me they contemplated scraping the whole thing off the top of the delightful mountain, in fear that it might become a Nazi shrine. But everybody who has been to Germany since V-E Day knows full well that there aren't any Nazis, nor can you meet a German who ever knew one.

The house in Munich shouldn't produce any more income for the heirs than, say, Wallis Warfield's house in Baltimore. But the book remains a valuable property, especially if royalties can be collected from firms which pirated the manuscript and printed it outside Germany for their own benefit.

One firm we know of sold the books like mad and announced with pious hypocrisy that Hitler, the louse, wouldn't receive a penny for the sales. The pirate neglected to mention that he was keeping it all for himself.

But the Berchtesgaden place could become one of the top tourist traps of that part of the world, travelers being either curious or morbid or both.

Brother Alois Shicklegruber, serving the suds or taking tickets at the entrance of the two-story elevator that climbs the last few hundred feet of the mountain to the aerie, should be quite an added attraction. He is the white sheep of Hitler's family.

If the designated heirs set out to regain the furnishings of Hitler's places at Berchtesgaden (the house he preferred was down the hill a bit, and smaller) they'll have to search the world. Every soldier and correspondent of every nationality that passed that way carried off what he could lift. But it's only honest to inform the heirs that if they recover everything except a desk set, a book called "Der Soldat," a monogrammed tablecloth, sherbet glass, fruit bowl, cream pitcher, piece of a living room rug, and a bottle of Moselle (Erbhof Welzenbach, 1942), I've got 'em.

Yes, and some of Reichsleiter Martin Bormann's stationery. The signs all about the place said that anybody caught looting would be immediately court-martialed. Indeed, a chaplain was on a court for cutting a rug, literally. But thanks to a 5,000,000-to-1 shot the sergeant who stopped me as I wantered through an underground passage with the hot stuff turned out to be Eddie Simon of the New York Daily Mirror. He showed me the passage way that led to New York.

Columbus' Discovery Was Sad Day For Indians

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

When Columbus opened the door to the Western Hemisphere, it was a sad and tragic day for the native Americans. This trip set the stage for a mass exodus of pestilence and disease from a sickly and ailing Europe and Africa. In the 15th Century, these lands were going through some of the worst epidemics known to man.

Leprosy, malaria, scurvy, cholera, influenza, tuberculosis, typhoid, yellow fever, yaws, black death, and venereal diseases were rife. During the next century many common epidemics appeared such as measles, chicken pox, smallpox, typhus, diphtheria, and whooping cough.

Many factors contributed to this state of affairs. The people lived in crowded, squalid, insanitary surroundings. Immorality and misrule were widespread. The nations were constantly at war and epidemics were spread by wandering soldiers, students, and other vagabond characters.

The situation in this hemisphere was different. It is estimated that there were 30 million Indians concentrated mainly in Mexico, Peru, Central America, and the West Indies. They appear to have been a healthy lot. There was no tuberculosis or syphilis and malaria probably did not exist.

But because the Red Man had never suffered from smallpox, diphtheria, or tuberculosis, he was extremely susceptible. According to the late Dr. David J. Davis, because the Indians had little or no resistance, their bodies furnished a favorable medium for germs to multiply.

The Indians were constantly on the move because of climate, war, and search for food and these excursions disseminated the contagions over wide areas. Later, the Red Man's fondness for and susceptibility to alcohol hastened the process of demoralization, poverty, and irresponsibility.

The medical aspects of Columbus' discovery have been overshadowed by the results of the migration of millions from Europe and Africa to Central and South America. The economy of the 15th and 16th Centuries was affected vastly by the wealth from the new world. There was an interchange of plants and animals establishing new markets, industries, foods and habits.

In addition, man's fight against disease was stimulated because there was no profit in these gains so long as illness, pestilence, and epidemics continued. Would Europe be the same today as it was in 1492 had the discovery of America been postponed another five centuries?

TOMORROW: The usual story of measles.

ELBOW ROUGHENING

T. S. writes: What causes roughness and scaling of the skin of the elbows?

REPLY

This common condition usually is due to rubbing elbows against the table, desk, or the bedding.

TAKE CARE OF IT

Mrs. H. writes: I'm 50 years old and have a hernia that does not cause any trouble. Can I live my years out without operation or should it be repaired?

REPLY

This hernia should be repaired now because no one can predict whether it will remain inactive or cause trouble when you reach 70. At that age, the risk of surgery is greater.

IMPAIRED CIRCULATION

Mrs. W. writes: Is gangrene caused by hardening of the arteries?

REPLY

Lack of blood to the parts leads to gangrene and arteriosclerosis is only one of several causes of poor circulation.

MISSING FACTOR

S. W. writes: In hemophilia, what is lacking in the blood that causes hemorrhages?

REPLY

There is a disturbance in coagulation time in this blood disorder because a certain protein, called antihemophilic globulin (AHG) is lacking in the plasma.

RED CELL PRODUCTION

S. W. writes: How many red blood cells are manufactured each hour?

REPLY

Ten million per second or 360 million per hour. There are said to be 35 trillion red blood cells in the body but overproduction need not be feared because old ones are destroyed as fast as new ones are made.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Deilen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

The most independent taxi driver in San Francisco, insists Herb Caen, is the burly chap who drives his cab up to a big hotel every time a heavy storm breaks, and sits calmly reading a newspaper, refusing to allow any customers huddled under the marquee to enter his cab.

"When de sun is shinin', and I need customers," he yells at them, "nonaya gimme a tumble. Now, when it's pourn' y'all want me. T'ell with ya!"

A circus propietor once chartered this fellow's cab and climbed into the back with a baby elephant in tow. The driver demanded fifty cents more than the meter registered when the ride was over. "Dat's de law," he pointed out, "for carryin' a trunk."

R. Bowen Hardesty Inaugurated President Of Teachers College

Dr. J. E. Moreland Issues Challenge To All Educators

FROSTBURG — Described as "a man of scholarly attainments," by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, and "an honored son of our institution," by Dr. J. Earl Moreland, president of Randolph-Macon College, R. Bowen Hardesty was formally inaugurated as president of Frostburg State Teachers College in Compton Hall yesterday.

Dr. Moreland, who came here from Ashland, Va., to deliver the major address not only praised the work, attainments and ability of Hardesty, but issued a challenge to all educators. He urged all teachers to return to "an educational gospel which exacted maximum effort on the part of every pupil."

"We at Randolph Macon take pride in this honored son of our institution," Dr. Moreland said of Hardesty.

"We take pride in the record of excellence he has made as a teacher and a leader in public education in Maryland. We know well of his character, his intelligence and his integrity. My colleagues on the faculty of Randolph-Macon join me in congratulating the trustees of this worthy college on the wisdom of their selection of President Hardesty."

Dr. Moreland devoted much of his inaugural address to a review of "the perplexing problems that are presented to us as we consider the task of the teacher in our times."

"The body of knowledge is constantly being enlarged," he said. "The facts are multiplied. Interpretation becomes more difficult — but by the same token more imperative, more important.

Cites Fundamentals

After reciting some of the changes in education and teaching in the past half-century, Dr. Moreland said there are two fundamentals of teaching which are being revived:

1. Thorough teaching.
2. "An educational gospel which exacted maximum effort on the part of every pupil."

Citing one of his own elementary teachers, Dr. Moreland said "there was a certain inspiring quality which attended his exacting demands."

Must Work Hard

"With all our labor saving processes, our social security, our justly famed insurance policy provisions, our government subsidies at every level of life, and our abundant leisure hours, it is still true that we must travel the highway called hard work if we are to achieve happiness.

"I greatly fear two world wars, paternalistic government, decreased hours of work and increased leisure hours—all the devices of our time—complicate and make more difficult the task of the teacher.

"Parents themselves often do all they can to shield their sons and daughters from learning. It seems that textbooks make subject matter attractive, leaving two questions perhaps unanswered: 'Are the facts being made available?' and 'Is the truth being taught?'

"How we do need right now in schools more and more of those men and women who conceive of teaching as an art."

Man Of Experience

Gov. McKeldin who came here to honor Hardesty told the audience of over 750, that Hardesty brings to Frostburg State Teachers College the ability to ispire instructors and stuednts on an endless quest of knowledge.

Gov. McKeldin noted that Hardesty has been a long-time teacher in Maryland's school system, and has an outstanding record as an administrator in his past capacities as principal and county superintendent.

Hardesty's experience as a school principal and county superintendent of schools will stand him in good stead here, the governor said in a speech prepared for delivery.

Hardesty last December was named to replace President Lillian C. Compton as head of the college.

Hardesty joined the Maryland school system as a teacher at Millersville Elementary School in Anne Arundel County in 1933 and later taught at Glen Burnie and Dundalk high schools. He became principal of Carroll Manor Junior High School in 1942 and later was principal at Eldridge and Aberdeen high schools before becoming superintendent in Garrett County in 1948.

A native of Calvert County, he studied at Randolph-Macon College in Virginia and received his master of arts degree from Columbia University in 1934. He is to receive his doctors degree there soon.

Tells Of New Schools

Garrett County's "two new high schools are concrete tributes to his careful planning and wise direction," McKeldin said.

"This proven ability and this combined gift on administration and scholarship will be of great importance to this college in the years that lie ahead—great years of material and intellectual progress," the governor continued.

"Surveys indicate that Maryland will have more than 75,000 students in colleges and universities by 1970 — compared with something over 40,000 today.

"The teachers colleges—Frostburg and the others—must be prominent in the picture of this progress," McKeldin said.

William A. Gunter, member of the State Board of Education, presided. After a processional of special guests of the college, official delegates of institutions and organizations, the faculty, members of the State Board of Education, the State Superintendent of Schools, the Governor of Maryland, the presiding officer, and the president-elect, the invocation was given by Reverend Edward A. Godsey of the First Methodist Church.

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., introduced the speaker, Dr. J. Earl Moreland, president of Randolph-Macon College in Ashland, Virginia.

Jerome Frampton, Jr., vice-president of the State Board of Education, gave the induction statement to Haresty. This was followed by Hardesty's inaugural address.

Reverend W. DeWitt Dickey, of Calvary Methodist Church, Mt. Airy, Maryland, gave the benediction.

Musicians Participate

The Maryland Singers, under the direction of Charles L. Sager, presented two anthems during the program.

The new organ just presented to F. S. T. C. by the Alumni Association was played for the first time by Joseph L. Derry, organist and instructor in music at Valley High School. He gave a twenty-minute organ recital before the start of the procession. Derry is a graduate of Carnegie Tech and of Penn State University.

Registration of all delegates took place at 1 p. m. in the lobby of Compton Hall under the supervision of Lowell Sowers and a committee of students.

Reception In Gym

Immediately following the ceremony at 3:30 p. m., there was a reception in honor of President Hardesty in the gymnasium of the building.

The faculty activities committee, under the chairmanship of Miss Pauline Hobbs, had charge.

Co-marshals for the academic procession were Alfred Taylor and Robert Jones, members of the faculty. Ushers were under the direction of Miss Dorothy Stone White.

Dean Ivan C. Diehl served as chairman of the Inauguration Committee and prepared the program for the occasion.

Invitations to the program were sent out by Mrs. Helen B. Silverthorne to colleges and universities throughout the United States.

Officials Congratulate New College Head

FREDERICK H. SHEELEY

Teacher Tallies 201 Votes For Council

LONACONING — Frederick H. Sheeley, a visiting teacher employed by the Board of Education of Allegany County, was elected to the town council here yesterday in a special election held to fill a vacancy. Sheeley, making his first bid in politics, polled 201 votes to run far ahead of three opponents.

The official tally was:

Frederick H. Sheeley	201
Douglas Waddell	173
James Berry	48
John W. Wilson	12

Mayor Virgil Alexander, who supported Sheeley in the bid for a council seat, said the new member will be sworn in at the council meeting on October 17. At that time, Mayor Alexander will announce his appointments in a reshuffle of the council.

There were 451 persons at the polls yesterday, voting on the newly acquired county voting machine for the first time. Everyone was interested in the machines, and very few had difficulty with them. There were, however, 17 votes not tallied, because voters moved the little voting lever down, and then moved it back up, before pulling the handle to cast the ballot. Voters should push the candidate lever down and leave it down, or their vote does not register.

The 17 spoiled votes, however, were not enough to affect the final outcome of the election, officials noted.

The town's registration is 914, and the 451 total balloting is considered an excellent percentage for a special election, especially when it is considered that many eligible voters in Lonaconing are now employed in other communities and are away, officials said.

At the polls much of yesterday was William A. Wilson, president of the Board of Election Supervisors of Allegany County. Irvin Neat, county registrar was on hand all day, as was a factory man from the firm which manufactures the voting devices.

Chief judge was Andrew Dick. Machine judges were Lawrence McKenzie and Thomas Fisher. Mrs. Catherine Meyers was clerk.

The polls closed at 7 p. m. and the results were officially tabulated at 7:10 p. m. They were telephoned to the News office at 7:15 p. m., only a quarter of an hour after the balloting ended.

Paper Workers Plan Contract Negotiations

LUKE — Negotiations for a new contract for employes of the Luke, Williamsburg and Covington plants of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company will be opened on Tuesday, October 25 at the Ambassador Hotel in Washington.

Luke Local 676, UPA-CIO has selected Wilbur "Farmer" Johnson, president of the local. Charles Butler, Lee Miller, Kermit Metz and Eugene Dawson to represent them in the negotiations.

Casts First Vote

Adam R. Muir, Lonaconing, is seen here leaving the voting machine at Lonaconing yesterday morning, as he became the first Allegany County resident to cast an official vote here by mechanical device. Mr. Muir, who never misses a chance to exercise his franchise did not indicate which of the four councilmen got his first vote and said "they are all good men." His uncle Rank Muir was a mayor of Lonaconing many years ago. Polls opened at 7 a. m. and closed at 7 p. m. The candidates, to fill a vacancy on the town council were James Berry, Frederick H. Sheeley, Douglas Waddell, and John W. Wilson.

Barton Elementary PTA Plans Halloween Bazaar

BARTON — A Halloween bazar was planned for the evening of October 26, by the Barton Elementary Parent Teacher Association at their regular October meeting which followed the annual covered dish supper.

A trio composed of Sally Hyde, Shirley Chappell and Elsie Mae Gattens, sang a medley of "Blue Moon", "I Don't Know Why", and "Sentimental Journey". A skit, "Hanging Up the Wash" was presented by two PTA members, Norma Jean Metz and Mae Smith.

Cecil Metz, chairman, named his committee for the bazar and announced that the school will be open at 7 p. m. and a mummers parade will be held at 7:30 p. m. Eight prizes for children's costumes will be awarded, including the most comical, boy and girl; most original, boy and girl; ugliest, prettiest, best character and best dressed.

Ellsworth Russell will be in charge of a grab bag, while a cake walk will be directed by William Lamberson and Darius Green. A guess cake will be baked by Elsie Clark.

A membership booth will be operated by Mrs. Byers, Caroline Griffith and Genevieve Spriggs. Homemade candy will be sold by the candy committee, Joan Clark, Genevieve Spriggs, Mrs. Brashear, Glen Rose McCutcheon, Alice Ashby, and Betty Mowbray. This committee will also be in charge of soliciting their respective districts for candy.

All persons attending the bazar who are not masked will be charged 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children admission. All those entering the parade will be admitted free.

The publicity committee for the bazar includes Betty Mowbray, and Mary Catherine Miller.

Mt. Savage KC Observing 50th Anniversary

Memorial Service On Program Tonight

MT. SAVAGE—Mt. Savage Council 1058, Knights of Columbus, opened its golden anniversary celebration Sunday with a corporate communion mass and breakfast at St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

Rev. Michael Smyth, chaplain of the council, was celebrant of the mass. Msgr. George Larkin, pastor of the Shrine of the Little Flower Church, Baltimore, was in the sanctuary.

Following the mass a breakfast was served in the parish hall by the Catholic Daughters of America and the church's Sodality.

Charter members of the council are Patrick A. Fannon, Charles Carney, William Hamilton, and John F. Gallagher.

Twenty-five year pins were presented to John R. Uhl, grand knight of the council, Edward J. Conway, and Walter F. Meade by Carl L. Firlie, Cumberland, district deputy.

Edward Neus, grand knight of Cumberland Council 586, was the principal speaker. He emphasized the importance of each member's part in the national program of Columbianism.

The council will continue its celebration this evening with a Memorial Service. The program will begin at 8 p. m. in St. Patrick's Hall, under the supervision of Cumberland Council 586.

The observance will be concluded with a banquet Saturday night at Clary Club.

Kitzmiller Bridge Dedicated

This is a scene at the dedication yesterday of a new bridge across the North Branch of the Potomac River, linking Blaine, W. Va. and Kitzmiller, Md. Governor Theodore R. McKeldin, who spoke at the dedication, is seen here with Miss Alma Kay Probst, 16-year-old Kitzmiller girl who took part in the program and M. L. O'Neale, chief engineer of the West Virginia State Roads Commission.

R. Bowen Hardesty Inaugurated President Of Teachers College

Dr. J. E. Moreland Issues Challenge To All Educators

FROSTBURG — Described as "a man of scholarly attainments," by Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, and "an honored son of our institution," by Dr. J. Earl Moreland, president of Randolph-Macon College, R. Bowen Hardesty was formally inaugurated as president of Frostburg State Teachers College in Compton Hall yesterday.

Dr. Moreland, who came here from Ashland, Va., to deliver the major address not only praised the work, attainments and ability of Hardesty, but issued a challenge to all educators. He urged all teachers to return to "an educational gospel which exacted maximum effort on the part of every pupil."

"We at Randolph Macon take pride in this honored son of our institution," Dr. Moreland said of Hardesty.

"We take pride in the record of excellence he has made as a teacher and a leader in public education in Maryland. We know well of his character, his intelligence and his integrity. My colleagues on the faculty of Randolph-Macon join me in congratulating the trustees of this worthy college on the wisdom of their selection of President Hardesty."

Dr. Moreland devoted much of his inaugural address to a review of "the perplexing problems that are presented to us as we consider the task of the teacher in our times."

"The body of knowledge is constantly being enlarged," he said. "The facts are multiplied. Interpretation becomes more difficult — but by the same token more imperative, more important.

Cites Fundamentals

After reciting some of the changes in education and teaching in the past half-century, Dr. Moreland said there are two fundamentals of teaching which are being revived:

1. Thorough teaching.
2. "An educational gospel which exacted maximum effort on the part of every pupil."

Citing one of his own elementary teachers, Dr. Moreland said "there was a certain inspiring quality which attended his exacting demands."

Must Work Hard

"With all our labor saving processes, our social security, our justly famed insurance policy provisions, our government subsidies at every level of life, and our abundant leisure hours, it is still true that we must travel the highway called hard work if we are to achieve happiness.

"I greatly fear two world wars, paternalistic government, decreased hours of work and increased leisure hours—all the devices of our time—complicate and make more difficult the task of the teacher.

"Parents themselves often do all they can to shield their sons and daughters from learning. It seems that textbooks make subject matter attractive, leaving two questions perhaps unanswered: 'Are the facts being made available?' and 'Is the truth being taught?'

"How we do need right now in schools more and more of those men and women who conceive of teaching as an art."

Man Of Experience

Gov. McKeldin who came here to honor Hardesty told the audience of over 750, that Hardesty brings to Frostburg State Teachers College the ability to ispire instructors and stuednts on an endless quest of knowledge.

Gov. McKeldin noted that Hardesty has been a long-time teacher in Maryland's school system, and has an outstanding record as an administrator in his past capacities as principal and county superintendent.

Hardesty's experience as a school principal and county superintendent of schools will stand him in good stead here, the governor said in a speech prepared for delivery.

Hardesty last December was named to replace President Lillian C. Compton as head of the college.

Hardesty joined the Maryland school system as a teacher at Millersville Elementary School in Anne Arundel County in 1933 and later taught at Glen Burnie and Dundalk high schools. He became principal of Carroll Manor Junior High School in 1942 and later was principal at Eldridge and Aberdeen high schools before becoming superintendent in Garrett County in 1948.

A native of Calvert County, he studied at Randolph-Macon College in Virginia and received his master of arts degree from Columbia University in 1934. He is to receive his doctors degree there soon.

Tells Of New Schools

Garrett County's "two new high schools are concrete tributes to his careful planning and wise direction," McKeldin said.

"This proven ability and this combined gift on administration and scholarship will be of great importance to this college in the years that lie ahead—great years of material and intellectual progress," the governor continued.

"Surveys indicate that Maryland will have more than 75,000 students in colleges and universities by 1970 — compared with something over 40,000 today.

"The teachers colleges—Frostburg and the others—must be prominent in the picture of this progress," McKeldin said.

William A. Gunter, member of the State Board of Education, presided. After a processional of special guests of the college, official delegates of institutions and organizations, the faculty, members of the State Board of Education, the State Superintendent of Schools, the Governor of Maryland, the presiding officer, and the president-elect, the invocation was given by Reverend Edward A. Godsey of the First Methodist Church.

Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, Jr., introduced the speaker, Dr. J. Earl Moreland, president of Randolph-Macon College in Ashland, Virginia.

Jerome Frampton, Jr., vice-president of the State Board of Education, gave the induction statement to Haresty. This was followed by Hardesty's inaugural address.

Reverend W. DeWitt Dickey, of Calvary Methodist Church, Mt. Airy, Maryland, gave the benediction.

Musicians Participate

The Maryland Singers, under the direction of Charles L. Sager, presented two anthems during the program.

The new organ just presented to F. S. T. C. by the Alumni Association was played for the first time by Joseph L. Derry, organist and instructor in music at Valley High School. He gave a twenty-minute organ recital before the start of the procession. Derry is a graduate of Carnegie Tech and of Penn State University.

Registration of all delegates took place at 1 p. m. in the lobby of Compton Hall under the supervision of Lowell Sowers and a committee of students.

Reception In Gym

Immediately following the ceremony at 3:30 p. m., there was a reception in honor of President Hardesty in the gymnasium of the building.

The faculty activities committee, under the chairmanship of Miss Pauline Hobbs, had charge.

Co-marshals for the academic procession were Alfred Taylor and Robert Jones, members of the faculty. Ushers were under the direction of Miss Dorothy Stone White.

Dean Ivan C. Diehl served as chairman of the Inauguration Committee and prepared the program for the occasion.

Invitations to the program were sent out by Mrs. Helen B. Silverthorne to colleges and universities throughout the United States.

FREDERICK H. SHEELEY

Teacher Tallies 201 Votes For Council

LONACONING — Frederick H. Sheeley, a visiting teacher employed by the Board of Education of Allegany County, was elected to the town council here yesterday in a special election held to fill a vacancy. Sheeley, making his first bid in politics, polled 201 votes to run far ahead of three opponents.

The official tally was:

Frederick H. Sheeley	201
Douglas Waddell	173
James Berry	48
John W. Wilson	12

Mayor Virgil Alexander, who supported Sheeley in the bid for a council seat, said the new member will be sworn in at the council meeting on October 17. At that time, Mayor Alexander will announce his appointments in a reshuffle of the council.

There were 451 persons at the polls yesterday, voting on the newly acquired county voting machine for the first time. Everyone was interested in the machines, and very few had difficulty with them. There were, however, 17 votes not tallied, because voters moved the little voting lever down, and then moved it back up, before pulling the handle to cast the ballot. Voters should push the candidate lever down and leave it down, or their vote does not register.

The 17 spoiled votes, however, were not enough to affect the final outcome of the election, officials noted.

The town's registration is 914, and the 451 total balloting is considered an excellent percentage for a special election, especially when it is considered that many eligible voters in Lonaconing are now employed in other communities and are away, officials said.

At the polls much of yesterday was William A. Wilson, president of the Board of Election Supervisors of Allegany County. Irvin Neat, county registrar was on hand all day, as was a factory man from the firm which manufactures the voting devices.

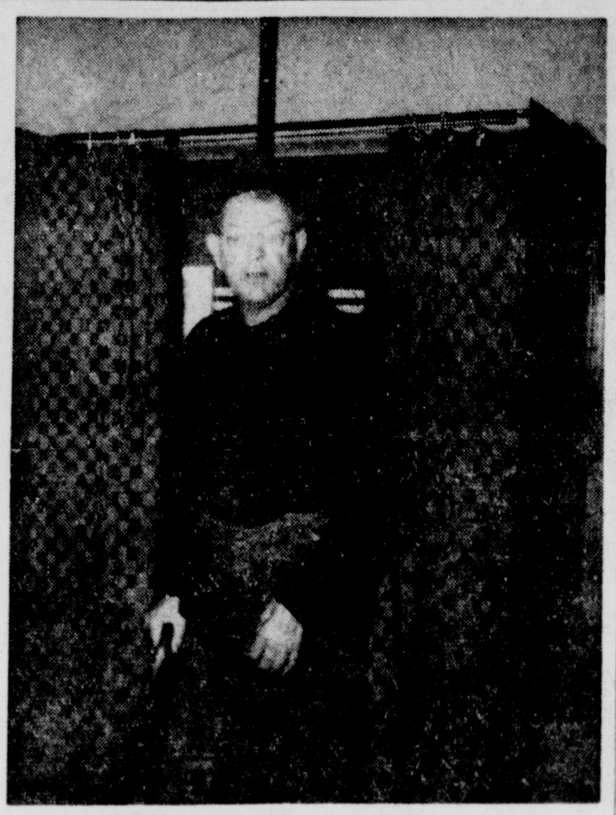

Chief judge was Andrew Dick. Machine judges were Lawrence McKenzie and Thomas Fisher. Mrs. Catherine Meyers was clerk.

The polls closed at 7 p. m. and the results were officially tabulated at 7:10 p. m. They were telephoned to the News office at 7:15 p. m., only a quarter of an hour after the balloting ended.

Paper Workers Plan Contract Negotiations

LUKE — Negotiations for a new contract for employes of the Luke, Williamsburg and Covington plants of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company will be opened on Tuesday, October 25 at the Ambassador Hotel in Washington.

Luke Local 676, UPA-CIO has selected Wilbur "Farmer" Johnson, president of the local, Charles Butler, Lee Miller, Kermit Metz and Eugene Dawson to represent them in the negotiations.

Casts First Vote

Notre Dame Expects Real Battle With Michigan State

Brennan Must Make Changes For Spartans

Irish Preparing To Defend Against Multiple Offense

CHICAGO, Oct. 11 (AP)—Unbeaten Notre Dame's Terry Brennan worried today over "complete defensive changes" his Irish must make for tough Michigan State at East Lansing, Mich., Saturday.

Brennan, by telephone from South Bend, Ind., told the weekly meeting of the Chicago Football Writers that, except for a few bad breaks against Michigan, the Nation's No. 1 team, Michigan State could be undefeated right now.

Michigan State's Spartans own a 2-1 record, losing to Michigan 14-7 between a 20-13 victory over Indiana and last Saturday's 38-14 thumping of Stanford.

Brennan's concern on defensive preparations stems from the fact the Irish scored their three straight triumphs thus far against foes using T or split T formations—Southern Methodist, Indiana and Miami of Florida.

"One of our big jobs this week will be to defend against the multiple offense of Michigan State which includes a good many single wing formations," Brennan said.

"You can't make many defensive mistakes against a team which has Michigan State's great speed."

Brennan declined to let this enthusiasm over his Irish boil over as he attributed their success to a "lot of breaks."

The 27-year-old coach said Notre Dame's line, tabbed an uncertain quantity before the season, "is doing better than I thought it would do. We're happy the line is playing well, but no coach ever should be completely satisfied."

Quarterback Paul Hornung, who pitched the two touchdown passes for Notre Dame's 14-0 victory over Miami Friday night, also was described by Brennan as "doing well, but open for improvement in a lot of things."

Yanks Purchase Three Players

Obtain Shortstop And Two Pitchers

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (INS)—The New York Yankees announced the purchase from within their farm system today of outstanding shortstop prospect Jerry Lumpe and two rookie pitchers.

All three will join the Yankees in spring training next year.

Lumpe was tabbed the "best major league prospect" in the Southern Association, where he hit .301 for Birmingham.

The Yankees also purchased lefthander James O'Reilly, who had an 8-8 record for Birmingham, and righthander James Coates, who compiled a 13-8 mark at Binghamton in the Eastern league.

Pitt Coach May Shakeup Lineup

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11 (AP)—Coach Johnny Michelosen threatened today to shake up the Pitt football lineup for Saturday's game against Nebraska here.

Michelosen named no names, but made it plain he is unhappy about the team's showing in the 21-0 loss to Navy last Saturday.

Last season, Coach Tom Hamilton started the Pitt second team against the Cornhuskers at Lincoln. The Panthers won that one 21-7, with the second stringers scoring a pair of touchdowns.

Michelosen declined to say whether he might imitate the 1954 strategy, or is thinking only of some replacements on the current first team.

Florence Chadwick Swims To France

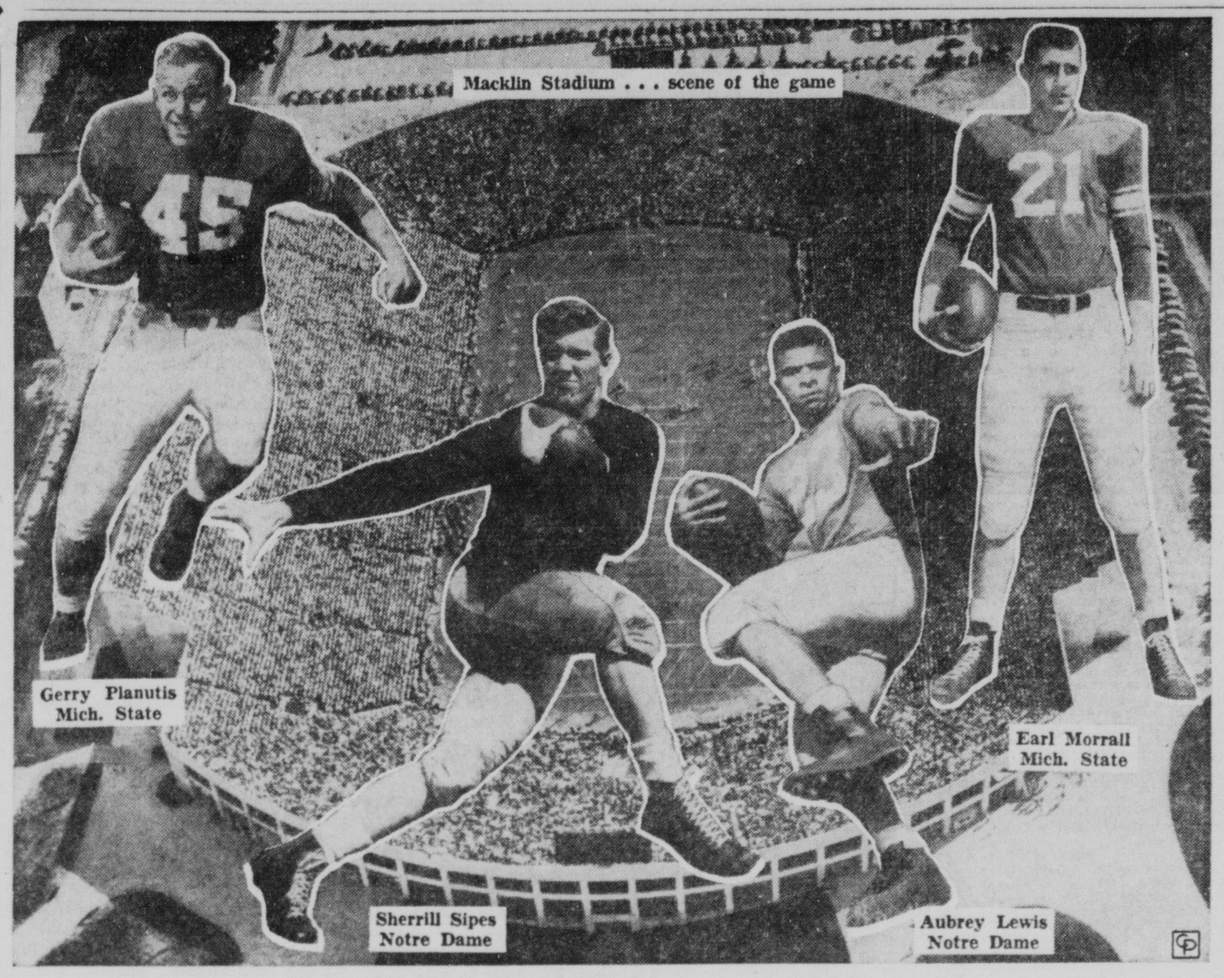

CALAIS, France, Oct. 12 (Wednesday) (AP)—Florence Chadwick completed her Britain-to-France crossing of the English Channel early today, but abandoned her plans for an immediate return trip to the frigid water.

Miss Chadwick's time was 14 hours and 9 minutes, breaking her own women's record by 12 minutes. It also was only three minutes short of the all-time England-France mark set this year by Bill Pickering of England.

It was the 35-year-old secretary's fourth attempt this year to make the unprecedented round-trip swim. She had intended to stop on the French side only long enough to apply a fresh coat of lanolin, then head back for England.

The sea was calm but cold, about 50 degrees (F).

Starlike ascidians belong to a group of sea creatures that suggest evolution in reverse. They start life as tadpolelike larvae with a cartilaginous "backbone." Maturing, they lose this structure and degenerate into primitive creatures resembling fungi.

AMONG the favorite stories of the Rt. Rev. Msgr. William E. Kelly, who died Saturday in Baltimore, was one about the sock on the nose that won a soccer title.

The widely known Catholic priest who was born at Pompey Smash (Vale Summit) and spent his boyhood days in Cumberland, was pastor at Brunswick, Md., and had accompanied the Brunswick High School team to the Eastern Shore for the state championship game.

The regulation game ended 0-0 and after an extra period was played it was still a scoreless tie.

At this stage of the game the priest and Carl McQuillen, Brunswick second string player, were "warming up" on the sidelines by kicking a soccer ball back and forth. Finally, one of Father Kelly's high, hard ones bounced off McQuillen's nose and the blood and tears began to flow freely.

The lad, who incidentally was a brother of Glen McQuillen, former major league outfielder, was fighting mad as he was ushered into the game in the second overtime period. He then ran through the opposition and booted the only goal to give his team the title.

"It was that sock on the nose that won the title," Father Kelly declared.

AFTER the Giants had won four straight games from the Indians in the 1954 World Series we ran into Father Kelly outside Municipal Stadium in Cleveland.

"Something very unusual happened at today's game," declared the priest.

"Do you remember the mud-slinging in the presidential campaign of 1928 when opponents of Al Smith circulated the propaganda that if Smith became president the Pope would occupy the White House?

"After 26 years it finally happened today when Pope pinch-hit for Al Smith."

COACH HOMER BROOKS has added Fort Hill High School to Frederick High's basketball schedule for the 1955-56 season. The game will be played in Frederick.

FORT HILL'S Sentinels will be facing an undefeated and unscored on opponent when they tackle Handley High School Saturday at 2 p. m. in Winchester, Va.

Handley, victor over Fort Hill the past two seasons, has whipped Loudoun County, 25-0, Montivideo 40-0 and Harrisonburg 14-0.

MRS. AGNES BARLEY, 83, who died Sunday in Pittsburgh was the mother of two former well known Cumberland athletes.

Espey Barley, better known among his friends as "Ep" was a backfield star on one of Coach Walter Bowers' early football teams at Allegany High School while Joe Barley was an outstanding outfielder for many years with sandlot baseball teams of Cumberland and vicinity.

WEST VIRGINIA School for the Deaf of Romney hasn't won a football game since the 1951 season.

After taking the final game of 1951 from Romney High, the WVSD gridders lost 15 straight in 1952 and 1953, played a 6-6 tie with Southern High in the 1954 opener, lost seven more and dropped three in a row this season.

That's 25 losses and one tie game in the last 26 outings.

CRANWOOD race track outside Cleveland recently ran a "poor man's Derby" in which the contenders were horses which had not won a race in 1955.

A tin cup went to the winner and the jockey received a horseshoe of dandelions.

OUT OF A TOTAL of 80 members who participated in the fall golf tournament at the Cumberland Country Club this year only one — Dr. Karl P. Heintz — was among the 27 who qualified for the first tourney held at the local club 35 years ago.

The 1920 list in addition to "Doc" Heintz included George Henderson, P. E. Berry, Charles D. Clark, J. A. Owens, J. Thruston Boyd, Harry E. Weber, C. S. Catherman Sr., Guy Leonard, R. A. Reinhart, Dr. A. H. Hawkins, Fred F. Sutherland, S. S. Hughes, H. G. Fossett, George Buchanan, L. R. Horton.

W. B. Fewson, I. V. Miles, J. A. McHenry, Perry Warfield, H. W. Bodie, Robert E. King, J. Logan Hopkins, F. Brooke Whiting, C. A. Piper, Herman D. Billmyer and W. L. Sperry.

MONTGOMERY BLAIR High School's Blazers, who come here Saturday night to play Allegany's Campers, lost their first grid game in two years when they recently dropped a 6-0 decision to Bladensburg after copping the season opener from Anacostia by the same score.

Allegany was scheduled to play Bladensburg here Saturday, Sept. 24 but the game was cancelled on account of rain.

Gonzaga of Washington knocked off Bladensburg last week to the tune of 12-0.

Notre Dame Expects Real Battle With Michigan State

Brennan Must Make Changes For Spartans

Irish Preparing To Defend Against Multiple Offense

CHICAGO, Oct. 11 (AP)—Unbeaten Notre Dame's Terry Brennan worried today over "complete defensive changes" his Irish must make for tough Michigan State at East Lansing, Mich., Saturday.

Brennan, by telephone from South Bend, Ind., told the weekly meeting of the Chicago Football Writers that, except for a few bad breaks against Michigan, the Nation's No. 1 team, Michigan State could be undefeated right now.

Michigan State's Spartans own a 2-1 record, losing to Michigan 14-7 between a 20-13 victory over Indiana and last Saturday's 38-14 thumping of Stanford.

Brennan's concern on defensive preparations stems from the fact the Irish scored their three straight triumphs thus far against foes using T or split T formations—Southern Methodist, Indiana and Miami of Florida.

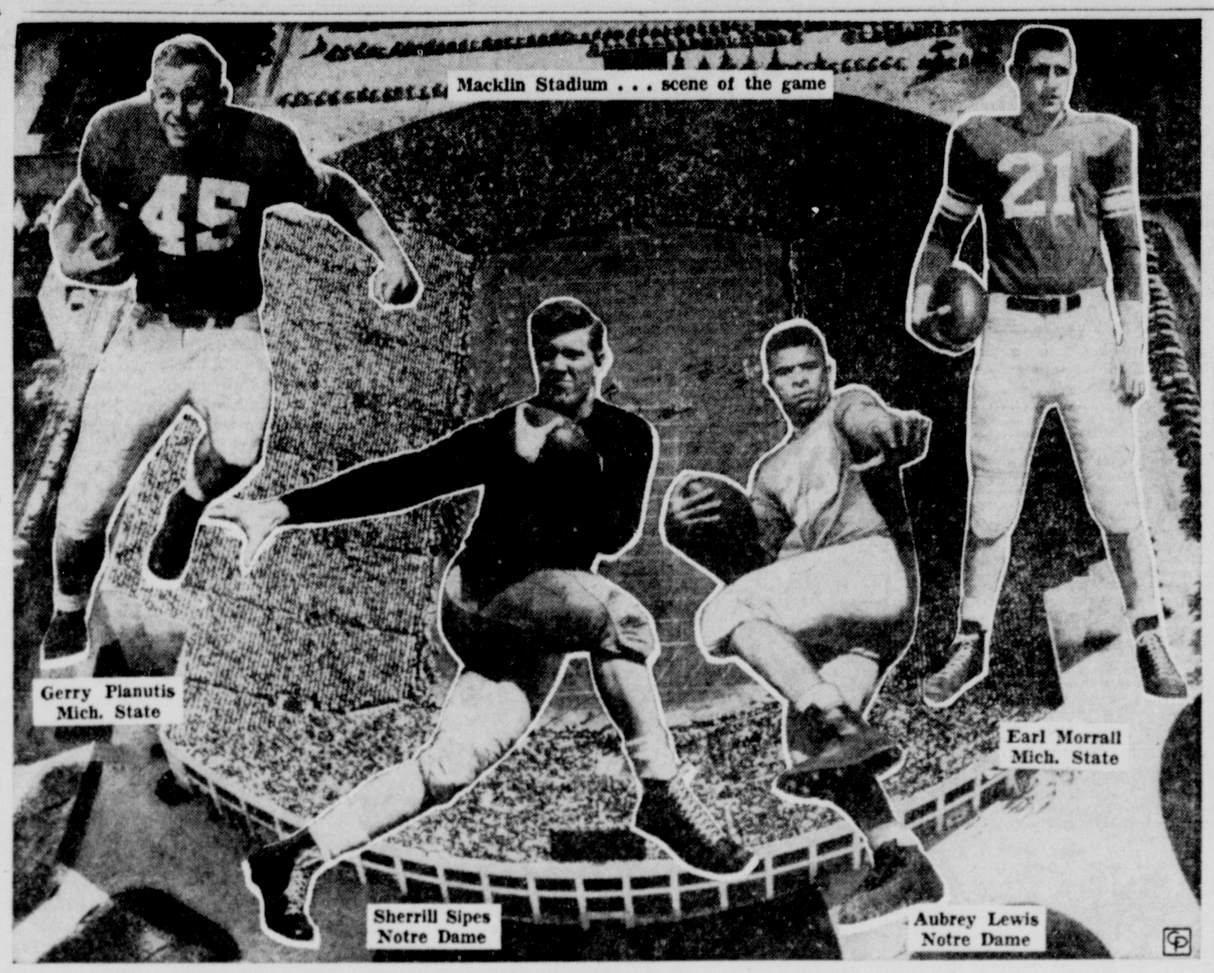

"One of our big jobs this week will be to defend against the multiple offense of Michigan State which includes a good many single wing formations," Brennan said.

"You can't make many defensive mistakes against a team which has Michigan State's great speed."

Brennan declined to let this enthusiasm over his Irish boil over as he attributed their success to a "lot of breaks."

The 27-year-old coach said Notre Dame's line, tabbed an uncertain quantity before the season, "is doing better than I thought it would do. We're happy the line is playing well, but no coach ever should be completely satisfied."

Quarterback Paul Hornung, who pitched the two touchdown passes for Notre Dame's 14-0 victory over Miami Friday night, also was described by Brennan as "doing well, but open for improvement in a lot of things."

TOPPING the big college football slate for Saturday, October 15, may be the Michigan State-Notre Dame game at East Lansing, Mich., where the Fighting Irish of South Bend meet the Spartans for the 22nd time and seek to make amends for the trouncings suffered in Macklin Field in 1951-52. Yanks Purchase Three Players

Obtain Shortstop And Two Pitchers

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (INS)—The New York Yankees announced the purchase from within their farm system today of outstanding shortstop prospect Jerry Lumpe and two rookie pitchers.

All three will join the Yankees in spring training next year.

Lumpe was tabbed the "best major league prospect" in the Southern Association, where he hit .301 for Birmingham.

The Yankees also purchased lefthander James O'Reilly, who had an 8-8 record for Birmingham, and righthander James Coates, who compiled a 13-8 mark at Binghamton in the Eastern league.

Pitt Coach May Shakeup Lineup

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 11 (AP)—Coach Johnny Michelosen threatened today to shake up the Pitt football lineup for Saturday's game against Nebraska here.

Michelosen named no names, but made it plain he is unhappy about the team's showing in the 21-0 loss to Navy last Saturday.

Last season, Coach Tom Hamilton started the Pitt second team against the Cornhuskers at Lincoln. The Panthers won that one 21-7, with the second stringers scoring a pair of touchdowns.

Michelosen declined to say whether he might imitate the 1954 strategy, or is thinking only of some replacements on the current first team.

Florence Chadwick Swims To France

CALAIS, France, Oct. 12 (Wednesday) (AP)—Florence Chadwick completed her Britain-to-France crossing of the English Channel early today, but abandoned her plans for an immediate return trip to the frigid water.

Miss Chadwick's time was 14 hours and 9 minutes, breaking her own women's record by 12 minutes. It also was only three minutes short of the all-time England-France mark set this year by Bill Pickering of England.

It was the 35-year-old secretary's fourth attempt this year to make the unprecedented round-trip swim. She had intended to stop on the French side only long enough to apply a fresh coat of lanolin, then head back for England.

The sea was calm but cold, about 50 degrees (F).

Friday Games

Mt. Savage at Flintstone
Bruce at Beall

Coach John Meyers' Valley High School Black Knights scored in every period, notched their fourth win of the campaign and increased their 3-year winning streak to 17 games by defeating Beall High School's Mountaineers to the tune of 5-0 yesterday in a W.M.I. Soccer League contest at Lonaconing.

The Knights scored five field goals, two of which were credited to center forward Jack Duckworth. Ronald "Butch" Young, Jack Mongold and Dave Hobel accounted for the other tallies.

Win 19 Out Of 20

It was the 19th victory in 20 outings for the Knights since Valley High School was opened two years ago.

In the opening period, Duckworth scored the first goal on a pass from Robert "Cokie" Robertson. Young, assisted by Sam Brooks, booted a goal from the 40-foot mark early in the second period and Mongold took Robertson's pass for the goal that gave the Lonaconing team a 3-0 lead at halftime.

Mongold passed to Duckworth for the fourth point in the third period and Hobel tallied on a pass from Robertson in the final period.

Approximately 800 spectators witnessed the triumph of the unbeaten league leaders.

Brooks, Robertson, Young and Mongold were outstanding for Valley while Gary Harbel, Pat Fram and Bernard Carter played best for Beall. Carter, Beall's substitute goalie, made three nice saves at the uprights.

Fazenbaker Sparks Bruce

Sparked by Roger Fazenbaker, who connected for three penalty goals, Coach Leonard Ritchie's Bruce High Bulldogs took over the runner-up spot in the league by turning back the Flintstone Aggies at Westernport by the score of 5-1.

With Clyde Beard getting credit for assists, Gene Dawson and Arthur Welsh booted field goals for the Bruce. Kenny Lough kicked a penalty goal for the Aggies in the third period.

Dawson opened the Bruce scoring with a goal from 25 feet out in the initial period. Fazenbaker registered his first penalty in the second period and booted two in a row in the third quarter after Welsh had tallied from the field.

Fazenbaker, Alton "Sonny" Fortney, Billy Bennett and Beard were Bruce's best bets while Lough, Pifer and Shipway excelled for Flintstone.

Banks Turns Down Day

CHICAGO (AP) — Ernie Banks, Chicago's National League All-Star shortstop, turned down a chance to get a day from the fans. "I've been playing for the Cubs only two years," said Banks. "I don't want a day until I have proved myself."

New Zealand's flightless, tailless, bewhiskered kiwi is the only bird with nostrils at the tip of its bill. For its size, about that of a chicken, the kiwi lays the largest egg known. A four-pound bird may produce a one-pound egg, about eight times as heavy as a chicken's. Only the male sits on the eggs during the 75-day incubation.

A camel can drink 25 gallons of water in half an hour.

New Card Pilot?

ACCORDING to reports, Fred Hutchinson (above), former Detroit pitching star and manager, will be the new bench boss of the St. Louis Cards. Hutch, who led Seattle to a Pacific Coast league title this season, will succeed Harry Walker. (International)

Jensen Wanted To Hit

BOSTON (AP)—When Jack Jensen was sent up to pinch hit in the last game of the season he informed Umpire Joe Paparella he wanted to hit. Jensen was tied for the American League runs batted in title with Detroit's Ray Boone, each with 116. Jensen sought one more run batted in, but Yankee pitcher Tom Sturdivant walked him.

Tony Trabert Signs Contract To Join Pros

Cincinnati Net Star Quits Amateur Ranks

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11 (AP)—Personable Tony Trabert, 25-year-old king of the world's amateur tennis players, abandoned their ranks for the "financial security" of the professional game today.

Trabert and promoter Jack Kramer got together for contract signing ceremonies on the front steps of the Los Angeles Tennis Club, shrine of amateur tennis in Southern California.

Kramer divulged that Trabert has agreed to two types of contract. One is based on his making a two-man tour with the 34-year-old Kramer himself, and the other is contingent on the possibility of Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall, Australia's Davis Cup champions, deserting the amateurs to make it a foursome in the Kramer tour.

Trabert said he had weighed the decision for weeks. Foremost in his mind, he said, was the chance to gain "security at a reasonably young age."

May Top $75,000

As reported in weeks past, the Cincinnati athlete will receive either in a guarantee or percentage-wise "more than the $75,000" Australia's Frank Sedgman made when he signed with Kramer several years ago.

The difference in a tour without Hoad and Rosewall, Kramer admitted, is the difference between a larger percentage for a smaller gross and a slightly smaller percentage for a much larger gross—expected if the young Aussies sign up as expected.

Present with Tony to help iron out the legal matters in the contract was his brother, J. Marc Trabert, Cincinnati attorney.

May Open On Coast

Kramer said there are no definite dates or itinerary for the coming tour. He indicated, however, that the long series of matches might be launched in Los Angeles rather than in New York, as has been done in the past.

Trabert won 19 tournaments this year, losing only three in a string of triumphs that included the Wimbledon, United States and French titles.

He was asked if he thought his career ahead of him might see the inauguration of a U. S. Open tennis championship — pros against the amateurs.

"I really don't know but I do believe it would be a great thing for tennis and it would lead to the development of many more fine amateur players," Trabert replied. "I think it would help the amateurs to be able to play in tournaments against the top professional stars."

Trabert said he could not turn down a chance for this amount of money.

"I had to think of my wife and myself and the future first of all. We all have to work."

Decision Is Expected

A decision by Hoad and Rosewall is expected from Australia shortly. If they join Kramer, the tour will include matches in the United States, Australia and Europe.

Go For Marshmallows

BIG LAKE, Ariz. (AP)—Vacationers at this mountain lake have discovered that trout love marshmallows. Mrs. Dixie Doschiads says she caught a large string of trout by baiting marshmallows on a No. 8 hook. Cyrus Sundberg and his son had the same experience. Last year the trout here were biting on any hook baited with cheese.

Buffalo Keeps Int. Franchise

Loan Binds Bargain With Detroit Team

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 11 (INS)—Buffalo "Qualified" to retain a franchise in the International Baseball League in 1956 when a group of citizens today loaned $70,000 to bind a bargain with the Detroit Tigers.

The parent Detroit club has granted a 30-day option to buy the franchise from John C. Stiglmeier, former general manager of the club, and Harry Bisgeier, Buffalo businessman. The sale of the club by Detroit was conditioned that it was to be community-owned by selling stock at $1 a share plus buying five game tickets.

A revised price of $75,000 instead of $150,000, was negotiated today by Detroit officials and the Buffalo group, plus ten players, equipment and a promise of additional help on players in 1956; the loan will be repaid through continued sale of stock, according to Wade Stevenson, central figure in raising the loan. It was made necessary when public subscription fell short of the $150,000 cash goal demanded by Detroit.

Gephart Defeats West Side, 12-6

Gephart moved within a half game of front-running Columbia Street in the Northern Grade School Touch Football League by defeating West Side yesterday by the score of 12-6.

Mike Harvey put West Side in front in the first period by scoring on a two-yard run.

Carl Allison's 10-yard pass to Wellington Donahue tied the score early in the final period and an Allison to Charles Cross pass covered 23 yards for the winning touchdown.

Gephart now owns a 4-1 record. Columbia Street leads with 4-0. Score:

Gephart	0	0	0	12	12
West Side	6	0	0	0	6

Touchdowns scored by Harvey (West Side); Donahue and Cross (Gephart).

Pepper Martin Back

CHICAGO (AP)—Pepper Martin, St. Louis Cardinal star in the 1934 World Series, is coming back to the major leagues. He will become a coach with the Chicago Cubs next season. This year he managed Chicago's Des Moines team in the Western League.

Noted Turfman Takes His Life

Bert Baroni Owned The Late Top Row

SAN GABRIEL, Calif., Oct. 11—(INS)—A. A. (Bert) Baroni, 68, noted turfman and owner of the late thoroughbred Top Row, shot and killed himself today at his luxurious San Gabriel home.

Police said Baroni killed himself by firing a 38-caliber bullet through his head. He was pronounced dead at Temple City Hospital.

Baroni was one of Southern California's best known race horse owners and trainers.

Before the revival of racing in California, he was a well known turfman in New England and New York.

He was best known nationally as the owner of Top Row, winner of the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap in 1936. Top Row died recently.

Tap Dancing For Backs

Chisox Obtain Four Hurlers From Memphis

Five-Player Deal Made By Comiskey

CHICAGO, Oct. 11 (AP)—A five-player deal between the Chicago White Sox and their Memphis affiliate in the Southern Assn. today marked the club's first transaction since Frank Lane quit as Sox general manager.

Vice-President Chuck Comiskey announced the left-handed pitcher Bob Cain and an undisclosed sum of cash went to Memphis for four young right handed pitchers.

These include Jerome (Joe) Dahlke, 25, a 19-game winner as a Memphis reliefer; Bill Dufor, 25, who had an 11-9 Memphis mark; Paul Stuffel, 27, (12-3 at Memphis); and Russ Heman, an option last season to Waterloo of the Class B Three I League (8-8).

Cain had been assigned to Memphis by the Sox last season.

With the exception of Stuffel, former Philadelphia Phil chattel, the new Sox pitchers were developed in the Pale Hose farm system.

Comiskey, whose difference with Lane prompted the general manager to quit and move to the St. Louis Cardinals, has not indicated he will name another general manager.

Today's activity hinted the 29-year-old Comiskey will run the Sox show himself.

Bruce at Beall

Coach John Meyers' Valley High School Black Knights scored in every period, notched their fourth win of the campaign and increased their 3-year winning streak to 17 games by defeating Beall High School's Mountaineers to the tune of 5-0 yesterday in a W.M.I. Soccer League contest at Lonaconing.

The Knights scored five field goals, two of which were credited to center forward Jack Duckworth. Ronald "Butch" Young, Jack Mongold and Dave Hobel accounted for the other tallies.

Win 19 Out Of 20

It was the 19th victory in 20 outings for the Knights since Valley High School was opened two years ago.

In the opening period, Duckworth scored the first goal on a pass from Robert "Cokie" Robertson. Young, assisted by Sam Brooks, booted a goal from the 40-foot mark early in the second period and Mongold took Robertson's pass for the goal that gave the Lonaconing team a 3-0 lead at halftime.

Mongold passed to Duckworth for the fourth point in the third period and Hobel tallied on a pass from Robertson in the final period.

Approximately 800 spectators witnessed the triumph of the unbeaten league leaders.

Brooks, Robertson, Young and Mongold were outstanding for Valley while Gary Harbel, Pat Fram and Bernard Carter played best for Beall. Carter, Beall's substitute goalie, made three nice saves at the uprights.

Fazenbaker Sparks Bruce

Sparked by Roger Fazenbaker, who connected for three penalty goals, Coach Leonard Ritchie's Bruce High Bulldogs took over the runner-up spot in the league by turning back the Flintstone Aggies at Westernport by the score of 5-1.

With Clyde Beard getting credit for assists, Gene Dawson and Arthur Welsh booted field goals for Bruce. Kenny Lough kicked a penalty goal for the Aggies in the third period.

Dawson opened the Bruce scoring with a goal from 25 feet out in the initial period. Fazenbaker registered his first penalty in the second period and booted two in a row in the third quarter after Welsh had tallied from the field.

Fazenbaker, Alton "Sonny" Fortney, Billy Bennett and Beard were Bruce's best bets while Lough, Pifer and Shipway excelled for Flintstone.

Banks Turns Down Day

CHICAGO (AP) — Ernie Banks, Chicago's National League All-Star shortstop, turned down a chance to get a day from the fans. "I've been playing for the Cubs only two years," said Banks. "I don't want a day until I have proved myself."

New Zealand's flightless, tailless, bewhiskered kiwi is the only bird with nostrils at the tip of its bill. For its size, about that of a chicken, the kiwi lays the largest egg known. A four-pound bird may produce a one-pound egg, about eight times as heavy as a chicken's. Only the male sits on the eggs during the 75-day incubation.

A camel can drink 25 gallons of water in half an hour.

New Card Pilot?

ACCORDING to reports, Fred Hutchinson (above), former Detroit pitching star and manager, will be the new bench boss of the St. Louis Cards. Hutch, who led Seattle to a Pacific Coast league title this season, will succeed Harry Walker. (International)

Jensen Wanted To Hit

BOSTON (AP)—When Jack Jensen was sent up to pinch hit in the last game of the season he informed Umpire Joe Paparella he wanted to hit. Jensen was tied for the American League runs batted in title with Detroit's Ray Boone, each with 116. Jensen sought one more run batted in, but Yankee pitcher Tom Sturdivant walked him.

The shrimp industry provides a livelihood for approximately 15,000 fishermen and contributes to the income of another 15,000 employes in some 600 shore establishments, the Fish and Wildlife Service says.

Tony Trabert Signs Contract To Join Pros

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11 (AP)—Personable Tony Trabert, 25-year-old king of the world's amateur tennis players, abandoned their ranks for the "financial security" of the professional game today.

Trabert and promoter Jack Kramer got together for contract signing ceremonies on the front steps of the Los Angeles Tennis Club, shrine of amateur tennis in Southern California.

Kramer divulged that Trabert has agreed to two types of contract. One is based on his making a two-man tour with the 34-year-old Kramer himself, and the other is contingent on the possibility of Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall, Australia's Davis Cup champions, deserting the amateurs to make it a foursome in the Kramer tour.

Trabert said he had weighed the decision for weeks. Foremost in his mind, he said, was the chance to gain "security at a reasonably young age."

May Top $75,000

As reported in weeks past, the Cincinnati athlete will receive either in a guarantee or percentage-wise "more than the $75,000" Australia's Frank Sedgman made when he signed with Kramer several years ago.

The difference in a tour without Hoad and Rosewall, Kramer admitted, is the difference between a larger percentage for a smaller gross and a slightly smaller percentage for a much larger gross—expected if the young Aussies sign up as expected.

Present with Tony to help iron out the legal matters in the contract was his brother, J. Marc Trabert, Cincinnati attorney.

May Open On Coast

Kramer said there are no definite dates or itinerary for the coming tour. He indicated, however, that the long series of matches might be launched in Los Angeles rather than in New York, as has been done in the past.

Trabert won 19 tournaments this year, losing only three in a string of triumphs that included the Wimbledon, United States and French titles.

He was asked if he thought his career ahead of him might see the inauguration of a U. S. Open tennis championship — pros against the amateurs.

"I really don't know but I do believe it would be a great thing for tennis and it would lead to the development of many more fine amateur players," Trabert replied. "I think it would help the amateurs to be able to play in tournaments against the top professional stars."

Trabert said he could not turn down a chance for this amount of money.

"I had to think of my wife and myself and the future first of all. We all have to work."

Decision Is Expected

A decision by Hoad and Rosewall is expected from Australia shortly. If they join Kramer, the tour will include matches in the United States, Australia and Europe.

Go For Marshmallows

BIG LAKE, Ariz. (AP)—Vacationers at this mountain lake have discovered that trout love marshmallows. Mrs. Dixie Doschiads says she caught a large string of trout by baiting marshmallows on a No. 8 hook. Cyrus Sundberg and his son had the same experience. Last year the trout here were biting on any hook baited with cheese.

Buffalo Keeps Int. Franchise

Loan Binds Bargain With Detroit Team

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 11 (INS)—Buffalo "Qualified" to retain a franchise in the International Baseball League in 1956 when a group of citizens today loaned $70,000 to bind a bargain with the Detroit Tigers.

The parent Detroit club has granted a 30-day option to buy the franchise from John C. Stiglmeier, former general manager of the club, and Harry Bisgeier, Buffalo businessman. The sale of the club by Detroit was conditioned that it was to be community-owned by selling stock at $1 a share plus buying five game tickets.

A revised price of $75,000 instead of $150,000, was negotiated today by Detroit officials and the Buffalo group, plus ten players, equipment and a promise of additional help on players in 1956; the loan will be repaid through continued sale of stock, according to Wade Stevenson, central figure in raising the loan. It was made necessary when public subscription fell short of the $150,000 cash goal demanded by Detroit.

Ornithologists have found that birds sing an average of 18¼ hours daily most of the year.

Gephart Defeats West Side, 12-6

Gephart moved within a half game of front-running Columbia Street in the Northern Grade School Touch Football League by defeating West Side yesterday by the score of 12-6.

Mike Harvey put West Side in front in the first period by scoring on a two-yard run.

Carl Allison's 10-yard pass to Wellington Donahue tied the score early in the final period and an Allison to Charles Cross pass covered 23 yards for the winning touchdown.

Gephart now owns a 4-1 record. Columbia Street leads with 4-0. Score:

Gephart	0	0	0	12	12
West Side	6	0	0	0	6

Touchdowns scored by Harvey (West Side); Donahue and Cross (Gephart).

Pepper Martin Back

CHICAGO (AP)—Pepper Martin, St. Louis Cardinal star in the 1934 World Series, is coming back to the major leagues. He will become a coach with the Chicago Cubs next season. This year he managed Chicago's Des Moines team in the Western League.

Noted Turfman Takes His Life

Bert Baroni Owned The Late Top Row

SAN GABRIEL, Calif., Oct. 11—(INS)—A. A. (Bert) Baroni, 68, noted turfman and owner of the late thoroughbred Top Row, shot and killed himself today at his luxurious San Gabriel home.

Police said Baroni killed himself by firing a 38-caliber bullet through his head. He was pronounced dead at Temple City Hospital.

Baroni was one of Southern California's best known race horse owners and trainers.

Before the revival of racing in California, he was a well known turfman in New England and New York.

Tap Dancing For Backs

Chisox Obtain Four Hurlers From Memphis

Five-Player Deal Made By Comiskey

CHICAGO, Oct. 11 (AP)—A five-player deal between the Chicago White Sox and their Memphis affiliate in the Southern Assn. today marked the club's first transaction since Frank Lane quit as Sox general manager.

Vice-President Chuck Comiskey announced the left-handed pitcher Bob Cain and an undisclosed sum of cash went to Memphis for four young right handed pitchers.

These include Jerome (Joe) Dahlke, 25, a 19-game winner as a Memphis reliefer; Bill Dufor, 25, who had an 11-9 Memphis mark; Paul Stuffel, 27, (12-3 at Memphis); and Russ Heman, an option last season to Waterloo of the Class B Three I League (8-8).

Cain had been assigned to Memphis by the Sox last season.

With the exception of Stuffel, former Philadelphia Phil chattel, the new Sox pitchers were developed in the Pale Hose farm system.

Comiskey, whose difference with Lane prompted the general manager to quit and move to the St. Louis Cardinals, has not indicated he will name another general manager.

Today's activity hinted the 29-year-old Comiskey will run the Sox show himself.

Tatum Doesn't Believe Anybody Knows Who Has Best Grid Team

Jim Not Surprised Michigan Was Voted No. 1 Over Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 11 (AP)—Coach Jim Tatum said today he wasn't surprised that Michigan was voted No. 1 over his Maryland football team this week, but that "I don't believe anybody knows who has the best team in the country."

Tatum hastened to add he has no fault to find with the poll of sports editors by the Associated Press but doesn't put much stock in it week-by-week.

"As long as we're No. 1 at the end of season and recognized as champion," he said.

"On any given Saturday," he continued," any one of several teams might be the best.

"For instance, it might have been Michigan Saturday. Or it might be Oklahoma. Or us.

"It's like an All-America team. I don't doubt that every boy picked is All-America, but I don't doubt either that you could find at least 11 others just as good."

He said he could understand how anyone who didn't see both Michigan beat Army 26-2 and Maryland beat Wake Forest 28-7 could vote his team second to the Wolverines.

"Michigan scored a great win over what was supposedly a great Army team," he said. "And a person not at our game wouldn't know Wake Forest scored against our reserves and we probably could have scored more. But it wouldn't have helped our squad any to run up a bigger score."

He added he would not deliberately try to run up the score in hopes of influencing the poll voters. Which might be some consolation to North Carolina, next Saturday's opponent.

He said that game was occupying his squad's minds, not their ouster as No. 1 team by Michigan.

"Week to week," he said, "It doesn't seem to make a whole lot of difference to them either. They just want to win every game and hope then to be proud champs."

Maryland Frosh Play In Mexico

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 11 (AP)—University of Maryland's freshman football squad will outdo the varsity this week, traveling for an international game to Mexico City before an expected crowd of 50,000.

The freshmen will play the National Polytechnic Institute on Friday night.

The long trip is the result of relations by Tommy Mont, backfield coach of the Maryland varsity, with the institute. For the past three summers he has spent two weeks there teaching the football squad operation of the split T offense.

Jones And Andrews Fight At Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 11 (AP) — Two middleweights, Ralph (Tiger) Jones and Al Andrews, will provide this week's action for Wednesday night television fight fans.

Jones, No. 7 contender in the division, is an 8-5 favorite. The bout will be televised from Miami's Dinner Key Auditorium (ABC) starting at 9 p. m. (EST).

Jones, who has never been knocked off his feet in 53 fights, has been enjoying a good year after losing five in a row in 1954. He opened the year with a win over Sugar Ray Robinson.

Andrews has won only three fights this year while losing decisions to Gene Fullmer, Gene Lindscott, Del Flanagan, Willie Pastrano and Joey Giardello.

16 Slated To Start In Ladies Handicap

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Sixteen fillies and mares are scheduled to parade to the post tomorrow in the $50,000-added Ladies Handicap, oldest race in America for this thoroughbred division.

The Wheatley Stable's Misty Morn, with 124 pounds, is tops in the weight for the mile and one half test.

To Play With South

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 11 (AP)—Kentucky's quarterback Bob Hardy and end Bob Schnellenberger along with Arthur Davis, Mississippi State halfback, have signed with the South for the annual Blue-Gray football game here Dec. 31.

They are the first player choices of the Rebel coaching staff to be announced.

Sports Grill

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—(INS)—It seems to us football oracles might cut down their margin of error if they would adopt a few axions of the turf handicappers.

Turf experts never pick platers to beat high class stake horses, no matter how good the plater's record in his own seat. They also are well aware that a horse's form can vary greatly from year to year, month to month and even from race to race.

If some of the football oracles had borne these facts in mind they might not have picked Army over Michigan or Harvard over Cornell on the strength of easy victories over soft touches.

The turfmen would have said Michigan and Cornell had run with better.

Army looked like a world-beater trimming Furman 81 to 0 and Penn State 35 to 6. Harvard looked fine beating Massachusetts, 60 to 6.

There always is a tendency to overrate Army because of its comparatively easy schedule. There actually are only two top teams on the Army schedule this year. One, Michigan, took Army 26 to 2 Saturday and the other is unbeaten, and unscored on Navy.

Before tackling Navy, Army takes on Syracuse, Columbia, Colgate, Yale and Penn, none of which are likely to make the top ten.

It now is apparent that those who thought many eastern teams would rank with the best in the country this year were only deluding themselves.

As of today the only teams along the whole eastern seaboard from Maine to Florida which could hold their own against topnotchers in other sections are Maryland, Navy, Georgia Tech, Duke and Miami.

Maryland tipped over Missouri, UCLA, Baylor and Wake Forest and since it has little to fear from now on should remain unbeaten.

Navy is unscored upon, but it has yet to face Duke and Notre Dame. Those two should give a line on the Middies' real strength.

Duke had little trouble walloping North Carolina State, Tennessee and William and Mary but has yet to face Ohio State, Georgia Tech and Navy among others.

We put Miami among the eastern seaboard's best because it looked good even when losing to Georgia Tech, 14 to 6 and Notre Dame, 14-to-0.

Georgia Tech has four straight victories under its belt and has but one tough game left—that one against Duke.

Looking over the whole football set-up it would seem that the Ivy League made a wise move in deciding to stick to its own class.

In a football sense, they are like $1,500 claimers in comparison with the stake horses in the Big Ten, and some of the other gridiron powers.

Consoles Paces ACC In Offense

GREENSBORO, N. C., Oct. 11 (AP)—Maryland whipped Wake Forest 28-7 last Saturday but the losers' quarterback Nick Consoles completed 14 passes for 126 yards, enough yardage to send him into the lead in the Atlantic Coast Conference individual total offense race.

Consoles, who has completed 39 passes for 418 yards and three touchdowns this season, has a 353-yard total offense figure after 65 yards in rushing losses are subtracted.

Maryland's quarterback Frank Tamburello netted 137 yards in total offense against the Deacons to move into second place in the individual race, according to conference service bureau figures. Tamburello has 307 yards compared to 272 for Clemson's Don King, the leader last week who was hurt early in the second half against Rice Saturday night.

There are 20 specifically different poisonous snakes in the United States which belong to four types: coral snakes, copperheads, water moccasins and rattlesnakes.

Tatum Doesn't Believe Anybody Knows Who Has Best Grid Team

Jim Not Surprised Michigan Was Voted No. 1 Over Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 11 (AP)—Coach Jim Tatum said today he wasn't surprised that Michigan was voted No. 1 over his Maryland football team this week, but that "I don't believe anybody knows who has the best team in the country."

Tatum hastened to add he has no fault to find with the poll of sports editors by the Associated Press but doesn't put much stock in it week-by-week.

"As long as we're No. 1 at the end of season and recognized as champion," he said.

"On any given Saturday," he continued," any one of several teams might be the best.

"For instance, it might have been Michigan Saturday. Or it might be Oklahoma. Or us.

"It's like an All-America team. I don't doubt that every boy picked is All-America, but I don't doubt either that you could find at least 11 others just as good."

He said he could understand how anyone who didn't see both Michigan beat Army 26-2 and Maryland beat Wake Forest 28-7 could vote his team second to the Wolverines.

"Michigan scored a great win over what was supposedly a great Army team," he said. "And a person not at our game wouldn't know Wake Forest scored against our reserves and we probably could have scored more. But it wouldn't have helped our squad any to run up a bigger score."

He added he would not deliberately try to run up the score in hopes of influencing the poll voters. Which might be some consolation to North Carolina, next Saturday's opponent.

He said that game was occupying his squad's minds, not their ouster as No. 1 team by Michigan.

"Week to week," he said, "It doesn't seem to make a whole lot of difference to them either. They just want to win every game and hope then to be proud champs."

Maryland Frosh Play In Mexico

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 11 (AP)—University of Maryland's freshman football squad will outdo the varsity this week, traveling for an international game to Mexico City before an expected crowd of 50,000.

The freshmen will play the National Polytechnic Institute on Friday night.

The long trip is the result of relations by Tommy Mont, backfield coach of the Maryland varsity, with the institute. For the past three summers he has spent two weeks there teaching the football squad operation of the split T offense.

Jones And Andrews Fight At Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 11 (AP) — Two middleweights, Ralph (Tiger) Jones and Al Andrews, will provide this week's action for Wednesday night television fight fans.

Jones, No. 7 contender in the division, is an 8-5 favorite. The bout will be televised from Miami's Dinner Key Auditorium (ABC) starting at 9 p. m. (EST).

Jones, who has never been knocked off his feet in 53 fights, has been enjoying a good year after losing five in a row in 1954. He opened the year with a win over Sugar Ray Robinson.

Andrews has won only three fights this year while losing decisions to Gene Fullmer, Gene Lindscott, Del Flanagan, Willie Pastrano and Joey Giardello.

16 Slated To Start In Ladies Handicap

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—Sixteen fillies and mares are scheduled to parade to the post tomorrow in the $50,000-added Ladies Handicap, oldest race in America for this thoroughbred division.

The Wheatley Stable's Misty Morn, with 124 pounds, is tops in the weight for the mile and one half test.

To Play With South

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 11 (AP)—Kentucky's quarterback Bob Hardy and end Bob Schnellenberger along with Arthur Davis, Mississippi State halfback, have signed with the South for the annual Blue-Gray football game here Dec. 31.

They are the first player choices of the Rebel coaching staff to be announced.

Sports Grill

By PAT ROBINSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 11—(INS)—It seems to us football oracles might cut down their margin of error if they would adopt a few axions of the turf handicappers.

Turf experts never pick platers to beat high class stake horses, no matter how good the plater's record in his own seat. They also are well aware that a horse's form can vary greatly from year to year, month to month and even from race to race.

If some of the football oracles had borne these facts in mind they might not have picked Army over Michigan or Harvard over Cornell on the strength of easy victories over soft touches.

The turfmen would have said Michigan and Cornell had run with better.

Army looked like a world-beater trimming Furman 81 to 0 and Penn State 35 to 6. Harvard looked fine beating Massachusetts, 60 to 6.

There always is a tendency to overrate Army because of its comparatively easy schedule. There actually are only two top teams on the Army schedule this year. One, Michigan, took Army 26 to 2 Saturday and the other is unbeaten, and unscored on Navy.

Before tackling Navy, Army takes on Syracuse, Columbia, Colgate, Yale and Penn, none of which are likely to make the top ten.

It now is apparent that those who thought many eastern teams would rank with the best in the country this year were only deluding themselves.

As of today the only teams along the whole eastern seaboard from Maine to Florida which could hold their own against topnotchers in other sections are Maryland, Navy, Georgia Tech, Duke and Miami.

Maryland tipped over Missouri, UCLA, Baylor and Wake Forest and since it has little to fear from now on should remain unbeaten.

Navy is unscored upon, but it has yet to face Duke and Notre Dame. Those two should give a line on the Middies' real strength.

Duke had little trouble walloping North Carolina State, Tennessee and William and Mary but has yet to face Ohio State, Georgia Tech and Navy among others.

We put Miami among the eastern seaboard's best because it looked good even when losing to Georgia Tech, 14 to 6 and Notre Dame, 14-to-0.

Georgia Tech has four straight victories under its belt and has but one tough game left—that one against Duke.

Looking over the whole football set-up it would seem that the Ivy League made a wise move in deciding to stick to its own class.

In a football sense, they are like $1,500 claimers in comparison with the stake horses in the Big Ten, and some of the other gridiron powers.

Consoles Paces ACC In Offense

GREENSBORO, N. C., Oct. 11 (AP)—Maryland whipped Wake Forest 28-7 last Saturday but the losers' quarterback Nick Consoles completed 14 passes for 126 yards, enough yardage to send him into the lead in the Atlantic Coast Conference individual total offense race.

Consoles, who has completed 39 passes for 418 yards and three touchdowns this season, has a 353-yard total offense figure after 65 yards in rushing losses are subtracted.

Maryland's quarterback Frank Tamburello netted 137 yards in total offense against the Deacons to move into second place in the individual race, according to conference service bureau figures. Tamburello has 307 yards compared to 272 for Clemson's Don King, the leader last week who was hurt early in the second half against Rice Saturday night.

There are 20 specifically different poisonous snakes in the United States which belong to four types: coral snakes, copperheads, water moccasins and rattlesnakes.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11—(INS) —I like the way Evie Johnson spoke up for her man Van when she telephoned to tell me I should have mentioned Van Johnson with the eight stars—Gable, Cooper, Grant, Power, etc.—as names the fans might select for "Naked And The Dead."

"What you don't know," said Evie, "is that Paul Gregory and Charles Laughton already have contacted Van for 'Naked And The Dead'. He also has been sent a script for 'The Big Banjo', a new Gregory project which is very exciting."

Van is on location at Tuscon for "The Bottom Of The Bottle," and Evie says he has no press agent to sound off for him.

Oh, yes, he has, Evie, and a darn good one!

"The Golden Falcon," authored by her serene highness Princess Poon Pismai Diskul of Thailand, is being offered by Robert Andrews to the studios. She is the first authentic princess of royal blood to write a Hollywood script.

Princess Poon was a pupil of Anna Leonowens, the subject of "Anna and the King of Siam." The princess, world traveler, has lectured at universities in America and Europe.

"She was most helpful to me," says Bob, "when I was in the Far East last year preparing 'The Wayfarer,' the film about Budda which MGM is producing. At that time she told me the story of 'The Golden Falcon,' which is true."

Had a good laugh over a letter from Paris which said that there's quite a bit of feeling between Katy Jurado and Gina Lollobrigida on the "trapeze" location—and it isn't friendly.

It all happened when Katy gave an interview to an English newspaper saying that Director Carol Reed was showing favoritism to Gina in their scenes together. The same paper quoted Katy as saying that Gina wears padding and a wig. But Katy denies this part of the statement.

The two girls had better get together because they'll be working with Burt Lancaster until early November.

Snaps:

The various young men who call Anna Francis for dates might like to know that her current escort is Bill Holmes, champion judo expert from the Los Angeles sheriff's office.

Eva Marie Saint could easily win a popularity contest on the Paramount lot because of her graciousness to everyone on the Bob Hope picture.

Cathy Crosby is studying ballet with Nico Charisse.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Wolf's City Visit Fatal

TORONTO, Oct. 10 (AP)—A timber wolf loped into this city early Sunday. Three taxi drivers cornered the animal and police shot it. Humane society officials said the wolf was wild and obviously exhausted.

Do you long to acquire an air of mystery? Mr. Powers has very definite opinions about that.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

"Jean's so much fun to be with. She always seems to be having such a good time."

I've heard this kind of remark a good many times from the young people I know, and I couldn't be happier to hear it. Because it means that responsiveness and enthusiasm and good spirits are special among the delightful qualities of girls of today.

Now I happen to be old enough to remember when the sultry siren type was quite the style. With movie vamps intriguing them, nice healthy young girls tried to cultivate an air of mystery, an inscrutable smile. Most of them didn't succeed too well, but there it was, the falsest possible notion of what would make them attractive.

Some girls still have false notions of how to make themselves attractive. They have an idea that they must somehow become someone else, a glamorous person who isn't quite real. I can tell you that the Powers Girls, whom the world labels glamorous, are very real and very much themselves. They're outstanding because they develop natural qualities of charm to their greatest power, not artificialities. And responsiveness and good spirits are certainly two that they share.

It's only when you are yourself, your own best self, that you are the most fun to be with, that you do have the best time. And the natural and companionable girl of today who finds so much and so many around her to enjoy, I'm happy to say, has made her type very much the style.

N. Y. Cleanup Drive

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—The big town has started one of its most intensive cleanup projects. The drive will continue three months.

Joining in the campaign are the Sanitation, Police, Fire, Education and Health departments. The first two weeks will be aimed at educating the public; after that will come strict enforcement of sanitation and antilitter laws.

Maple Grove Ladies Aid Views Projects

GRANTSVILLE — Maple Grove Church of the Brethren Ladies Aid Society met at the home of Mrs. Galen Baechy. Mrs. Blaine Beachy had charge of the program. Mrs. Arthur Resh conducted the business session. There were 19 members and one guest present. Thirty-two sick calls were made during the month and 297 cans of food were sent to New Windsor, Md. for relief.

Some changes were made in officers and chairmen. Mrs. Kenneth Hetrick is the secretary; Mrs. Harold Butler is assistant secretary; Mrs. Walter Younkin, peace chairman; Mrs. Loy Miller, temperance chairman; Mrs. Blaine Beachy, flower chairman.

The October project will be "A Kitchen Shower." The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Elmer Green, October 11.

Two Boys Pull Alarm Boxes

Two young boys were taken into custody Monday night by City Police after two false alarms sent East Side Fire Company speeding to two North End boxes.

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn said a 12-year-old boy and a ten-year-old boy were apprehended shortly after the last alarm was pulled.

The first came in at 7:10 p. m. from the box at Franklin and Columbia Avenue at Ort's Bakery.

The second was pulled at 7:30 p. m. at Franklin Street and Shriver Avenue.

Accompanying firemen to North End was Officer Kenneth Morrissey. At the bakery employes told him that they had seen two small boys loitering around the Franklin and Columbia Avenue box.

After the second alarm box was pulled, Officer Morrissey questioned two boys who were in the vicinity.

The older boy admitted pulling the Franklin and Shriver Avenue alarm, but not the earlier one, Officer Morrissey said.

The two lads were questioned at headquarters and released in the custody of their parents for the time being, the police chief reported.

Firemen and police officers also announced yesterday they are still looking for the boys who set the trash fire in the rear of 160 North Centre Street on September 30.

Residents of that area reported they saw three boys between 10 and 12 years in the vicinity shortly before the fire was started in the pile of cardboard boxes.

Hudson Aiming For 100,000 Deliveries

BURLINGTON, Wis., Oct. 11 (AP) —Hudson Division of American Motors will aim at 100,000 retail deliveries in 1956. This would double the number it expects to register this year.

The forecast of increased sales was made today by N. K. Vanderzee vice-president in charge of sales, at a press preview of American Motors new line of cars here today. He said the new cars will go on dealer display Nov. 30.

Vanderzee told newsmen this year's sales total of approximately 50,000 will be 45 percent above that of 1954.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 11—(INS)—I like the way Evie Johnson spoke up for her man Van when she telephoned to tell me I should have mentioned Van Johnson with the eight stars—Gable, Cooper, Grant, Power, etc.—as names the fans might select for "Naked And The Dead."

"What you don't know," said Evie, "is that Paul Gregory and Charles Laughton already have contacted Van for 'Naked And The Dead'. He also has been sent a script for 'The Big Banjo', a new Gregory project which is very exciting."

Van is on location at Tuscon for "The Bottom Of The Bottle," and Evie says he has no press agent to sound off for him.

Oh, yes, he has, Evie, and a darn good one!

"The Golden Falcon," authored by her serene highness Princess Poon Pismai Diskul of Thailand, is being offered by Robert Andrews to the studios. She is the first authentic princess of royal blood to write a Hollywood script.

Princess Poon was a pupil of Anna Leonowens, the subject of "Anna and the King of Siam." The princess, world traveler, has lectured at universities in America and Europe.

"She was most helpful to me," says Bob, "when I was in the Far East last year preparing 'The Wayfarer,' the film about Budda which MGM is producing. At that time she told me the story of 'The Golden Falcon,' which is true."

Had a good laugh over a letter from Paris which said that there's quite a bit of feeling between Katy Jurado and Gina Lollobrigida on the "trapeze" location—and it isn't friendly.

It all happened when Katy gave an interview to an English newspaper saying that Director Carol Reed was showing favoritism to Gina in their scenes together. The same paper quoted Katy as saying that Gina wears padding and a wig. But Katy denies this part of the statement.

The two girls had better get together because they'll be working with Burt Lancaster until early November.

Snaps:

The various young men who call Anna Francis for dates might like to know that her current escort is Bill Holmes, champion judo expert from the Los Angeles sheriff's office.

Eva Marie Saint could easily win a popularity contest on the Paramount lot because of her graciousness to everyone on the Bob Hope picture.

Cathy Crosby is studying ballet with Nico Charisse.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Wolf's City Visit Fatal

TORONTO, Oct. 10 (AP)—A timber wolf loped into this city early Sunday. Three taxi drivers cornered the animal and police shot it. Humane society officials said the wolf was wild and obviously exhausted.

Do you long to acquire an air of mystery? Mr. Powers has very definite opinions about that.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

"Jean's so much fun to be with. She always seems to be having such a good time."

I've heard this kind of remark a good many times from the young people I know, and I couldn't be happier to hear it. Because it means that responsiveness and enthusiasm and good spirits are special among the delightful qualities of girls of today.

Now I happen to be old enough to remember when the sultry siren type was quite the style. With movie vamps intriguing them, nice healthy young girls tried to cultivate an air of mystery, an inscrutable smile. Most of them didn't succeed too well, but there it was, the falsest possible notion of what would make them attractive.

Some girls still have false notions of how to make themselves attractive. They have an idea that they must somehow become someone else, a glamorous person who isn't quite real. I can tell you that the Powers Girls, whom the world labels glamorous, are very real and very much themselves. They're outstanding because they develop natural qualities of charm to their greatest power, not artificialities. And responsiveness and good spirits are certainly two that they share.

It's only when you are yourself, your own best self, that you are the most fun to be with, that you do have the best time. And the natural and companionable girl of today who finds so much and so many around her to enjoy, I'm happy to say, has made her type very much the style.

N. Y. Cleanup Drive

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—The big town has started one of its most intensive cleanup projects. The drive will continue three months.

Joining in the campaign are the Sanitation, Police, Fire, Education and Health departments. The first two weeks will be aimed at educating the public; after that will come strict enforcement of sanitation and antilitter laws.

Two Boys Pull Alarm Boxes

Two young boys were taken into custody Monday night by City Police after two false alarms sent East Side Fire Company speeding to two North End boxes.

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn said a 12-year-old boy and a ten-year-old boy were apprehended shortly after the last alarm was pulled.

The first came in at 7:10 p. m. from the box at Franklin and Columbia Avenue at Ort's Bakery.

The second was pulled at 7:30 p. m. at Franklin Street and Shriver Avenue.

Accompanying firemen to North End was Officer Kenneth Morrissey. At the bakery employes told him that they had seen two small boys loitering around the Franklin and Columbia Avenue box.

After the second alarm box was pulled, Officer Morrissey questioned two boys who were in the vicinity.

The older boy admitted pulling the Franklin and Shriver Avenue alarm, but not the earlier one, Officer Morrissey said.

The two lads were questioned at headquarters and released in the custody of their parents for the time being, the police chief reported.

Firemen and police officers also announced yesterday they are still looking for the boys who set the trash fire in the rear of 160 North Centre Street on September 30.

Residents of that area reported they saw three boys between 10 and 12 years in the vicinity shortly before the fire was started in the pile of cardboard boxes.

Hudson Aiming For 100,000 Deliveries

BURLINGTON, Wis., Oct. 11 (AP)—Hudson Division of American Motors will aim at 100,000 retail deliveries in 1956. This would double the number it expects to register this year.

The forecast of increased sales was made today by N. K. Vanderzee vice-president in charge of sales, at a press preview of American Motors new line of cars here today. He said the new cars will go on dealer display Nov. 30.

Vanderzee told newsmen this year's sales total of approximately 50,000 will be 45 percent above that of 1954.

Maple Grove Ladies Aid Views Projects

GRANTSVILLE — Maple Grove Church of the Brethren Ladies Aid Society met at the home of Mrs. Galen Baechy. Mrs. Blaine Beachy had charge of the program. Mrs. Arthur Resh conducted the business session. There were 19 members and one guest present. Thirty-two sick calls were made during the month and 297 cans of food were sent to New Windsor, Md. for relief.

Some changes were made in officers and chairmen. Mrs. Kenneth Hetrick is the secretary; Mrs. Harold Butler is assistant secretary; Mrs. Walter Younkin, peace chairman; Mrs. Loy Miller, temperance chairman; Mrs. Blaine Beachy, flower chairman.

The October project will be "A Kitchen Shower." The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Elmer Green, October 11.

Television And Radio

by John Crosby

Two Types Of Comedy

The other night the Sid Caesar show and "I Love Lucy," which is back for its sixth straight season, provided a very interesting comparison of comedy styles. Caesar's material is right out of the workaday world; "Lucy" is the stuff of dreams.

Chief item in the Caesar show was a long, long sketch about a couple who are unexpectedly given six tickets to a Broadway opening night. So they call a couple of other couples to share this bounty. Then ensues that monumental confusion that suburbanites get themselves into trying to do such a relatively simple thing as going to the theater. Who is to bring in the tuxedoes and where do we meet? And where do we eat? And who is to pick up Natalie's stole and, if Joe picks it up, how is he to get it into Natalie's hands?

Anyone who has ever lived anywhere around New York or who has ever gone to the theater has got himself into one of these hassles a half dozen times. In fact, I have been in taxicabs with five people who among them have lived in New York for roughly 100 years and no one can think of the name of a single restaurant.

In short, this is honest comedy of the best sort. There was one scene in which Mr. Caesar and his sidekick Nanette Fabray were on separate telephones issuing different instructions to different people; they talked in and around and sort of through each other, and it was a little gem of comedy writing and comedy playing. My only objection to this sketch—an objection that pertains to a lot of his sketches—is that he doesn't quite know when to stop. Mr. Caesar, I felt, overran his objective by about five minutes. Caesar, and his writers are sometimes a little too inventive for their own good.

Still this is the comedy for me—comedy of truth, people getting themselves into predicaments that I can recognize myself and my friends getting into. On the other hand, the opening shot of the "Lucy" series was about Lucy and Ethel swiping John Wayne's footprints from in front of Grauman's Chinese Theater in Hollywood.

Now, that's a very funny idea, the two girls lusting after John Wayne's footprints, but it's hardly the sort of thing that you or I or our wives would get mixed up in. I know hardly anyone who ever tried to steal John Wayne's footprints or even wanted to. The two shows are a striking illustration of the differences between the New York and Hollywood schools of thought.

A Hollywood writer can hardly avoid writing about show business because he eats, sleeps and breathes it out there. Hollywood is show business—morning, noon and night. The most successful comedy show to come out of the East is Jackie Gleason's. And what does he play? A bus driver. The most successful show from the West is "Lucy" and its hero is in show business.

Of course, Lucy is uncommonly well written and acted and it contains Miss Lucille Ball who is touched with genius in her line. There is room for both kinds of comedy—the Hollywood or fantasy type, and the New York or realistic type.

But I devoutly hope that there will always be both kinds. If all the comedy shows move to the coast, there won't be. I am convinced that if Gleason and Caesar were to follow Milton Berle to the West Coast, sooner or later their impersonations of a bus driver and a suburbanite would go Hollywood with them. The jokes would be show business jokes because there's nothing else to joke about out there.

Market's Fall Is Slowed By Rallies And Reactions

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP) — The stock market was racked by a series of rallies and reactions today and managed to close only moderately lower.

Today's performance represented a slowdown in the headlong fall that has been going on for more than two weeks since President Eisenhower suffered his heart attack.

At the finish, gains and losses spread over a range of around 3 points either way.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 90 cents at $163.40. It dropped $4.60 yesterday. Two weeks ago in its first major break the average fell $11.40, second largest decline it ever has made. The worst was Oct. 28, 1929, in the midst of the great depression crash of that era.

The average at $163.40 now stands at the level of last May. It has lost nearly 69 per cent of the gain that it made from the first of the year to the high of the year Sept. 23.

Volume came to 3,590,000 shares compared with 3,100,000 shares traded yesterday.

U. S. Steel, yesterday's most active issue off 2⅜, topped the active list today up ⅛ at 53⅜ on volume of 38,100 shares. It was followed by Glenn Martin up 2⅜ at 34⅛, General Motors "when issued" off ¾ at 44, Chrysler up 1½ at 92⅜, and New York Central up ⅜ at 44½.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

TOO RESPONSIVE

IT USED to be fashionable in certain bridge circles to give partner a "courtesy response" of one notrump, irrespective of how weak the responder's hand might be, but the awful punishment meted out to this piece of bridge insanity forced a change, even in these circles. The hand below illustrates the normal result of the "too-courteous" response. It occurred several years ago, but there are still some players of reputed skill who might be guilty of North's tactics.

South dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ 7 5 4 3 ♥ 6 4 3 2 ♦ 10 7 5 ♣ K 6
♠ K J 10 2 ♥ A J 9 8 ♦ 8 6 4 ♣ 10 7	N W E S	♠ 6 ♥ Q 5 ♦ Q 3 ♣ A Q J 9 8 5 4 2
	♠ A Q 9 8 ♥ K 10 7 ♦ A K J 9 2 ♣ 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 NT (!)	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	Pass	3 ♣
Pass	Pass	3 ♠ (!)	4 ♣
4 ♦	Dble. (final call)

It was absurd enough for North to keep the diamond bid open, but when East finally came in with three clubs, thus eliminating the value of North's only picture card it was utterly fantastic for North to bid three spades. If South had not played the hand beautifully—and also received some help from the side—North might have been shown the folly of his actions. As it was, he (and partner) had to pay a 500-point penalty.

West opened the club ten; East overtook with the jack and returned the spade six. South was sure that this was a singleton, but he nevertheless ducked because he did not mind West's winning and returning the suit. Actually, however, West won with the ten and returned his second club. Declarer ruffed, cashed the top diamonds, and when East's queen fell, laid down the diamond jack to draw West's last trump. Now South exited with the spade nine.

West won with the spade jack and at this point he could not avoid a losing return, but he took the worst way out: he led the ace and eight of hearts. South captured East's queen and laid down his last trump. This squeezed West; he had to let go the heart nine. South promptly threw him in by leading the heart ten, and now West had to return a spade from his K-2 to South's tenace.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Television And Radio

by John Crosby

Two Types Of Comedy

The other night the Sid Caesar show and "I Love Lucy," which is back for its sixth straight season, provided a very interesting comparison of comedy styles. Caesar's material is right out of the workaday world; "Lucy" is the stuff of dreams.

Chief item in the Caesar show was a long, long sketch about a couple who are unexpectedly given six tickets to a Broadway opening night. So they call a couple of other couples to share this bounty. Then ensues that monumental confusion that suburbanites get themselves into trying to do such a relatively simple thing as going to the theater. Who is to bring in the tuxedoes and where do we meet? And where do we eat? And who is to pick up Natalie's stole and, if Joe picks it up, how is he to get it into Natalie's hands?

Anyone who has ever lived anywhere around New York or who has ever gone to the theater has got himself into one of these hassles a half dozen times. In fact, I have been in taxicabs with five people who among them have lived in New York for roughly 100 years and no one can think of the name of a single restaurant.

In short, this is honest comedy of the best sort. There was one scene in which Mr. Caesar and his sidekick Nanette Fabray were on separate telephones issuing different instructions to different people; they talked in and around and sort of through each other, and it was a little gem of comedy writing and comedy playing. My only objection to this sketch—an objection that pertains to a lot of his sketches—is that he doesn't quite know when to stop. Mr. Caesar, I felt, overran his objective by about five minutes. Caesar, and his writers are sometimes a little too inventive for their own good.

Still this is the comedy for me—comedy of truth, people getting themselves into predicaments that I can recognize myself and my friends getting into. On the other hand, the opening shot of the "Lucy" series was about Lucy and Ethel swiping John Wayne's footprints from in front of Grauman's Chinese Theater in Hollywood.

Now, that's a very funny idea, the two girls lusting after John Wayne's footprints, but it's hardly the sort of thing that you or I or our wives would get mixed up in. I know hardly anyone who ever tried to steal John Wayne's footprints or even wanted to. The two shows are a striking illustration of the differences between the New York and Hollywood schools of thought.

A Hollywood writer can hardly avoid writing about show business because he eats, sleeps and breathes it out there. Hollywood is show business—morning, noon and night. The most successful comedy show to come out of the East is Jackie Gleason's. And what does he play? A bus driver. The most successful show from the West is "Lucy" and its hero is in show business.

Of course, Lucy is uncommonly well written and acted and it contains Miss Lucille Ball who is touched with genius in her line. There is room for both kinds of comedy—the Hollywood or fantasy type, and the New York or realistic type.

But I devoutly hope that there will always be both kinds. If all the comedy shows move to the coast, there won't be. I am convinced that if Gleason and Caesar were to follow Milton Berle to the West Coast, sooner or later their impersonations of a bus driver and a suburbanite would go Hollywood with them. The jokes would be show business jokes because there's nothing else to joke about out there.

Market's Fall Is Slowed By Rallies And Reactions

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP) — The stock market was racked by a series of rallies and reactions today and managed to close only moderately lower.

Today's performance represented a slowdown in the headlong fall that has been going on for more than two weeks since President Eisenhower suffered his heart attack.

At the finish, gains and losses spread over a range of around 3 points either way.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 90 cents at $163.40. It dropped $4.60 yesterday. Two weeks ago in its first major break the average fell $11.40, second largest decline it ever has made. The worst was Oct. 28, 1929, in the midst of the great depression crash of that era.

The average at $163.40 now stands at the level of last May. It has lost nearly 69 per cent of the gain that it made from the first of the year to the high of the year Sept. 23.

Volume came to 3,590,000 shares compared with 3,100,000 shares traded yesterday.

U. S. Steel, yesterday's most active issue off 2⅝, topped the active list today up ⅛ at 53⅜ on volume of 38,100 shares. It was followed by Glenn Martin up 2⅝ at 34⅛, General Motors "when issued" off ¾ at 44, Chrysler up 1½ at 92⅜, and New York Central up ⅜ at 44½.

New Yorkers Iceskate

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—The weather has been in the 70s here, but iceskating has started in Central Park. Thousands glided and pirouetted on the artificial ice at Wollman Memorial Rink over the weekend.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Put a piece of apple in your brown sugar jar and it will keep the sugar from drying out. The same thing can be done in the cookie jar to prevent the cookies from getting dry.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

TOO RESPONSIVE

IT USED to be fashionable in certain bridge circles to give partner a "courtesy response" of one notrump, irrespective of how weak the responder's hand might be, but the awful punishment meted out to this piece of bridge insanity forced a change, even in these circles. The hand below illustrates the normal result of the "too-courteous" response. It occurred several years ago, but there are still some players of reputed skill who might be guilty of North's tactics.

South dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ 7 5 4 3 ♥ 6 4 3 2 ♦ 10 7 5 ♣ K 6
♠ K J 10 2 ♥ A J 9 8 ♦ 8 6 4 ♣ 10 7	N W E S	♠ 6 ♥ Q 5 ♦ Q 3 ♣ A Q J 9 8 5 4 2
	♠ A Q 9 8 ♥ K 10 7 ♦ A K J 9 2 ♣ 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 NT (!)	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	Pass	3 ♣
Pass	Pass	3 ♠ (!)	4 ♣
4 ♦	Dble. (final call)

It was absurd enough for North to keep the diamond bid open, but when East finally came in with three clubs, thus eliminating the value of North's only picture card it was utterly fantastic for North to bid three spades. If South had not played the hand beautifully—and also received some help from the side—North might have been shown the folly of his actions. As it was, he (and partner) had to pay a 500-point penalty.

West opened the club ten; East overtook with the jack and returned the spade six. South was sure that this was a singleton, but he nevertheless ducked because he did not mind West's winning and returning the suit. Actually, however, West won with the ten and returned his second club. Declarer ruffed, cashed the top diamonds, and when East's queen fell, laid down the diamond jack to draw West's last trump. Now South exited with the spade nine.

West won with the spade jack and at this point he could not avoid a losing return, but he took the worst way out: he led the ace and eight of hearts. South captured East's queen and laid down his last trump. This squeezed West; he had to let go the heart nine. South promptly threw him in by leading the heart ten, and now West had to return a spade from his K-2 to South's tenace.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

U A O V D L T V P D R T I E U O Y T E I P U T
X D Z E L Z J M R T A O Z — V Y E T A E I.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: EVERY MAN OF US HAS ALL THE CENTURIES IN HIM—MORLEY.

THE LITTLE WOMAN — HENRY — By Carl Anderson

"Before I give an opinion on your new nail polish, let me ask you—will you have to buy a new outfit to match it?"

Card of Thanks

We desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during our recent sad bereavement, the death of our son and brother, Frank J. Dormio. Especially do we thank the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral and to all others who in any way rendered assistance.

In Memoriam

In memory of John Henry Robey, who died October 12, 1954.

No one knows how much we miss him,
Often we feel him near;
Can hear his foot steps beside us
And for his care.
We miss him at the table,
At night when going to bed
And wish that he was with us,
Alas, he is absent and silent instead.

His wife, Elsie L. Robey, and family

In loving memory of my beloved Mother, Mrs. Addie Cunningham, who departed this life, 10 years ago, Oct. 12, 1945.

There's a little word called Mother,
And it touches every heart
With tenderness and beauty,
That for her is set apart
And, in all the world of mothers,
Sweet and fine, and precious too,
While I know that there are others,
In my heart, there's only you.

HER DAUGHTERS

Card of Thanks

We desire to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all our friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during our recent sad bereavement, the death of our son and brother, Frank J. Dormio. Especially do we thank the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes, those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral and to all others who in any way rendered assistance.

Mrs. Raffaela Dormio
& Family

In Memoriam

In memory of John Henry Robey, who died October 12, 1954.

No one knows how much we miss him,
Often we feel him near;
Can hear his foot steps beside us
And for his care.
We miss him at the table,
At night when going to bed
And wish that he was with us,
Alas, he is absent and silent instead.

His wife, Elsie L. Robey, and family

In loving memory of my beloved Mother, Mrs. Addie Cunningham, who departed this life, 10 years ago, Oct. 12, 1945.

There's a little word called Mother,
And it touches every heart
With tenderness and beauty,
That for her is set apart
And, in all the world of mothers,
Sweet and fine, and precious too,
While I know that there are others,
In my heart, there's only you.

HER DAUGHTERS

The next meeting will be held Monday, October 17.

Ellerslie WSCS Studies Indians

ELLERSLIE — The WSCS of the Methodist Church met in the church hall Thursday evening. The meeting was opened by group singing "Come Thou O'Mighty King." Eleanor O'Brian, spiritual leader, read the Indian version of the Twenty Third Psalm. She also read the Scripture "God Seeks His Own." Mrs. Della Kimmel, Mrs. Anna Mae Cook and Miss Clara Critchfield read about the Indians. Mrs. Amanda Lee sang the theme song for the year "Let There Be Light." Mrs. O'Brian read the prayer. The meeting was adjourned by group singing "The Kingdom is Coming."

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Della Kimmel, Mrs. Goldie Stollars and Miss Clara Critchfield. Other members present were Flo Griffey, Helen See, Marie Simpkins, Anna C. Lowery, Lillian Cook, Mary Wenrich, Grace Porter, Amanda Lee, Mae Beal, Jennie Diehl, Erma Burkett, Annabelle Clauson, Lydia Porter, Eleanor O'Brian, Alma Connor and Sammy O'Brian, and Anna Mae Cook.

Keyser Miss Hurt As Car Overturns

KEYSER—Miss Eunice Wilt, 17, of Potomac Heights, Keyser, was admitted to Potomac Valley Hospital for X-rays of an injured leg late Saturday evening when she was hurt in a car accident.

According to Cpl. F. H. Tripett, West Virginia state police, Miss Wilt was a passenger in the car driven by Dyer Whetzel, 18, of RD 1, Keyser, when the machine turned over after hitting an embankment on the Limestone Road near Keyser about 10:15 Saturday night.

Whetzel was arrested and charged with hazardous driving by Cpl. Tribett.

Barton Presbyterians Plan Dinner Tonight

BARTON—The First Presbyterian Church will have its annual fall supper from 5 until 7 p. m. today.

Fork and beef will be served. Mrs. Eva Cross, president of the Ladies Guild, is in charge.

Ribbons Cut On Potomac River Spans

Governor Says Road Plan Is On Schedule

The ceremony followed the opening yesterday morning of another span across the Potomac River at Kitzmiller.

It was the first time in history that the State of Maryland has opened two bridges on the same day.

In a brief speech of dedication, Gov. McKeldin said the bridge will serve to bring the states of Maryland and West Virginia closer together.

"We are building bridges," he said, "for those who come after us."

Several hundred spectaors witnessed the ribbon-cutting ceremony which got off to a late start due to the ceremonies in Frostburg marking the installation of R. Bowen Hardesty as president of Frostburg State Teachers College.

More Spans To Come

William A. Gunter, master of ceremonies, recalled bridge costs have gone up during the past 150 years. He referred to an old act of the Assembly authorizing $2,000 lottery to purchase a fire engine and another Wills Creek Bridge.

The present span, Mayor Roy W. Eves said, is the second to be built in connection with the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection project. A new Valley Street Bridge has been provided and new spans are planned at Market and Baltimore streets.

Cooperation made the span possible, said Russell H. McCain, chairman of the Maryland State Roads Commission. He praised the efforts of the West Virginia State Road Commission, which is sharing half the cost, and the City of Cumberland and the contractors who built the span.

The bridges here and at Kitzmiller, he added, will weld Maryland and West Virginia closer together.

Mayor Charles H. Fryer of Ridgeley expressed thanks of that community for the span.

Remove Name Plate

Brief remarks were made by State Senator Charles M. See, M. L. O'Neale, chief engineer for the West Virginia SRC, and Col. F. Egerton Powell, Bicentennial chairman.

Governor McKeldin also officiated at the unveiling of the bridge plaque. It is still a bridge without a name, since the name plate was removed before the ceremony.

Cumberland, which is celebrating its Bicentennial, wants the bridge called the George Washington Crossing.

Following the ceremony the officials, led by the Fort Hill High School Band, crossed the new span and returned to Cumberland by way of the old Blue Bridge, which is to be razed in connection with the big flood job.

By early evening, barricades were placed at the Maryland approach, since work is not yet completed on the West Virginia approach.

The historic bridge ceremonies were followed by an open house at the new State Roads Commission's area headquarters on Braddock Road.

Hundreds of area citizens turned up to inspect the modern building.

The honor of being first went to the Kitzmiller bridge which was opened at 11 a. m.

Progress Is Cited

Governor McKeldin led the list of dignitaries present for the opening of the two bridges and noted that in addition to the new record, the bridges "point up the progress of our 12-year highways program.

"Today," said the governor, "is a red-letter day in Maryland's ceaseless struggle against the roadblock of her rivers.

"This achievement signalizes not only our determination to improve our bridge system but brings into focus the inadequacy of our

Cuts Last Barrier

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin cuts the ribbon on the new Cumberland-Ridgeley Bridge. Witnessing the ceremony are Mayor Roy W. Eves of Cumberland, G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the Maryland State Roads Commission, and Mayor Charles H. Fryer of Ridgeley, W. Va. Earlier yesterday, the governor cut the ribbon at the Kitzmiller Bridge. In the lower photo, Jimmy Melvin, dressed in his Davy Crockett suit, takes a nap while waiting for the show to get on the road here. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Melvin, 466 Columbia Street. Jimmy is sure to remember the bridge ceremony, even if he did take a cat nap while waiting, for yesterday was his fourth birthday.

Cumberland Earns Title Of 'Brotherly Love' City

Philadelphia is called the City of Brotherly Love but in the opinion of two "middle aged" women—one a Philadelphian—Cumberland has the Quaker City beat all hollow in that department.

The Chamber of Commerce is proud of the letter of appreciation written by Miss Mollie Brunwasser, Pittsburgh, following their Fort Cumberland Bicentennial Year visit.

It is prouder yet of the way the early birds rolled out the red carpet for the visitors and helped to make their day's visit a memorable one.

Miss Brunwasser and her companion arrived at the Queen City Station about 4 a. m. Not wanting to waste time, they walked to Baltimore Street and were greeted by the sight of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, site of old Fort Cumberland, and the Masonic Temple.

She said that as they crossed Wills Creek they met a friendly man, the Western Maryland Railway crossing watchman, who inspired them with a talk on the history of the Queen City.

They found another friend in a patrolman on duty at a Baltimore Street traffic box, who directed them to equally friendly bus drivers.

The drivers, she added, advised on routes and transfers which provided tours to several sections of the city.

"We two strangers," she said, "have boosted Cumberland since we returned home . . . telling others what a beautiful city and friendly people" they found here, adding:

"They call Philadelphia a a brotherly love city . . . but the two most friendly cities, outside of Pittsburgh, are Duluth, Minn., and Cumberland."

Sitting on the benches placed on downtown streets for the Bicentennial year was another high point to their visit.

Local newspapers, she added, deserve a bit of praise, "judging from the number of readers they saw enjoying The Cumberland News."

Marine Reserve Promotes 8

Major Patsy Algieri, commanding officer of the Sixth Special Infantry Company, USMCR, has awarded eight promotion warrants to men of Cumberland and nearby towns.

They are Pvt. Samuel G. Brooks, Lonaconing; Pvt. Robert W. Chase, Ridgeley; Pvt. William L. Haines, Romney; Pvt. Glendon N. Kline, Pvt. John K. Randall, Pvt. James S. Wright, Cumberland, Pvt. Roland E. Shanholtz, Pleasantdale, W. Va., and Pvt. James S. Wright, who were promoted to privates first class. Also receiving a promotion warrant was Cpl. Bashor A. Cross Jr., who was promoted to sergeant.

It was further announced by Maj. Algieri that during the last two drills, the unit has enlisted five men under the new 1955 Reserve Law. They are Pvt. Fay M. Emerick, Pvt. James E. Lepley, both from Wellersburg, Pa., Pvt. Donald L. Stickley of 227 South Mechanic Street, Pvt. James W. Yantz, Mt. Savage, and Pvt. Walter J. Cutchall, RFD 5, Cumberland.

In conjunction with the newly acquired recruits, an award of $25 savings bond is to be given to the member of the Sixth Special Infantry Company who obtains the most recruits for the past three months. Receiving this award for his outstanding recruiting during the last quarter, was Tech. Sgt. Francis M. Lee, Cresaptown.

Union Ratifies Two Contracts

Members of Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL), yesterday ratified contract offers made by two local firms and asked officers to continue negotiations on a third.

Workers at the City Ice and Fuel Company accepted a pact which includes a five-cent wage boost, retroactive to July 1, and another three cents next year, according to C. E. Stutzman, business agent.

The pact will cover about 30 workers and will run until July 1, 1957, he said.

Workers in the shipping department at the Cumberland Undergarment Company ratified a one-year pact providing 10 cents, retroactive to September 1, and another 10 cents in January, Stutzman said. It covers about 15 workers.

He said both pacts include $9.75 a month for health and welfare benefits.

Workers employed at the C. D. Kenny Division, Consolidated Grocers Corporation, he said, turned down a company contract proposal and directed officers to continue negotiations.

Optimists Will Hear Talk On Plastics

The Cumberland Optimist Club will hear talks on plastics at its meeting at 6:15 p. m. today at Central YMCA.

Arthur C. Morgan, president, and Charles E. Kolb, general manager of the Artmor Plastics Corporation, Oldtown Road, will discuss the products they produce.

Deaths

Grabenstein, Mrs. Edward, 45, Winchester Road.

Heger, Joseph 70, Maysville, W. Va.

Hopcraft, Mrs. Jesse E., 219 Maryland Avenue.

Morrissey, James, 29, Trenton, N. J., former resident.

Plunkett, William M., 47, Mt. Pleasant Street, Frostburg.

Poultry Plant Production Is Near Normal

Most Strikers Return To Work

The Rockingham Poultry Marketing Cooperative strike at the Moorefield plant continues, union officials said yesterday, but plant management claimed production is near a normal level.

Walter Petit, manager of the Moorefield operation, said 100 of the 130 production workers had signed up for work on Monday, but only 90 of these were put to work because of some new machinery recently installed.

A picket line is still moving in front of the poultry plant as the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers Union AFL continues its strike, he said. The plant is accepting poultry from farmers and growers as it is brought in, Petit noted.

State Police and town police are still on duty and no further violence or disorder has been reported for several days. In the early day of the two-week-old walkout, there were repeated brushes between pickets and others and some vandalism was charged to the strikers.

Victor Pringle, general manager of all the six plants of the big processing cooperative, met with union officials in Chicago last week but no announcement has been made of any agreement or conclusion to the wage and fringe dispute. The terms of the union demands, he said, will be made public after a meeting of the board of directors of the firm in Broadway, Va., Monday.

Two of the company plants, one at Alma, Va., and the other at Stuarts Draft, Va., have not been called out on strike by the union. Struck plants besides Moorefield are Winchester, Richmond and Broadway.

Company officials, however, report operations at all the plants have continued and are nearing a normal level.

Contracts expired Sept. 9 for workers at plants at Broadway, Richmond and Winchester, Va., and Moorefield, W. Va. The strike began two days later.

The union asked that the minimum pay scale be hiked from 89 cents to $1.25 an hour.

Pringle said today the demand had been reduced to 95 cents an hour for the present, with a boost to $1 in January and $1.05 in March when the minimum wage of $1 an hour goes into effect.

Pringle said the co-op takes the view its pay scale and other benefits are higher than most of its competitors.

Property Is Sold

Stephen J. Maschue and Jane F. Maschue have sold property on the northwest side of Braddock Street near the National Turnpike, about four miles west of Cumberland, to Thomas E. Hollingsworth and Josephine B. Hollingsworth, according to a deed filed for record yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

County Employes Will Get Holiday

Virtually all Allegany County employes will get a holiday today as both the Court House and Union Street Building will be closed in observance of Columbus Day.

Most state officers will be closed too, including the Department of Employment Security. Although public schools will be open, all Catholic schools in the Archdiocese of Baltimore are scheduled to be closed.

Gridder Is Injured

Kenneth Yankelevitz, 13, of 510 Frederick Street was admitted to Memorial Hospital on Monday suffering from a fractured left arm which he injured while playing football with the Allegany High School eighth grade team at Romney, W. Va.

Md. Demos Up Ante On Dinner

New Price Set At $100 A Plate

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11 (AP)—Maryland Democrats tonight upped the ante on their advertised $25-a-plate dinner Nov. 28 to $100-a-plate in hopes of wiping out a $35,000 debt and getting a running start on the next campaign.

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) will be the principal speaker and state party leaders hope at least 1,000 well-heeled party members will be on hand.

The decision to make the dinner a real fund raising affair came out of a meeting of about 75 top Democrats who discussed finances and other party matters.

Michael J. Birmingham, president of the Baltimore County Commissioners and chairman of the dinner committee, presided.

It was decided that in view of the circumstances, a $25 dinner would not come close to fulfilling its purpose and that it would be just as easy to sell tickets for four times that amount.

Birmingham said the state party owes about $17,000 to the Democratic National Committee and still has a deficit of something under $20,000 as a leftover from the ill-fated 1954 Maryland general election campaign.

With the governor's mansion, both Senate seats and three of the seven congressional seats in Republican hands, and campaign money harder to come by these days, Democrats feel their war chest needs stuffing.

Their immediate aim is to retake the Senate seat now held by John Marshall Butler whose term expires next year.

The Republicans also are planning a $100-a-plate dinner for the fall.

Area Man Hurt In 50-Foot Fall From Barn Roof

A 40-year-old Ridgeley area man was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment of injuries suffered in a 50-foot fall.

He is Harold Nestor, Route 1, Ridgeley, who was in a "fair" condition last night. His injuries included a fractured right leg and injuries of both arms.

He told the hospital he fell while he was painting the roof of a barn at his mother's home in Fort Ashby, W. Va.

Man Hurt In Plane

William O'Neal, 27, of Oldtown, was treated in Memorial Hospital on Monday for lacerations above both eyes suffered when he struck his head on the panel board of his small airplane while landing at the Cumberland Airport. The pilot said the craft struck a small rock or obstruction and threw him against the panel.

Barter Theatre Will Stage Mystery Play Here Tonight

The Barter Theatre of Virginia will make its first appearance of the season here at 8:20 o'clock tonight in the Allegany High School auditorium when a first-rate melodrama, "Dial M for Murder," will be presented.

This brisk well-plotted murder-mystery will be sponsored here by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce again this year. Proceeds will be used to purchase an incubator for Sacred Heart Hospital. Season tickets may be obtained from any Jaycee and tickets for tonight are available at Jack-N-Jill Shop, North Centre Street.

E. F. Mullan Jr. is chairman of the Jaycee Barter Theatre committee.

The performance here tonight is part of a six-week tour which is taking the players to seven states from Maryland to South Carolina. They also include Kentucky, Virginia, North Carolina, West Virginia and Tennessee.

Featured in the cast are Owen Phillips, Jeannette Randall, Del Close, Jerry Hardin, Richard McKenzie, George Baron and Warren Beckman.

Retail Grocers Arrange Dinner For Oct. 19

Mayors Invited To Annual Event

The Independent Retail Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland is pushing plans for its 11th anual dinner which will be held at the St. Mary's Recreation Hall on Oldtown Road Wednesday, October 19, at 7 p. m.

Luther Hutter Sr., president of both the Western Maryland and state association of retail food dealers, said the mayors of the 15 incorporated cities and towns in Allegany and Garrett counties and their wives have been invited as special guests.

"I think it is most fitting that we should honor these men who give so unselfishly of their time and energy in the noble work of helping to make communities better places in which to live," Hutter said in commenting upon the invitations to the mayors.

"They have much in common with the independent retail food dealers. They have worked with us in the building of our cities and towns."

A number of visiting retail grocers also are expected for the dinner meeting. They are expected from Cambridge, Baltimore, Carroll, Frederick and Washington counties.

Harold Barry, who has officiated at previous entertainments for the grocers, will serve as master of ceremonies for the entertainment program. One of the featured acts will be the Pittsburghers, a male quartet which won a national barber shop quartet contest last year.

More than 600 are expected for the dinner.

Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will deliver the invocation. The St. Mary's High School girls orchestra will play dinner music.

City Collects 31 Per Cent Of 1955 Levy

The City of Cumberland has collected almost a third of its 1955 levy and spending is right on par, according to a first quarter report issued yesterday by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor.

The report on the condition of the levy on September 30 showed total collections of $493,286.14, or 30.9 per cent of the $1,595,630 levy.

Tax collections, far ahead of schedule, totaled $261,877.51, or 23.2 per cent of the $1,128,500 tax levy.

The rosy report on tax collections reflected the fact that workers in the city finance department had tax bills out almost a week ahead of schedule.

Tax collections are expected to be in the vicinity of 85 per cent by October 24, the last day taxes may be paid at par.

The various departments of the city had spent $336,715.95 on September 30, leaving $1,013,580.86 for the other nine months.

The spending represents 24.93 per cent of the operating expenditures. For all practical purposes that is right on schedule, since par is 25 per cent.

Company Submits Low Road Bid

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11 (AP) — The Cumberland Contracting Co. today submitted the apparent low bid of $324,954 for overhauling a 1.4-mile stretch of U. S. 220 near Dawson in Allegany County.

The George F. Hazlewood Co. of Cumberland was second low at $356,527 and two other bids ran as high as $403,304.

The project calls for grading, drainage, relocation, surfacing and re-surfacing of the stretch.

The Williams Construction Co. of Baltimore was apparent low bidder at $830,607 on a section of the Baltimore Beltway and its interchange with the Dulaney Valley road in Baltimore County.

Woman Is Injured In Fall At Home

Mrs. Leah VanMeter, wife of Grover VanMeter, 310 North Waverly Terrace, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment of injuries suffered in a fall at her home.

She told the hospital she hit her head on a cellar door and that the force of the blow threw her back, causing her to fall on a lawn mower.

Mrs. VanMeter was listed in fair condition, suffering from possible right shoulder and back injuries.

South End Firemen Called Out Twice

South End firemen were called out twice to extinguish the same grass fire yesterday afternoon.

They first responded at 4:18 p.m. when they were informed of a grass fire somewhere on South Street. Because the location was indefinite, the firemen were unable to find the blaze. They got a second call at 4:28 p.m., two minutes after their return, and this time found the fire at the end of Blackiston Avenue and Frank's Lane. There was no damage.

F. R. REILLY

Md. Insurance Sessions Open Here Sunday

Speakers Announced For Three-Day Event

F. R. Reilly, assistant secretary of AFCO Inc., New York, will be one of the principal speakers at the 19th annual convention of the Maryland Association of Insurance Agents, which opens here Sunday.

Reilly's address, scheduled Monday at 3:30 p.m., will be on the subject of budgeting automobile, fire, casualty and other premiums.

Registration for the three-day fall convention is already at the 170 mark and is expected to reach 300. Officials yesterday urged agents in Allegany and Garrett counties to register as soon as possible so plans can be completed.

The Fort Cumberland Hotel will be the headquarters for the convention. Social activities will be at Ali Ghan Country Club and the Cumberland Country Club.

Tournament Planned

Sunday's activities will include a golf tournament beginning at 12:30 p.m. at the Cumberland Country Club.

The Allegany-Garrett Association of Insurance Agents will sponsor a cocktail party there at 6 p.m. A dutch treat buffet supper will be held at 7 p.m., followed by entertainment.

Business activities get under way Monday morning at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

The annual business meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m., followed by a luncheon at 12:30 p.m. in the hotel ballroom.

Monday afternoon Joseph F. Leopold, Chicago, of the National Tax Equality Association, speaks at 2:30 p.m. and Reilly's speech is scheduled at 3:30 p.m.

Social Session Set

A special program is planned, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Cumberland Country Club.

Tuesday's activities get under way at convention headquarters at 9:30 a.m. and at 10:30 a.m., Albert L. Latham, Baltimore, will speak on "General Liability."

Luncheon at 12:30 p.m. will be followed by an address by P. K. Mullen, Pittsburgh, on "New Marine Definition and What it Means to You."

Slated Tuesday at 6 p.m. at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club is the annual banquet, which will be followed by a floor show, imported from Pittsburgh, and a dance.

Plans for the convention are being made by Robert E. Barnard, general chairman; Thomas F. Conlon Jr., reservations; James B. Reinhart, speakers; John E. Geare, entertainment; D. Clifford Goodfellow, publicity, and Miss Naoma M. Flanagan, women's activities.

Jury Awards Post $3,750 For Land In Morgan County

A condemnation jury in Morgan County returned an award of $3,750 for property owned by former Mayor Thomas S. Post and needed for a bridge approach.

Mayor Post, who has owned a Morgan County farm for a number of years, had asked the West Virginia State Roads Commission $7,500 for the desired property. The state held the value was too high and instituted a condemnation suit at Berkeley Springs.

The land is needed, the state claims, for an approach to Fisher's Ford Bridge.

Eichner's New Car Gets 'Good' Start

W. Edward Eichner, one of the county assessors, was a mighty happy man yesterday as he drove his brand new 1955 automobile toward his home at 1100 Frederick Street.

That was until he got to the intersection of Frederick and Decatur streets. There another motorist failed to observe a stop sign on Decatur Street and plowed into Eichner's new car. The assessor figures damage to the car, which had less than 70 miles on its speedometer, at something like $300.

To Confer Degrees

Salem Council 11, Royal Arch Masons, will confer the Royal and Select Masters Degrees tonight at the Masonic Temple, and a buffet supper will follow. Donald L. Keefauver, thrice illustrious master, urges all members to attend.

Davis School Strikers Plan To Stay Out

Board Reports 78 On Absentee List

The Davis, W. Va., school building remained under siege of picketing students and parents yesterday, as townspeople continued their protest against consolidating Davis High School with Thomas High School, and Thomas Junior High School with Davis Junior High School.

The strike started a week ago when some 35 or more students living in the Davis area refused to attend classes at Thomas. The group was joined later by a number of junior high school students and a few from elementary grades.

Yesterday, student leaders and several parents avowed that the strike will continue "until we get our high school back."

In the meantime, the County Board of Education called a special meeting at Parsons yesterday afternoon and checked the situation.

After the meetinf, a spokesman for the board said that the strike of students at Davis was discussed and it was determined that students are remaining away from classes and are picketing the Davis school building in an orderly and quiet manner.

Absentee Report Released

Yesterday's report of absentees, the board spokesman said, shows that 35 high school students residing in the Davis area failed to report for classes at the Thomas High School. The absentee report also showed that 44 junior high school students were absent yesterday from Davis Junior High School, and nine were absent from Davis Elementary School. Only one junior high school student from Thomas was absent at Davis Junior High, and he was reported ill.

It was presumed that the total number of students engaged in the picketing activity at Davis is 78.

In recent reports, parents had claimed as many as 105 and school officials had placed the number as low as 26.

The students yesterday remained on a vacant lot opposite the Davis school building all day. They had a picnic lunch furnished by Davis merchants who are reported in sympathy with efforts to return the high school to Davis, which had the first high school in the county.

No Action Taken

No legal action has been taken by the Board of Education against the students or parents, but a board spokesman said they had been warned that it is illegal for the students to remain out of school, and it is also illegal for the parents or other persons to encourage them to do so.

Members of the Board of Education include John Yeager of Thomas, president; Clyde King and John Campbell of the St. George District; W. Del Roy Harner of Parsons, and Dr. Guy H. Michael Sr., of Parsons. Stellman Harper is superintendent of schools.

All the board members except Dr. Michael, who is ill, attended the meeting yesterday.

The board did not indicate what further action it contemplates.

Churches Plan Leader Training

Methodist ministers of the Cumberland Subdistrict will sponsor a leadership training school at LaVale Methodist Church October 17-19 and October 24-26 from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

The ministers said the school will be of interest to all church school workers and ministers.

Courses to be offered are:

"Guiding Junior Children in Christian Growth," to be taught by Mrs. Floyd Cozad, a teacher in the junior department of LaVale Methodist Church school.

"Guiding Intermediates," by Miss Juanita Powers, director of youth work for the Board of Education of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church.

"Helping Adults Learn," by Miss Lillian C. Compton, a teacher in the adult department of Grace Methodist Church School and former president of Frostburg State Teachers College.

Ribbons Cut On Potomac River Spans

Governor Says Road Plan Is On Schedule

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin yesterday afternoon cut the ribbon marking the official opening of the half-million-dollar Cumberland-Ridgeley Bridge.

The ceremony followed the opening yesterday morning of another span across the Potomac River at Kitzmiller.

It was the first time in history that the State of Maryland has opened two bridges on the same day.

In a brief speech of dedication, Gov. McKeldin said the bridge will serve to bring the states of Maryland and West Virginia closer together.

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin cuts the ribbon on the new Cumberland-Ridgeley Bridge. Witnessing the ceremony are Mayor Roy W. Eves of Cumberland, G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the Maryland State Roads Commission, and Mayor Charles H. Fryer of Ridgeley, W. Va. Earlier yesterday, the governor cut the ribbon at the Kitzmiller Bridge. In the lower photo, Jimmy Melvin, dressed in his Davy Crockett suit, takes a nap while waiting for the show to get on the road here. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Melvin, 466 Columbia Street. Jimmy is sure to remember the bridge ceremony, even if he did take a cat nap while waiting, for yesterday was his fourth birthday.

Cumberland Earns Title Of 'Brotherly Love' City

Philadelphia is called the City of Brotherly Love but in the opinion of two "middle aged" women—one a Philadelphian—Cumberland has the Quaker City beat all hollow in that department.

The Chamber of Commerce is proud of the letter of appreciation written by Miss Mollie Brunwasser, Pittsburgh, following their Fort Cumberland Bicentennial Year visit.

It is prouder yet of the way the early birds rolled out the red carpet for the visitors and helped to make their day's visit a memorable one.

Miss Brunwasser and her companion arrived at the Queen City Station about 4 a. m. Not wanting to waste time, they walked to Baltimore Street and were greeted by the sight of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, site of old Fort Cumberland, and the Masonic Temple.

She said that as they crossed Wills Creek they met a friendly man, the Western Maryland Railway crossing watchman, who inspired them with a talk on the history of the Queen City.

They found another friend in a patrolman on duty at a Baltimore Street traffic box, who directed them to equally friendly bus drivers.

The drivers, she added, advised on routes and transfers which provided tours to several sections of the city.

"We two strangers," she said, "have boosted Cumberland since we returned home . . . telling others what a beautiful city and friendly people" they found here, adding:

"They call Philadelphia a a brotherly love city . . . but the two most friendly cities, outside of Pittsburgh, are Duluth, Minn., and Cumberland."

Sitting on the benches placed on downtown streets for the Bicentennial year was another high point to their visit.

Local newspapers, she added, deserve a bit of praise, "judging from the number of readers they saw enjoying The Cumberland News."

Marine Reserve Promotes 8

Major Patsy Algieri, commanding officer of the Sixth Special Infantry Company, USMCR, has awarded eight promotion warrants to men of Cumberland and nearby towns.

They are Pvt. Samuel G. Brooks, Lonaconing; Pvt. Robert W. Chase, Ridgeley; Pvt. William L. Haines, Romney; Pvt. Glendon N. Kline, Pvt. John K. Randall, Pvt. James S. Wright, Cumberland, Pvt. Roland E. Shanholtz, Pleasantdale, W. Va., and Pvt. James S. Wright, who were promoted to privates first class. Also receiving a promotion warrant was Cpl. Bashor A. Cross Jr., who was promoted to sergeant.

It was further announced by Maj. Algieri that during the last two drills, the unit has enlisted five men under the new 1955 Reserve Law. They are Pvt. Fay M. Emerick, Pvt. James E. Lepley, both from Wellersburg, Pa., Pvt. Donald L. Stickley of 227 South Mechanic Street, Pvt. James W. Yantz, Mt. Savage, and Pvt. Walter J. Cutchall, RFD 5, Cumberland.

In conjunction with the newly acquired recruits, an award of $25 savings bond is to be given to the member of the Sixth Special Infantry Company who obtains the most recruits for the past three months. Receiving this award for his outstanding recruiting during the last quarter, was Tech. Sgt. Francis M. Lee, Cresaptown.

Union Ratifies Two Contracts

Members of Local 453, Teamsters Union (AFL), yesterday ratified contract offers made by two local firms and asked officers to continue negotiations on a third.

Workers at the City Ice and Fuel Company accepted a pact which includes a five-cent wage boost, retroactive to July 1, and another three cents next year, according to C. E. Stutzman, business agent.

The pact will cover about 30 workers and will run until July 1, 1957, he said.

Workers in the shipping department at the Cumberland Undergarment Company ratified a one-year pact providing 10 cents, retroactive to September 1, and another 10 cents in January, Stutzman said. It covers about 15 workers.

He said both pacts include $9.75 a month for health and welfare benefits.

Workers employed at the C. D. Kenny Division, Consolidated Grocers Corporation, he said, turned down a company contract proposal and directed officers to continue negotiations.

Optimists Will Hear Talk On Plastics

The Cumberland Optimist Club will hear talks on plastics at its meeting at 6:15 p. m. today at Central YMCA.

Arthur C. Morgan, president, and Charles E. Kolb, general manager of the Artmor Plastics Corporation, Oldtown Road, will discuss the products they produce.

Poultry Plant Production Is Near Normal

Most Strikers Return To Work

The Rockingham Poultry Marketing Cooperative strike at the Moorefield plant continues, union officials said yesterday, but plant management claimed production is near a normal level.

Walter Petit, manager of the Moorefield operation, said 100 of the 130 production workers had signed up for work on Monday, but only 90 of these were put to work because of some new machinery recently installed.

A picket line is still moving in front of the poultry plant as the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workers Union AFL continues its strike, he said. The plant is accepting poultry from farmers and growers as it is brought in, Petit noted.

State Police and town police are still on duty and no further violence or disorder has been reported for several days. In the early day of the two-week-old walkout, there were repeated brushes between pickets and others and some vandalism was charged to the strikers.

Victor Pringle, general manager of all the six plants of the big processing cooperative, met with union officials in Chicago last week but no announcement has been made of any agreement or conclusion to the wage and fringe dispute. The terms of the union demands, he said, will be made public after a meeting of the board of directors of the firm in Broadway, Va., Monday.

Two of the company plants, one at Alma, Va., and the other at Stuarts Draft, Va., have not been called out on strike by the union. Struck plants besides Moorefield are Winchester, Richmond and Broadway.

Company officials, however, report operations at all the plants have continued and are nearing a normal level.

Contracts expired Sept. 9 for workers at plants at Broadway, Richmond and Winchester, Va., and Moorefield, W. Va. The strike began two days later.

The union asked that the minimum pay scale be hiked from 89 cents to $1.25 an hour.

Pringle said today the demand had been reduced to 95 cents an hour for the present, with a boost to $1 in January and $1.05 in March when the minimum wage of $1 an hour goes into effect.

Pringle said the co-op takes the view its pay scale and other benefits are higher than most of its competitors.

Property Is Sold

Stephen J. Maschue and Jane F. Maschue have sold property on the northwest side of Braddock Street near the National Turnpike, about four miles west of Cumberland, to Thomas E. Hollingsworth and Josephine B. Hollingsworth, according to a deed filed for record yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

County Employes Will Get Holiday

Virtually all Allegany County employes will get a holiday today as both the Court House and Union Street Building will be closed in observance of Columbus Day.

Most state officers will be closed too, including the Department of Employment Security. Although public schools will be open, all Catholic schools in the Archdiocese of Baltimore are scheduled to be closed.

Gridder Is Injured

Kenneth Yankelevitz, 13, of 510 Frederick Street was admitted to Memorial Hospital on Monday suffering from a fractured left arm which he injured while playing football with the Allegany High School eighth grade team at Romney, W. Va.

Md. Demos Up Ante On Dinner

New Price Set At $100 A Plate

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11 (AP)—Maryland Democrats tonight upped the ante on their advertised $25-a-plate dinner Nov. 28 to $100-a-plate in hopes of wiping out a $35,000 debt and getting a running start on the next campaign.

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) will be the principal speaker and state party leaders hope at least 1,000 well-heeled party members will be on hand.

The decision to make the dinner a real fund raising affair came out of a meeting of about 75 top Democrats who discussed finances and other party matters.

Michael J. Birmingham, president of the Baltimore County Commissioners and chairman of the dinner committee, presided.

It was decided that in view of the circumstances, a $25 dinner would not come close to fulfilling its purpose and that it would be just as easy to sell tickets for four times that amount.

Birmingham said the state party owes about $17,000 to the Democratic National Committee and still has a deficit of something under $20,000 as a leftover from the ill-fated 1954 Maryland general election campaign.

With the governor's mansion, both Senate seats and three of the seven congressional seats in Republican hands, and campaign money harder to come by these days, Democrats feel their war chest needs stuffing.

Their immediate aim is to retake the Senate seat now held by John Marshall Butler whose term expires next year.

The Republicans also are planning a $100-a-plate dinner for the fall.

Area Man Hurt In 50-Foot Fall From Barn Roof

A 40-year-old Ridgeley area man was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment of injuries suffered in a 50-foot fall.

He is Harold Nestor, Route 1, Ridgeley, who was in a "fair" condition last night. His injuries included a fractured right leg and injuries of both arms.

He told the hospital he fell while he was painting the roof of a barn at his mother's home in Fort Ashby, W. Va.

Man Hurt In Plane

William O'Neal, 27, of Oldtown, was treated in Memorial Hospital on Monday for lacerations above both eyes suffered when he struck his head on the panel board of his small airplane while landing at the Cumberland Airport. The pilot said the craft struck a small rock or obstruction and threw him against the panel.

Barter Theatre Will Stage Mystery Play Here Tonight

The Barter Theatre of Virginia will make its first appearance of the season here at 8:20 o'clock tonight in the Allegany High School auditorium when a first-rate melodrama, "Dial M for Murder," will be presented.

This brisk well-plotted murder-mystery will be sponsored here by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce again this year. Proceeds will be used to purchase an incubator for Sacred Heart Hospital. Season tickets may be obtained from any Jaycee and tickets for tonight are available at Jack-N-Jill Shop, North Centre Street.

E. F. Mullan Jr. is chairman of the Jaycee Barter Theatre committee.

The performance here tonight is part of a six-week tour which is taking the players to seven states from Maryland to South Carolina. They also include Kentucky, Virginia, North Carolina, West Virginia and Tennessee.

Featured in the cast are Owen Phillips, Jeannette Randall, Del Close, Jerry Hardin, Richard McKenzie, George Baron and Warren Beckman.

Retail Grocers Arrange Dinner For Oct. 19

Mayors Invited To Annual Event

The Independent Retail Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland is pushing plans for its 11th anual dinner which will be held at the St. Mary's Recreation Hall on Oldtown Road Wednesday, October 19, at 7 p. m.

Luther Hutter Sr., president of both the Western Maryland and state association of retail food dealers, said the mayors of the 15 incorporated cities and towns in Allegany and Garrett counties and their wives have been invited as special guests.

"I think it is most fitting that we should honor these men who give so unselfishly of their time and energy in the noble work of helping to make communities better places in which to live," Hutter said in commenting upon the invitations to the mayors.

"They have much in common with the independent retail food dealers. They have worked with us in the building of our cities and towns."

A number of visiting retail grocers also are expected for the dinner meeting. They are expected from Cambridge, Baltimore, Carroll, Frederick and Washington counties.

Harold Barry, who has officiated at previous entertainments for the grocers, will serve as master of ceremonies for the entertainment program. One of the featured acts will be the Pittsburghers, a male quartet which won a national barber shop quartet contest last year.

More than 600 are expected for the dinner.

Rev. Maurice D. Robertson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will deliver the invocation. The St. Mary's High School girls orchestra will play dinner music.

City Collects 31 Per Cent Of 1955 Levy

The City of Cumberland has collected almost a third of its 1955 levy and spending is right on par, according to a first quarter report issued yesterday by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor.

The report on the condition of the levy on September 30 showed total collections of $493,286.14, or 30.9 per cent of the $1,595,630 levy.

Tax collections, far ahead of schedule, totaled $261,877.51, or 23.2 per cent of the $1,128,500 tax levy.

The rosy report on tax collections reflected the fact that workers in the city finance department had tax bills out almost a week ahead of schedule.

Tax collections are expected to be in the vicinity of 85 per cent by October 24, the last day taxes may be paid at par.

The various departments of the city had spent $336,715.95 on September 30, leaving $1,013,580.86 for the other nine months.

The spending represents 24.93 per cent of the operating expenditures. For all practical purposes that is right on schedule, since par is 25 per cent.

Company Submits Low Road Bid

BALTIMORE, Oct. 11 (AP) — The Cumberland Contracting Co. today submitted the apparent low bid of $324,954 for overhauling a 1.4-mile stretch of U. S. 220 near Dawson in Allegany County.

The George F. Hazlewood Co. of Cumberland was second low at $356,527 and two other bids ran as high as $403,304.

The project calls for grading, drainage, relocation, surfacing and re-surfacing of the stretch.

The Williams Construction Co. of Baltimore was apparent low bidder at $830,607 on a section of the Baltimore Beltway and its interchange with the Dulaney Valley road in Baltimore County.

Woman Is Injured In Fall At Home

Mrs. Leah VanMeter, wife of Grover VanMeter, 310 North Waverly Terrace, was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment of injuries suffered in a fall at her home.

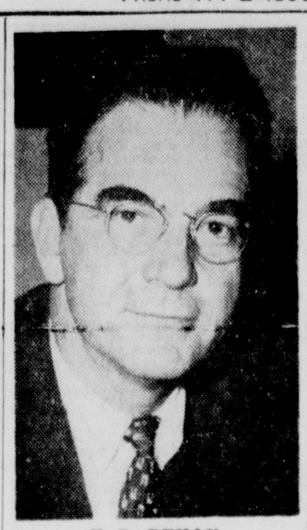

She told the hospital she hit her head on a cellar door and that the force of the blow threw her back, causing her to fall on a lawn mower.

Mrs. VanMeter was listed in fair condition, suffering from possible right shoulder and back injuries.

South End Firemen Called Out Twice

South End firemen were called out twice to extinguish the same grass fire yesterday afternoon.

They first responded at 4:18 p.m. when they were informed of a grass fire somewhere on South Street. Because the location was indefinite, the firemen were unable to find the blaze. They got a second call at 4:28 p.m., two minutes after their return, and this time found the fire at the end of Blackiston Avenue and Frank's Lane. There was no damage.

F. R. REILLY

Md. Insurance Sessions Open Here Sunday

Speakers Announced For Three-Day Event

F. R. Reilly, assistant secretary of AFCO Inc., New York, will be one of the principal speakers at the 19th annual convention of the Maryland Association of Insurance Agents, which opens here Sunday.

Reilly's address, scheduled Monday at 3:30 p.m., will be on the subject of budgeting automobile, fire, casualty and other premiums.

Registration for the three-day fall convention is already at the 170 mark and is expected to reach 300. Officials yesterday urged agents in Allegany and Garrett counties to register as soon as possible so plans can be completed.

The Fort Cumberland Hotel will be the headquarters for the convention. Social activities will be at Ali Ghan Country Club and the Cumberland Country Club.

Tournament Planned

Sunday's activities will include a golf tournament beginning at 12:30 p.m. at the Cumberland Country Club.

The Allegany-Garrett Association of Insurance Agents will sponsor a cocktail party there at 6 p.m. A dutch treat buffet supper will be held at 7 p.m., followed by entertainment.

Business activities get under way Monday morning at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

The annual business meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m., followed by a luncheon at 12:30 p.m. in the hotel ballroom.

Monday afternoon Joseph F. Leopold, Chicago, of the National Tax Equality Association, speaks at 2:30 p.m. and Reilly's speech is scheduled at 3:30 p.m.

Social Session Set

A special program is planned, beginning at 6 p.m. at the Cumberland Country Club.

Tuesday's activities get under way at convention headquarters at 9:30 a.m. and at 10:30 a.m., Albert L. Latham, Baltimore, will speak on "General Liability."

Luncheon at 12:30 p.m. will be followed by an address by P. K. Mullen, Pittsburgh, on "New Marine Definition and What it Means to You."

Slated Tuesday at 6 p.m. at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club is the annual banquet, which will be followed by a floor show, imported from Pittsburgh, and a dance.

Plans for the convention are being made by Robert E. Barnard, general chairman; Thomas F. Conlon Jr., reservations; James B. Reinhart, speakers; John E. Geare, entertainment; D. Clifford Goodfellow, publicity, and Miss Naoma M. Flanagan, women's activities.

Jury Awards Post $3,750 For Land In Morgan County

A condemnation jury in Morgan County returned an award of $3,750 for property owned by former Mayor Thomas S. Post and needed for a bridge approach.

Mayor Post, who has owned a Morgan County farm for a number of years, had asked the West Virginia State Roads Commission $7,500 for the desired property. The state held the value was too high and instituted a condemnation suit at Berkeley Springs.

The land is needed, the state claims, for an approach to Fisher's Ford Bridge.

Eichner's New Car Gets 'Good' Start

W. Edward Eichner, one of the county assessors, was a mighty happy man yesterday as he drove his brand new 1955 automobile toward his home at 1100 Frederick Street.

That was until he got to the intersection of Frederick and Decatur streets. There another motorist failed to observe a stop sign on Decatur Street and plowed into Eichner's new car. The assessor figures damage to the car, which had less than 70 miles on its speedometer, at something like $300.

To Confer Degrees

Salem Council 11, Royal Arch Masons, will confer the Royal and Select Masters Degrees tonight at the Masonic Temple, and a buffet supper will follow. Donald L. Keefauver, thrice illustrious master, urges all members to attend.

Davis School Strikers Plan To Stay Out

Board Reports 78 On Absentee List

The Davis, W. Va., school building remained under siege of picketing students and parents yesterday, as townspeople continued their protest against consolidating Davis High School with Thomas High School, and Thomas Junior High School with Davis Junior High School.

The strike started a week ago when some 35 or more students living in the Davis area refused to attend classes at Thomas. The group was joined later by a number of junior high school students and a few from elementary grades.

Yesterday, student leaders and several parents avowed that the strike will continue "until we get our high school back."

In the meantime, the County Board of Education called a special meeting at Parsons yesterday afternoon and checked the situation.

After the meetinf, a spokesman for the board said that the strike of students at Davis was discussed and it was determined that students are remaining away from classes and are picketing the Davis school building in an orderly and quiet manner.

Absentee Report Released

Yesterday's report of absentees, the board spokesman said, shows that 35 high school students residing in the Davis area failed to report for classes at the Thomas High School. The absentee report also showed that 44 junior high school students were absent yesterday from Davis Junior High School, and nine were absent from Davis Elementary School. Only one junior high school student from Thomas was absent at Davis Junior High, and he was reported ill.

It was presumed that the total number of students engaged in the picketing activity at Davis is 78.

In recent reports, parents had claimed as many as 105 and school officials had placed the number as low as 26.

The students yesterday remained on a vacant lot opposite the Davis school building all day. They had a picnic lunch furnished by Davis merchants who are reported in sympathy with efforts to return the high school to Davis, which had the first high school in the county.

No Action Taken

No legal action has been taken by the Board of Education against the students or parents, but a board spokesman said they had been warned that it is illegal for the students to remain out of school, and it is also illegal for the parents or other persons to encourage them to do so.

Members of the Board of Education include John Yeager of Thomas, president; Clyde King and John Campbell of the St. George District; W. Del Roy Harner of Parsons, and Dr. Guy H. Michael Sr., of Parsons. Stellman Harper is superintendent of schools.

All the board members except Dr. Michael, who is ill, attended the meeting yesterday.

Churches Plan Leader Training

Methodist ministers of the Cumberland Subdistrict will sponsor a leadership training school at LaVale Methodist Church October 17-19 and October 24-26 from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m.

The ministers said the school will be of interest to all church school workers and ministers.

Courses to be offered are:

"Guiding Junior Children in Christian Growth," to be taught by Mrs. Floyd Cozad, a teacher in the junior department of LaVale Methodist Church school.

"Guiding Intermediates," by Miss Juanita Powers, director of youth work for the Board of Education of the Baltimore Conference of the Methodist Church.

"Helping Adults Learn," by Miss Lillian C. Compton, a teacher in the adult department of Grace Methodist Church School and former president of Frostburg State Teachers College.
